JEWETT ESTATE HEIRS REFUSE TO ACCEPT CITY'S OFFER

John J. Harvey, Esq., appeared before the municipal council at the regular meeting this morning and argued that the heirs of the Jewett estate ought to be allowed at least $6000 for the property on Kirk street, adjoining the high school, and next to the Costello property, seized by the city for part of the new high school site. The owners have refused to accept the valuation of the city and yet do not care to take the matter to the courts except as a last resort.

Mr. Harvey stated that the case was different from all others involved in the seizure of these properties. He said that the property was assessed for $4550 which, he claimed was very much below a fair market value, the Costello property being assessed for $6300. While the Costello property had more land area he contended that the Jewett place was the more valuable, being a "corner lot" and nearer to Merrimack street. He reviewed the history of the property since it was built stating that much money had been lost because of the inability of the owners to lease a building so near the school.

His conclusions were based, he said, partly on the expert judgment of Simon B. Harris, who thought that $1.25 per foot would be a fair assessment. This was the price set on the land of the Genoa club property. "We think," said Mr. Harvey, "that the land and buildings on Kirk street were as valuable as those on Anne street

DENY REPORT OF LOSS OF THE DEUTSCHLAND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Deutschland, Germany's submarine merchantman, is believed in quarters here which should know, to be now on her second voyage to the United States. Knowledge of the date the vessel is supposed to have started from Germany is disclaimed.

News despatches from Switzerland reporting that the Deutschland, as well as the Bremen had been lost and that the former started for the United States during September were discredited. It was emphatically declared that the Deutschland was in a German port all of last month.

It also was said today that in the future all German submarines coming to the United States whether naval or merchantmen, will make either New London or Newport their port of call. No more submarines will enter Hampton Roads because of the danger of nets being dropped to trap them off the Virginia capes.

American submarines are usually operating in the waters off New London and Newport at all times of the year. British nets dropped there might endanger American vessels and the lives of American sailors. German officials do not believe that the British would take the chance of netting an American vessel. Consequently German submarines will take advantage of the better opportunity for clear paths off the Connecticut and Rhode Island coasts.

AMERICANS LOST WHEN BRITISH SHIP SANK; SURVIVORS TALK

Thirteen persons, among them probably some Americans, are missing from the British steamer Marina, according to American Consul Frost at Queenstown, who reports survivors as stating that the vessel was torpedoed without warning in a heavy sea and sank in 10 minutes.

SEC. LANSING TALKS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Secretary Lansing said today that his reports on the destruction of the British ship Marina with probable loss of American lives still was too incomplete to permit of any conclusions or to allow him to discuss the case. Fuller reports with affidavits of American survivors have been ordered by cable.

This morning's news despatches saying some of the survivors had seen the wake of a torpedo and that the ship was struck twice added gravity to the situation.

Officials noted, however, that the British admiralty was not prepared to say the ship was torpedoed and that Consul Frost's report yesterday said she was destroyed by gun fire.

Entirely aside from the first aspects of the case, officials made it clear that no conclusions could be drawn until all apparently conflicting circumstances could be cleared up and evidence had been gathered in legal form.

Admittedly the case was viewed as more serious than any since the destruction of the Sussex, as it is the first involving loss of American life, but the state department gave no evidence of tension as it set about gathering the facts.

Since the original reports given out yesterday, the state department has not made any further information public. The case is being handled directly by Secretary Lansing and any further facts will be given out through him when made public.

WOULD PUNISH COMMANDER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The German embassy does not believe the evidence will show the pledges given to the United States have been violated. It is said at the embassy, however, that if a commander of a submarine has violated or exceeded his orders, his action would be promptly met with a severe punishment.

Officials of the embassy feel that Consul Frost's despatch yesterday saying the Marina had been shelled, indicated that the vessel was trying to escape.

CONSUL FROST'S REPORT

LONDON, Oct. 31, 11.40 a. m.—The number of missing from the British steamship Marina, which was torpedoed by a submarine off the Irish coast, has now been reduced to 13, according to a telegram received at the American embassy today from Wesley Frost, American consul at Queenstown. Fifty-two more survivors have been landed. Mr. Frost reports that among the 13 lost there probably will be American fatalities.

Mr. Frost's telegram to the embassy follows:

"Fifty-two more survivors of the Marina landed at Castletown pier. Only 13 now missing, believed dead. Not less than 36 Americans aboard, of whom 16 saved at Crookhaven. There will probably be some American fatalities."

Survivors state the vessel was torpedoed without warning in heavy sea, and sank within ten minutes."

Mr. Frost is obtaining affidavits from survivors and ascertaining how many Americans are among the Castletown survivors.

The American embassy today received a telegram from the American consul at Glasgow stating that the Marina left Glasgow Oct. 25, for Baltimore and Newport News with 50 Americans aboard.

There were 49 Americans in the crew of the Marina. First reports of her sinking said only 34 members of the crew had been brought to land. Mr. Frost sent word yesterday to the American embassy at London that the Marina had been torpedoed without warning but the British admiralty said it had not ascertained whether warning was given.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

LONDON, Oct. 31, 11.57.—A private telegram received today from Crookhaven by Robert P. Skinner, American consul-general, says that among the survivors from the Marina who were landed at Crookhaven are 16 Americans. One of them is Frank Howard Smith, a veterinary surgeon.

According to the telegram received by Mr. Skinner, survivors report that two boats containing 63 men left the Marina at the same time and have not been accounted for. (This telegram evidently was sent before news had been received that 52 more survivors had landed at Castletown.) The weather was unusually severe at the time the Marina was sunk and has been since then.

The Marina was struck amidships. A terrific explosion occurred on the starboard side. The second torpedo struck the bow and the steamship went down almost immediately in two parts. It is reported seven men were killed while attempting to get into boats.

Sailors saw the wake of a torpedo according to these advices and until the ship was struck thought it was a fish.

SANK WITHIN TEN MINUTES

LONDON, Oct. 31, 11.47 a. m.—The British steamship Marina sank within ten minutes after being torpedoed, Wesley Frost, American consul at Queenstown, reported to the American embassy today. He said survivors state the vessel was torpedoed without warning.

PRES. WILSON AWAITS FACTS

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 31.—President Wilson this morning was still without such definite information concerning the submarine attacks on vessels carrying Americans yesterday to enable him to reach a conclusion. It was said here that he had given directions that as soon as conclusive facts were gathered by the state department they should be forwarded to him.

LONDON PAPERS COMMENT

LONDON, Oct. 31—Basing their comments on the earlier news that a large number of Americans lost their lives when the British steamer Marina was sunk by a German submarine, the London evening newspapers are again asking what the United States government will do.

BERLIN REPORTS FRENCH AND BRITISH REPULSED ALONG THE SOMME

Berlin's report on the latest operations on the Somme front announced repulses for the British near Lesboeufs, north of the river, and of the French, who attacked La Maisonnette farm and the new German positions south of Biaches.

The German artillery broke up attempts by strong French forces to advance in the region of Chaulnes, it is declared.

Russian Attacks In East

The eastern front again is stirring with activity. From the north of the Volhynian region to the south of Halicz, on the Lemberg front, the Russians are attacking and in the sector west of Lutsk report the capture of Austro-German first line trenches.

Teutons Take Russian Positions

Berlin announces not only the repulse of Russian attacks on the Sbara and below Stanislau, southeast of Lemberg, but claims the capture of important Russian positions in the Narayuvka region, in the vicinity of Halicz.

On Transylvanian Front

Fighting on the Transylvania front continues violent in the mountain passes and near the frontier. No further advances by the Austro-German forces are claimed. However, while Petrograd reports the Rumanians continuing their successes in the Jiul valley, pressing Field Marshal von Falkenhayn's forces farther north.

Rumanian Efforts Fail

Berlin claims the failure of Rumanian efforts to re-capture heights north of Campulung, where the Austro-German advance had pressed a considerable distance into Rumanian territory southwest of Kronstadt.

Quiet at Verdun

On the Somme front in northern France the intense activity of the past few days had diminished until now only artillery fighting is reported in that area. Similar conditions prevail before Verdun.

French and Serbs Advance

In Macedonia, further progress for the French and Serbians west of Lake Presba, southwest of Monastir region is reported by Paris. The Bulgarians announce an entente defeat in attacks in the Cerna region, southeast of Monastir, and the driving back of the Serbians near Nonte, in the Moglenica district, farther east.

British Casualties

During October, British casualties reported from all war theatres were 4331 officers and 102,702 men, London advices today state.

Germany Orders Reprisals

Germany has directed reprisals upon Russian prisoners because of Russian non-compliance with German demands for improved treatment of German prisoners, according to a semi-official announcement in Berlin. Certain Russian officers have been placed in camps where the discipline is especially severe.

BIG DEMOCRATIC RALLY THIS EVENING

Everything is in readiness for the big democratic rally to be held in Associate hall this evening, the biggest and liveliest rally of the present campaign. Humphrey O'Sullivan received a telegram this morning from Judge Alton B. Parker of New York stating that he would attend the big rally in Lowell. Mr. O'Sullivan went to Boston on the 3 o'clock train this afternoon to meet Judge Parker and will return with him this evening. Other speakers will include Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield, candidate for governor; Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor Curley of Boston; Mr. Joseph Joyce Donahue, candidate for attorney general; Mr. Thomas M. Nolan, director of the Mansfield Flying Wedge of Massachusetts, and others. Mr. John H. Harrington of The Lowell Sun will preside. The rally will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

Party Leaders Encouraged

Responsive crowds at the various democratic rallies yesterday greatly encouraged the party leaders and the state committee has completed arrangements to speed up the campaign for the remainder of the week.

Mayor Curley of Boston yesterday started a movement to have the president attend a mass meeting in that city on Friday. Mayor Curley sent the following telegram to the president at Shadow Lawn:

"Democratic enthusiasm unparalleled here with opening of closing week of campaign. Your presence imperative for democratic victory for both national and state tickets. Will you not come here Friday evening, Nov. 3, and address great mass meeting with message of impending victory?"

Ex-Gov. Walsh will speak at the noon meeting in Faneuil Hall Friday, together with United States Senator Ollie James of Kentucky and the candidates on the state ticket.

It was also announced at democratic state headquarters yesterday that Hon. Michael Francis Doyle of Philadelphia, who defended Sir Roger Casement in his trial for treason in London recently, is coming to participate in the Massachusetts campaign. Mr. Doyle will probably arrive in Boston tomorrow to place himself at the disposal of Chairman Riley of the speakers' bureau of the Massachusetts state committee. Congressman Carter Glass of Virginia is scheduled to speak at Lynn tomorrow night.

Today scores of noon rallies were held in Boston and other cities and large towns, and besides the Lowell rally tonight there will also be rallies in Worcester, Haverhill and Lawrence.

Dance tonight, Highland hall.

SLOWEY-BRENNEN TANGLE

Disposition of the Slowey-Brennen tangle will be made this evening at a meeting of the democratic ward committees of 1, 2 and 9, when the joint committee will select either Slowey or Brennen's name to go on the ballot as representative candidate for the 14th district. It was stated at city hall this morning that the state printer is holding up the ballots until the selection is made and the name of the man chosen sent to that department.

MAN CHARGED WITH MURDER IS PLACED UNDER OBSERVATION

Thomas H. Kelliher was arraigned before Judge Enright in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with having murdered Daniel Cronin at the state infirmary in Tewksbury on October 16. Inasmuch as the man has been an inmate at Tewksbury since 1899 and there is a question as to his sanity the court by agreement with Deputy District Attorney Robert J. Crowley ordered Kelliher committed to the insane hospital at Worcester for thirty days for observation.

Kelliher and Cronin were in the insane department at Tewksbury but it was considered that neither was dangerous for the former had been in several departments of the institution. On the morning of the 16th, it is alleged that while the two men were going to the breakfast table Kelliher knocked Cronin down on the floor and

LA FOLLETTE FOR WILSON DESPITE REPORTS

Special to The Sun

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 31.—United States Senator LaFollette has broken with the republicans of Wisconsin, although it had been announced that he would come out for Hughes within the past few days. He has failed to make good the republican forecast and further evidence of friction is furnished by a speech made by E. L. Philips, republican candidate for governor. Senator LaFollette's strongest supporters are openly urging the election of Wilson and LaFollette.

HEAPS OF MONEY

The city treasurer's office at city hall was yesterday one of the busiest places of the city. Of course there was a reason, for yesterday was the last day of grace accorded the taxpayers before the six per cent interest went into effect. As a result of the office corps being kept busy the sum of $171,395.62 was received for 1916 taxes, while delinquents, who had not paid their 1915 taxes swelled the treasury by $518. Water bills were also paid yesterday to the amount of $12,903.94.

Beginning today interest at the rate of six per cent will be charged on all unpaid taxes, the interest dating back to Oct. 15.

POOR GET THEIR DOLE OF FISH AT NEW YORK'S SEA FOOD MARKET

GETTING THEIR SUPPLY OF FREE FISH

SEN. LODGE'S BUSINESS TO OUST DEMOCRATS

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in his vicious attack on President Wilson is running true to the sentiments he expressed after Candidate Hughes' speech of acceptance. On Aug. 1st, the New York Telegram, evening edition of the Herald, which is one of Hughes's staunchest supporters, reported this interview:

"It was suggested to Senator Lodge that the newspapers were charging that the republican nominee's speech contained nothing constructive but was devoted to criticisms of the great administration. He was asked why the republican nominee offered nothing constructive. With an exhibition of peevishness the senator said:

"'Why ask that democratic question? What business is it of the opposition to construct? Our business is to throw them out of power and that is what we are going to do.'"

CANNOT SELL VESSELS

MANILA, P. I., Oct.—The right of Philippine ship owners to sell their vessels without government sanction is expressly denied in a decision made by the board of public utility commissioners. The board refused the petition of Yuchansti & Co., a local shipping firm, for permission to sell the inter-island steamer, Governor Forbes.

The board says that it can see no reason in law or economic morals why the firm of Yuchansti & Co. should be permitted to make the 100 per cent profit, which the sale would mean to them, instead of the annual 30 per cent profit, which the vessel is yielding, at the cost of the welfare of the people of the Philippines. The Governor Forbes has been plying between Manila and Iloilo, the sugar metropolis, for some years though this service has been suspended for the past few months while the vessel was on charter to trans-Pacific carriers.

The board does not attempt to pass upon the legal aspects of its decision, but confines itself to a statement that the organic act which established the board of public utility commissioners gives it power to refuse permission for the sale of public utility company property.

The steamship company will appeal.

C., with a view of placing Miss Brewster in family care for the remainder of her life.

TWO WOMEN RUNNING FOR CONGRESS

TWO SCORE WOMEN IN CONTEST FOR STATE OFFICES—MANY SOCIALISTS

NEW YORK, Oct. — Official lists of candidates of recognized parties for the congressional and state elections coincident with the presidential voting on November 7 show that there will be at least two women running for congress and more than two score women in the contest for state offices, ranging from governor down.

In Montana Jeannette Rankin is the regular republican nominee for congress and in Colorado Hattie K. Howard is running on a progressive ticket.

The Associated Press has just compiled all of the state tickets from every state in the Union and it appears from these lists that there are exactly 46 women candidates for various state offices. This figure may be slightly reduced or increased by the fact that some names which almost certainly seem to be those of women are in rare cases also names of men, and it is possible that some women have escaped identification by the use of initials instead of their full name, but the figures given, if not precise are interesting, since they develop the following facts:

Of the 46 women seeking state offices the majority (24) are nominees of the socialist party.

Idaho is the only state in the United States where a woman is candidate for governor, Annie E. Triplow, being the socialist nominee for chief executive there.

There are thirteen states throughout the country where women are seeking state offices, namely, Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Illinois, and Kansas.

In Washington there are two women candidates, prohibitionist and socialist, for the office of lieutenant-governor, and two women of the same parties for state treasurer.

In Connecticut, Rhode Island, Arizona, Colorado, and Kansas there are women candidates for secretary of state. Various other offices, principally as trustees of state universities, or superintendents of public instruction, are those for which women have been named. In only one or two rare instances does it appear that the women candidates are now holding the office for which they seek election.

CHILDREN COLLECTED PAPER

WASHINGTON, Oct. — Children of the public schools of the District of Columbia, after a few days' campaign, which is to continue indefinitely, have collected approximately 27 tons of old newspapers and magazines which sold for $317 and the money has been placed in a fund for the equipment of playgrounds and other social activities. The plan for collecting the old papers was suggested by The Evening Star which pointed out that it would serve a double purpose, assisting the children to obtain better playgrounds and help the paper trade in the present shortage. The plan was approved by education authorities and has been taken up enthusiastically by the school children.

During the first five days, 54,529 pounds of old newspapers and magazines were taken to the school buildings by the children. The last day of the week totalled 22,119 pounds, one school contributing 3923 pounds. The papers were sold at the rate of 50 cents per hundred pounds for the newspapers and $1 per hundred pounds for magazines. The individual schools will receive the greater proportion of the money received from their contributions and part of the sum goes into a general fund.

MATRIMONIAL

Charles H. Ryder, Jr., of Billerica and Miss Annie Ferguson of Newark, N. J., were married yesterday afternoon by Rev. N. W. Matthews at the parsonage of the Gorham Street M. E. church, 15 Ellsworth street. The couple were unattended.

Grant—Farrington

A pretty marriage took place last evening when Fred A. Grant, an accountant for the Lee, Higginson Co., of Boston, and Miss Edith Farrington, of this city, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at 6 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception rectory by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O.M.I. The bride was attired in white crepe meteor with silver trimmings. She wore a veil caught up with lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was a sister of the bride, Miss Clara Farrington, who wore white Georgette crepe with pink picture hat and carried pink chrysanthemums. The best man was James Farley. At the close of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride, 132 Perry street, where a brief reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Grant, who were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts left in the evening on an extended honeymoon trip and after January 1 they will be at home to their friends at 7 Taylor street, Melrose Highlands.

CONDEMNS U. S. BIPLANES

AMESTERDAM, via LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Batavia correspondent of the Telegraaf wires that the war department is in consternation over an aeronautical expert's report condemning American biplanes supplied the government, on the ground that their cylinders are too soft and are worn out after two hours of flight. The correspondent says the trials have been stopped and that the Dutch committee in San Francisco is blamed for passing the machines after a too perfunctory examination.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

A pretty Halloween party was held last evening at the home of Mrs. William Wood, 957 Lakeview avenue. There were about 75 young people present and the evening was spent in playing Halloween games and singing. The house was appropriately decorated.

IF YOU WOULD VIEW THE FUTURE SCENE, CONSULT THE WITCH OF HALLOWEEN!

'Tis Halloween; when witches walk, we gather round to see them stalk. Let's try the apple ducking game and other stunts of ancient fame. We yearn to read our future fates and hope the night will show our mates. The most important thing to learn is "Shall our hearts no longer yearn?" And so we toss the apple peel and peeps within the mirror steal. 'Tis time for mystic spells, I ween; let's all be gay on Halloween!

Will Lodge's Roorback Elect Fitzgerald?

This Is What the Springfield Republican Says:

"THE LODGE ROORBACK"

"If this campaign could only be prolonged a fortnight, our distinguished senior Senator might succeed in electing John F. Fitzgerald of Boston to the United States Senate for the six-year term beginning in March next.

Our distinguished senior senator's Lusitania "postscript" story seems to be his most remarkable contribution to the campaign. A statesman of great reputation and a politician of long experience, Mr. Lodge arrested the attention of the country when he put into circulation this singularly infamous charge against the President of the United States. A day later he disclosed his authority for the accusation he had so deliberately fathered.

It turned out that our distinguished senior senator, historian, statesman and scholar got the story from ex-Lieut.-Gov. Grafton Cushing, who got it from a medical professor in Tufts College named Bailey, who got it from young Mr. Breckinridge of Kentucky,—he resigned his post as assistant secretary of war last winter—and who was amiable enough to disclose in an unrecorded conversation this horrible state secret to the aforesaid medical professor on a railroad train between San Francisco and Omaha sometime last July. Mr. Breckinridge was himself not a member of the cabinet circle and depended upon hearsay, according to the Bailey-Cushing Lodge version of the incident. Here, of course, was evidence that would not convict the traditional yellow dog; but Mr. Lodge, having presented it as a crushing demonstration of the truthfulness of his charge, said to his Somerville audience in his most senatorial manner: "This simply throws an additional light on the shifty character of this administration in its foreign policies."

While Mr. Lodge is taking such a lofty flight in political discussion, it is a pity to disturb his complacency. But four cabinet ministers, Messrs. Lane, Houston, McAdoo and Gregory, have already branded the "postscript" story as a falsehood; and Mr. Breckinridge himself is now heard from to this effect in a telegram to the Philadelphia Public Ledger:

"Anyone who quoted me to Senator Lodge as represented in your telegram is a scoundrel. No member of President Wilson's Cabinet ever threatened him on any subject. The malice that would seek for partisan advantage to emasculate the potency of one's government in a vital international affair by the mongering of backstairs gossip is beneath contempt."

Right there the incident may be left, at least for the time being. We were prepared to subject the Tuft's professor's story, upon which the distinguished senior Senator relied, to a searching analysis in order that its various misconceptions, absurdities and misstatements of fact might be hung up to dry in the high noonday sun of pitiless publicity. But Mr. Breckinridge's very indignant repudiation of the story and his hot denunciation of the professor makes the further consideration of the case seem superfluous.

Webster defines a roorback as "a defamatory falsehood printed for political effect." The distinguished senior Senator is scholar enough to know how the word "roorback" came into our language. Meanwhile, John F. Fitzgerald of Boston begins to grow in size, when compared with this Massachusetts inheritor of a proud tradition and a great past."

kicking him inflicted injuries which resulted in Cronin's death.

Kelliher was brought to the police court this morning by two of the officers of the institution and arraigned on the serious charge of murder after which Major Crowley and Judge Enright conferred and it was deemed advisable to place the defendant under observation. Judge Enright in passing on the case said that he understood that while Kelliher was considered insane he had never been legally adjudged so. Dr. George A. Peirce, first assistant superintendent at the infirmary, was the complainant in the case.

Motorcycle a Menace

"The motorcycle is a menace to the community, they are worse than automobiles and I am going to stop overspeeding if there is any way of doing it," said Judge Enright in police court this morning after imposing a fine of $30 on Charles E. Downing of Lynn.

Downing was charged with operating a motorcycle in the town of Tewksbury on October 22d at an unreasonable rate of speed and a second count charged him with recklessly operating a motor vehicle which endangered the lives and safety of the public. He entered a plea of guilty to the first count and not guilty to the second. After the court considered the evidence in the case the defendant was found guilty on the first count and a fine of $30 imposed, the second count being placed on file.

According to the testimony of Chief Frank Farmer of Tewksbury the defendant passed through Tewksbury on the 22d of this month on a motorcycle which was travelling between 40 and 50 miles an hour and after making a curve crashed into an automobile. Downing and John Landry, who was also on the machine, were thrown to the ground and suffered a general shaking up and received minor injuries.

Downing, testifying in his own behalf, said that he was going at the rate of 25 or 30 miles an hour, but was not positive as to that owing to the fact that there was no speedometer on the machine. He said that after turning the corner a motorcycle with side car attached came along the left side of the road and while trying to avoid the approaching machine he applied his brake causing his machine to skid and it crashed into an automobile.

Had an Unlicensed Dog

Alphonse Rousseau was charged with keeping an unlicensed dog and the case was placed on file after it was learned that the defendant had licensed the animal.

Statutory Offenses

Peter Brown and Cora Townsend, charged with a statutory offense, were each fined $15. On the same charge Charles Pappas was sentenced to six months in jail, while the case of Della McKeown, his associate, was continued for two weeks. The above arrests were made last night by Special Officer Francis Moore and Patrolman Jeremiah Regan.

Cases Continued

The cases of Charles A. and John J. Angler, charged with having watered milk in their possession, were continued until Nov. 28.

Woman Assaulted

John H. Dawson was charged with assault and battery on May A. Smith of 1239 Lawrence street, Wigginville, on Oct. 26th. He entered a plea of not guilty.

According to Mrs. Smith, Dawson has bothered her for a long time and on the date in question he attacked her, pulled her hair and struck her in the face, discoloring her right eye. Several witnesses corroborated the testimony offered by the complainant.

The defendant claimed that he struck the woman in self-defense. He admitted, however, that he had been arrested on several occasions and at the present time is on parole from Shirley. The case was continued until Saturday for sentence, Dawson being held under $300 bonds for his appearance at that time. Lawyer Melvin G. Rogers appeared for the government.

Disturbed the Peace

Anstoteler Demetrates and James Jenakos was charged with disturbing the peace and after entering pleas of guilty each was ordered to pay a fine of $10.

Speros Georgasas and William Generes, also charged with disturbing the peace, were each ordered to pay a fine of $10.

Drunken Offenders

Frank O. Ball, who resides in North Chelmsford, raised ructions at his home Saturday night and at 11.30 o'clock his wife summoned Officer Vinal, who placed the man under arrest. Yesterday, when Ball was arraigned in police court, he entered a plea of not guilty and the case was continued until this morning. Officer Vinal and Mrs. Ball testified as to the man's actions Saturday night and also on previous occasions and Mrs. Ball said she wanted nothing more to do with her husband. Ball agreed to pay his wife $10 a week and keep away from the house, and on that condition the court gave the defendant a suspended sentence of five months in the house of correction.

One offender was given a suspended sentence of three months in jail and seven first offenders were released by the probation officer.

RE-ARGUMENT ON FATE OF WATER POWER PROJECT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—The supreme court today heard re-argument on the fate of a water power project at Long Sault Island, St. Lawrence river said to be capable of developing 800,000 horsepower, three times greater than Niagara Falls plants, and worth $180,000,000. The Long Sault development company's New York state charter was declared annulled in Gov. Sulzer's administration when the act under which it had been granted was repealed.

The company, which Attorney General Woodbury of New York declared was a subsidiary of the aluminum trust, lost the fight to save its charter in New York federal courts, and appealed to the supreme court which heard the first argument in April but reached no decision.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

Lowell Ministers and Laymen Attend Meeting of Andover Association in Lawrence

Many ministers and laymen from this city attended the fall meeting of the Andover Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers held today in the United Congregational church, Lawrence, of which Rev. Herbert G. Mank is pastor. Besides the Lowell delegation churches of Dracut, Tewksbury, Methuen, Lawrence and Andover were represented.

The program opened with devotional services conducted by Rev. William F. English of Lowell. This was followed by the records of the last meeting and the reports of the committees. Rev. H. A. Barker, pastor of the Eliot Congregational church of this city, reported for the systematic benevolence committee. Routine business was transacted after which Rev. F. W. Jindgdon of Boston delivered an address on "The Annuity Fund and Ministerial Relief." The chief topic of discussion was "The Church of Tomorrow." The subects and speakers were as follows: "The Message of the Church," Rev. A. C. Ferrin, pastor of the High Street Congregational church of this city; "The Opportunity of the Church," Rev. Sarah A. Dixon, Tewksbury, and "The Tercentenary," Rev. E. V. Bigelow, Andover.

The program for this evening includes talks by Miss Helen L. Mansfield and Mrs. A. Edwin Wells of Lowell on "What Our Young People Are Doing for the Church."

LOWELL AUTO SKIDS AND BREAKS WINDOW

HAVERHILL, Oct. 31.—Skidding on the wet pavement an auto truck owned by Chester Boessett of Lowell and operated by Hector W. Jodoin of 28 Campaw street, Lowell, plunged across the sidewalk and narrowly missing scores of pedestrians, crashed into the window of the Newark shoe store, 166 Merrimack street, early Sunday night.

Jodoin was driving up Merrimack street in the direction of Washington square. In swerving to get out of the car tracks, his machine commenced to skid. Jodoin attempted to head it into an alleyway but the vehicle shot across the sidewalk and crashed into the store front. Nobody was injured; the big plate glass window was shattered.

or more so." In conclusion, he stated that his clients do not care to take the matter to the court except as a last resort and he suggested that some board of arbitration be appointed to make a fair estimate of what the owners ought to receive in compensation for the property seized. His suggested valuation is $6000, and he said that the evidence in favor of this would be considered strong, if not conclusive, by a jury. The owners had refused a private bid of this amount, he stated.

Commissioner Morse was the only one of the commissioners to speak on the matter. He took issue with Mr. Harvey and expressed himself in favor of a court verdict if the Jewett heirs do not care to accept the price offered by the city.

"You say Mr. Harris is an expert," said Mr. Morse. "Don't know that he's any better than the expert assessors in this building."

"Perhaps not" answered Mr. Harvey," but probably they did not exercise their expert knowledge in this instance."

Well, I'm in favor of a fair settlement," rejoinded Mr. Morse, "but if we appoint any judges, men on the street will say 'Oh, they are a lot of grafters up there,' I think the courts ought to decide the matter."

Petition on Poles

The Bay State Street railway and Lowell Electric Light corporation petitioned for the relocation of 3 poles on Wilder street, corner of Pine. Representatives of both companies spoke in favor of the project. There were two remonstrants—Mr. Frank H. Haynes who said that he already has poles enough in front of his property and Miss Dorothy Wixon. After being shown the plans, both remonstrants withdrew their objection and the matter was referred to Commissioners Morse and Donnelly.

Petitions and Reports

The United States Cartridge company requested permission to store 6000 pounds of powder on land within the city limits and it was referred to Commissioner Putnam.

Garage and gasoline license requests were as follows: Walter S. Miller on Burtt street; Charles W. Holmes on Varnum avenue; Nelson Claremont on London street, and Arcide A. Parent on Walker street. David and Della McCluskey petitioned for a gas light opposite 18 Agawam street, and Martin Murphy petitioned for a light on Fisher street.

Notification of claims for personal injuries was made by Severe Gelina and Mrs. Micheal Gorman. The Lowell Electric Light corporation petitioned for the location of three poles on Orchard street, and the New England Telephone & Telegraph company for poles on Ludlam street, east of Dalton.

Hawthorn Street

Commissioner Morse reported on the petition of A. Knapp and others that a portion of Hawthorn street be laid out and accepted. A hearing has been held and the commissioner of streets urged the adoption of an order to that effect.

An order was read calling a meeting for the nomination of officers for city election Tuesday, Nov. 21, for the selection of two aldermen and three members of the school committee. The polls are to be open from 12 to 8. The city clerk was advised to issue notices accordingly.

The report of the license commission to the municipal council for the quarter just ended was read and accepted.

The health department petitioned for a carload of oats to be delivered no later than Nov. 10, and it was referred to the purchasing agent.

On recommendation of Commissioner Putnam, garage and gasoline licenses were granted to Frank Trull, Mammoth road; E. Chicoin, Merrimack street; Victor Provencher, West Third street; W. H. Potter, Gibson street; Charles M. Bixby, Princeton street; Minnie Deroy, Webber street; Joseph A. Calmette, Victoria street, and Charles W. Hamel, Hurd street.

Money Refunded

The council voted to recommend to the board of assessors that taxes be abated on the land owned by Mary Hubert on Fourth avenue and taken by the city for school purposes, also sewer assessments.

It was also voted to pay to Mrs. Cantin, wife of Eugene Cantin, $50, which was half of the expense incurred by her in getting a clear title to the School street school property sold by the city. After purchasing she found the title defective and was obliged to take the matter to the land court.

Safeguarding Records

A communication was read from the state commissioner of public records, calling attention to things that still have to be done before the city records are safeguarded against fire.

The state commissioner called attention to wooden fittings in vaults of the city clerk's office, the assessors' office, the engineer's office, and suggested improvements in the office of the installator of wires, the water and fire department, the park commission, the trustees of the burial grounds, and the license commission. Mayor O'Donnell said that some of the records at city hall might be transferred to other vaults in the building, if necessary and that the records of the license commission might be kept in the vaults at the police station which are new and up to date.

School Power Plant

Mayor O'Donnell reported that Mr. Kimball had telephoned to him requesting that the municipal council state what they will do relative to the installation of a power plant in the new high school. The mayor explained that the power plant matter is not settled though many think so. He said that, in his opinion, the advisory board will be opposed to the idea, stating that such opposition was voiced after a discussion of the matter at the last meeting of the committee, by two men well qualified to speak on the subject. He said also that Dr. Lambert will probably want another meeting on this matter before a decision is taken and Mr. Putnam expressed himself in favor of a joint meeting.

Sidewalk Bid

On the recommendation of Commissioner Morse it was voted unanimously to grant the contract for granolithic sidewalk on the bid of Mathias S. Conner.

Drawn for Jury

Fred W. Noyes, 62 Lane street, clerk; John J. Dawson, 533 Middlesex street, manager; James A. Sheehan, 33 Butterfield street, clerk; William J. Sullivan, 17 Bowers street, plumber; Henri Daigle, 17 Endicott street, operative, and Patrick H. Crowley, 107 Blossom street, laborer.

The next meeting of the municipal council will be Wednesday, Nov. 8, at 10 a. m.

Dance tonight, Highland hall.

FREE! FREE!! FREE!!! MONDAY NOV. 6th A Scenic Reproduction of Niagara Falls

Exhibited for the first time in Lowell. Anyone who has ever visited Niagara Falls will be interested in this ingenious reproduction of one of the greatest scenic wonders of our country. Those who have not seen the Falls will obtain from this artistic presentation an excellent idea of the marvelous natural wonder which has attracted to its shores hundreds of thousands of visitors from all parts of the globe.

The scene represents the Falls viewed from Victoria Park on the Canadian side looking toward the Horseshoe, with the American Falls on the left. It is the Fall of the year, the brilliant autumnal foliage adding to the rich hues of the landscape. By a clever combination of art, mechanism and electricity, the water tumbles over the Falls, and clouds of mist seem to be rising skyward. The little steamer, "Maid of the Mist," and the passing and repassing of trolley cars add life and movement to the scene.

By clever lighting arrangement, the glorious crimson glow of the setting sun merges into silvery moonlight, which in turn is superseded by the brilliance of the dawn.

To add to the interest of this reproduction a lecturer has been engaged, who will give a brief address every thirty minutes, between 11 a. m. and 4.30 p. m., from Nov. 6th to 11th, inclusive. Also Monday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

SAYS ALLIES COULD NOT CUT WESTERN FRONT IN 30 YEARS

BERLIN, Oct. 31, via wireless to Sayville, N. Y.—That the allies could not break through the western front in 30 years, even if they could provide enough men to keep up the attacks, was one of the statements made in a notable interview given by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, chief of the German staff, to a representative of the Vienna Neue Free Presse, whom he received at headquarters in the presence of General von Ludendorf, first quartermaster-general.

Calls Situation Good

He described the present situation as follows:

"The situation is as good as possible, and all will be well in the future."

As for the duration of the war, Field Marshal von Hindenburg said:

"That depends upon our enemies. Prophesying does not pay; during a war one had better leave it alone. It is possible that the year 1917 will bring battles which will decide the war. However, I do not know, and nobody knows. I only know that we will fight this war to a final decision."

Do Not Think of Peace

General von Ludendorf here added: "We do not think of peace. We are absolutely decided to continue the war, as is shown with sufficient clearness by the measures of the allies (Teutonic) army commands."

The correspondent in turn reported to Field Marshal von Hindenburg on the general feeling in Austrian-Hungary, declaring it was one of confidence and satisfaction, but that as everywhere, the end of the war was wished. The field marshal replied:

That we all wish: Understand this well. The Austro-Hungarian people have accomplished their full duty during this war and have made all the heavy sacrifices which were necessary. But still new sacrifices must be made, lest those already made have been made in vain."

General von Ludendorf interjected: "Tell your Austrian friends that there is only one efficient means for ending the war; a firm will to end the war by victory."

Asked whether there was any chance that the war would be culminated by a decisive blow, General von Ludendorf said:

"Perhaps. The trend of events must show this. I prefer to make no statement."

Russia Becoming Exhausted

As to whether the Russian masses will be exhausted, Field Marshal von Hindenburg replied:

"They are already becoming so; the Russian army commanders have charged themselves with that. There is no doubt also that new masses will grow up in Russia. But that makes no difference. We, too, have enough men. Germany has a profusion of reserves, and in Austria-Hungary the reserves are by no means exhausted. We never were afraid of the Russian numerical strength. We know no numerical superiority."

General von Ludendorf, taking up the subject, said:

"Numerical superiority and danger only exist for the weak. Who objects against fate ought better to object against himself. A firm will commands fate. There is no blind fate."

"The new Russian armies are as good and as bad as the former. The main quality of the Russian soldier is blind obedience. He makes no progress of a military kind; only the Russian artillery has become more efficient on account of instruction by French and Japanese officers, who partly command, but our artillery remains superior.

"During a certain period the Russians had more munitions than they formerly had. Their munition supplies have now become diminished because of the end of importation by way Archangel and Vladivostok."

The correspondent asked whether in the opinion of the chief of staff the termination of the war was possible only in the east, to which Field Marshal von Hindenburg replied:

No Special Program

"People don't know what nonsense they talk. One does a great injustice to an army commander by attributing to him a program. He certainly has in his head a plan of war, a general view of war. But there is no prepared program except that one—to gain victory. Where and how that shall be done can only be decided each moment anew on the basis of events. Therefore, a decision can be looked for as well in the east as in the west.

"It is nonsense if they tell you that I intend to shorten my front in the west. I never thought of it. Why should I do it? The front in the west stands as firm as a rock, and if our enemies by gigantic use of artillery here and there gain a little terrain they shall never break through. In order to do this they would still have to attack for 30 years, provided they had enough men.

The Fate of France

"The French show great tenacity, but they are exterminating lives by their method of fighting. All their tenacity will be of no avail, for in the end there will be none of them left. This fate of the French nation is owing above all else to the British. If the British ask next spring for one more offensive campaign they will rob France of the remainder of her army and her national strength.

"This war will make no great change in the estimate of British military accomplishments. Great strategists, in particular, are lacking among the British.

"The Transylvanian situation is excellent. The Rumanians are in retreat and the day of reckoning is coming. I welcomed their entrance into the war with joy. By means of it we got out of trench warfare."

NO QUININE IN THIS COLD CURE

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends colds and grippe in a few hours.

Take "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until you have taken three doses, then all grippe misery goes and your cold will be broken. It promptly opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling. Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

TO BOYCOTT BAY STATE LINES

NEWBURYPORT, Oct. 31.—Plans for a boycott of the Bay State street railway lines in this city and in Seabrook, N. H., and other surrounding communities were being completed yesterday by factory workers employed here. The proposed boycott will be effective Wednesday morning, when the 6-cent fares become operative on the local street railway lines.

Several hundred residents of Seabrook who come here daily to their work in factories, said yesterday that they believed the increase from a five to six cent fare was unwarranted on the local lines. They proposed, spokesmen at noon meetings announced, to use the steam railroad lines, commencing on Wednesday.

Scores of residents in the North End of this city who have been riding to work in the morning and to and from dinner at noon and home again at night on the street cars have announced their intention of organizing a "dinner pail" brigade, bringing their lunches to work and walking to and from their homes.

CAN'T QUIT SERVICE IN MILITIA

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Members of the Massachusetts militia, recently returned from the border, are up in arms over the orders received yesterday from the war department preventing the men from securing discharges from their various organizations except in extraordinary cases.

The recruits who joined after the president's call are particularly indignant. These recruits claim that they were led to believe they held the same status as the volunteers of '61 and '98 and would be discharged immediately after the trouble was over.

Now, they say, they must remain with the companies to which they were assigned, attend weekly drill at the armory, under threat that a corporal's guard will rout them out of bed, and they will suffer dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and other indignities.

The new orders were the sole topic of discussion in the armories last evening. In Charleston armory, where A, B, C and H companies of the Fifth regiment are quartered, the men present showed much feeling over the matter, several stating that the government had "tied them up tight."

At the Commonwealth armory, although Battery A and the field hospital have been mustered out, quite a number of the men put in an appearance and a warm discussion followed about the new orders.

Adjt.-Gen. Pearson, commenting on the situation said: "From my view of the matter, the government evidently intends to hold on to these men, now that it has them. Although no penalty has been provided for men who break the rules, they are open to dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and they can be seized and brought back."

The new regulations were received yesterday by Adjt.-Gen. Pearson, and were signed by Col. G. W. Melver, who is in charge of the militia bureau at Washington, since the death of Gen. Mills. They state that no enlisted man can be discharged without the approval of the department commander or the war department, with the exceptions that the governor of a state can discharge men for disability, on account of sentence by a civil court, removal from the state, or enlisting in the regular service.

Before the militia became part of the National Guard, the men could secure discharge for business reasons, absence from drill or other trivial causes, without any trouble. Another provision that excited much comment among the militiamen was that if a soldier changes his residence to another part of the state, he must be transferred to a militia organization near his new residence.

The conference continued for nearly two hours during which the emperor conferred personally with each of those present.

STOLEN COFFEE FOUND

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Caches in which was concealed nearly a ton of coffee belonging to the Oriental Tea company of Boston were located in Limerick and Brownfield, Me., yesterday, according to the statements of the police of those towns, who have been working with the Boston police.

William H. North of Boston, president of the company, said last night that the discovery of the caches reveals a big plot through which the company was robbed of several thousand pounds of coffee during the past few months.

Six men, employes of the company, were arrested in Boston, Oct. 21, in connection with the larceny.

Crawford Ranges

The Woman who owns a Crawford cooks with the World's Best Range

Buying a Range is like buying a diamond. It depends on the stove—it depends on the stone.

No Range can be too good. Buying the best Range is a duty—a duty to your home—to yourself—to your family.

The Range burns the coal and cooks the food. Coal costs money. Perfectly cooked food provides health.

Imitating the Crawford Range

The greatest proof of Crawford Range leadership is the imitation of its unique features. There are certain Crawford distinctions that are embodied in nearly every other Range upon the market.

The Crawford has always led in improvements. Thanks to Crawford patents, the most important of these cannot be imitated.

That wonderful Crawford Single Damper which with one movement controls the fire and the oven cannot be found in any other Range on the market.

Twenty Crawford Advantages

On the inside of a Crawford Range as well as on the outside you will find reasons why Crawford Ranges excel.

The Crawford embodies more invention and a closer scientific construction than other Ranges. Your eyes and your common sense will appreciate its advantages at once.

You simply cannot be a poor cook with a Crawford. It does the thinking for you.

And its low coal consumption and its perfect system of heat-distribution also make the Crawford the most economical Range.

A Crawford saves and satisfies—always.

"Why I Sell Crawford Ranges!"

Any Crawford Dealer will tell you why he is proud to sell Crawford Ranges. And he has good reason to be proud. He is selling the World's best Range—and can prove it—easily—surely—without argument.

If you have inspected all the other Ranges in town you will quickly forget them when you see a Crawford.

You'll buy a Crawford. You can't help it. The Dealer will show it to you—and the Crawford will sell itself.

The patented Single Damper—the scientific flue system—the labor-saving double Ash Hods—and the many other Crawford conveniences will prove irresistible.

Our Pride in the Crawford Plant

The Crawford is made in the world's greatest stove plant. Not greatest in size—but greatest in invention, efficiency and system that make possible the best Range in the world.

It is a matter of record that the leading stove men come to Watertown, Mass., to see our plant—and go away convinced that ours is the finest equipped stove plant in existence.

The Crawford Range is made with the utmost care. And the half century of skill and experience behind it and in it give the Crawford a national reputation that even our competitors admit.

The Crawford Range as an Investment

The Crawford Range is a life-time investment. Thousands of women who pride themselves on their cooking think the Crawford simply cannot be improved.

However, we are our own severest critics. If the best can be bettered we will do it. For the Crawford ideal is never really satisfied.

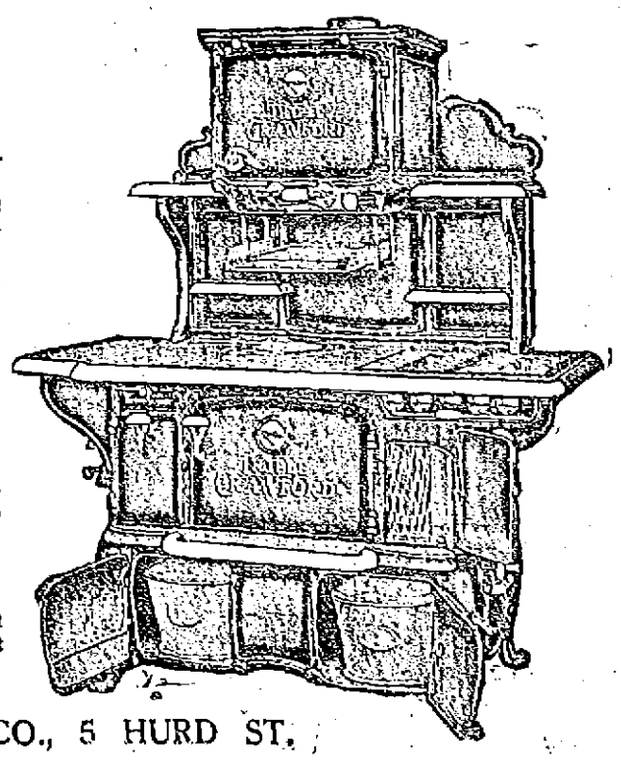

To improve—to build still better—to add more and more to its wonderful supremacy—is our constant aim.

Yet the fact remains: Today's Crawford Range seems as near perfect as is humanly possible.

And one thing is certain. When you buy your Crawford you are buying a range that has never yet been equalled—a Range that is a life-time investment—for you and for your children.

Gas ovens if desired; end (single) or elevated (double).

Visit your Crawford Dealer. He will give you the twenty reasons why he sells the Crawford. Every reason he gives you will be an added reason for you to own one.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

FREED 2,000,000 CHILD SLAVES

For many years past the cotton factories of this state have claimed that they had to compete at a disadvantage with the mills of the south, which were allowed to employ child labor. That charge was well founded, yet republican administrations failed to do anything to remedy the evil. Despite the fact that one of the charges brought against the Wilson administration is partiality for the south, yet it remained for President Wilson to put through a measure cutting off from interstate commerce all manufactured products in which child labor was employed.

It is not generally known to what an extent child labor was employed in the south. Bulletin 157 issued by the United States Bureau of Labor statistics shows that of all those employed in gainful occupations in this country in 1910, there were 1,990,225 of the ages ten to fifteen inclusive.

Thus it is seen that with the passage of this child labor law by congress last summer, in response to the urgent appeal of President Wilson, about two million children were emancipated from a sytsem of slavery that would not be tolerated in Massachusetts or any New England state. The law was enacted too, over the bitter opposition of the south. Thus did President Wilson show his humane spirit and his disregard for the consequences even if it did lose him political supporters in that section. This is one of the most uplifting acts passed by congress since the emancipation of the slaves, for these children were in reality doomed to a system of slavery in which their growth was stunted and their future blighted.

Nevertheless, republicans who failed to enact a law to set these child slaves free are out trying to minimize the effect of the law and to misrepresent its true worth, merely because it is the work of Woodrow Wilson.

SENATOR LODGE'S PERFIDY

It remained for Senator Lodge to bring out in this campaign one of the lowest attempts to place President Wilson in a false light before the nation and even before the world at large. His contention in regard to the Lusitania note, based upon hearsay gossip, places him among the enemies of this country, and he owes President Wilson and the citizens of this nation an humble apology for making such a dastardly charge without knowing whereof he spoke. This is but another proof that Mr. Lodge, able and scholarly though he be, is capable of sinking to the lowest depths in the mire of politics in order to injure an opponent and help a reactionary political party back to power.

Senator Lodge's roorback will prove a boomerang against himself. That any chief executive would be foolish enough to write a sharp letter to a foreign power on a very serious question and then append a postscript saying the letter was not to be taken too seriously, is beyond conception. President Wilson and all connected with the note send out indignant denials of the story; but the best contradiction is found in the fact that the note caused Germany to abandon her mode of submarine warfare, as her chancellor declared, to avoid war with the United States.

SECRETARY DANIELS ATTACKED

Secretary Daniels of the navy is being assailed by republican campaigners as a country editor who, they allege, has little to qualify him for the position. The fact that he was a country editor is in his favor rather than the reverse. The republicans have had some secretaries of that department who couldn't edit the Bingville Bugle. But in addition to his accomplishments as a country editor, Mr. Daniels has made one of the best secretaries in the history of the department. Indeed history will probably record that among the greatest secretaries we have ever had in that department were Gideon Willes, the secretary under Lincoln, and Josephus Daniels, both country editors.

Under Secretary Daniels more has been done for the navy than by any former administration excepting none. Moreover the program laid down for the future will make our navy second only to that of England. The naval resources of the nation have been reorganized, the building program has been made permanent and consistent with the growing needs of the United States. Four dreadnoughts and four battle cruisers are to be built during the first year. Twenty torpedo boat destroyers, thirty coast submarines with auxiliaries will be begun at once. Further, the program calls for the construction before the first of July, 1919, of ten battleships, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, fifty torpedo boat destroyers, nine fleet submarines, 58 coast submarines with auxiliaries. The naval flying corps has been put on a permanent basis, the enlisted strength having been increased to 68,500, expansible in emergency to 87,000.

Thus the record of Secretary Daniels as head of the navy marks the greatest step forward in the nation's history. Thus, too, the country editor has given a good account of himself.

GOMPERS EXPOSES ROOSEVELT

While the republican press of this country and the republican campaigners from Candidate Hughes down to Gus Gardner, are charging President Wilson with surrendering to the dictation of the railroad brotherhoods in the Adamson law, their hypocrisy is shown up by President Gompers, who goaded by the lying attacks on President Wilson comes out and tells the public that before Roosevelt made his principal speech in the campaign, he sent the copy to Gompers to be revised as that gentleman saw fit.

Yet Roosevelt is only following the same policy as Hughes and the other campaigners who are out in his support. They must certainly be in a desperate plight when they sacrifice principle and stoop to methods far below the worst with which they can charge the opposition.

In all the negotiation with the brotherhoods, President Wilson never allowed them to dictate his policy and in tentatively favoring the eight-hour law for railroads he acted in the interests of the public, to avert a national calamity and to take the first step towards a peaceful settlement of all labor disputes affecting public utilities. If they call that a surrender to labor, what can they term the act of Colonel Roosevelt, who in this case is the representative of Candidate Hughes, in asking President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to edit his speeches?

After such palpable pandering for votes, the speaker or the editor who would charge President Wilson with meekly yielding to the importunities of labor are simply trying to fool the voters. They are resorting to the lowest trickery to catch votes.

PARTY ENROLLMENT

Party enrollment was discarded by the voters of this state in 1914 and now the republicans want it restored. For that purpose they have succeeded in having it placed on the ballot in a very misleading form, to wit: "An act to prevent the voters of one political party from voting in the primaries of another party." Naturally this question would appeal to the sense of fairness of the voter; but it does not give any intimation as to the real nature of the subject. The adoption of that act would restore party enrollment under which the employer in a large factory can inform himself as to the political affiliation of every one of his employes. It is not so long ago since voters in factories were coerced into entering political parades with which they had no sympathy.

The abolition of party enrollment put an end to that. Do the working people wish to abolish a law passed in their interests and objected to by political bosses who are handicapped in getting a line upon the political leanings of the wage earners? Every citizen should vote "no" on this particular question. To do otherwise would make a farce of the referendum as it was but two years ago that this law was put upon the statute books in accordance with the vote of the people.

MANSFIELD PUSHES McCALL

Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield, the democratic candidate for governor, is certainly driving Governor McCall into a tight corner in challenging him to deny a series of charges ranging from violated pledges by the governor to sanction of the lobby and interference with necessary legislation before the general court.

As Mr. Mansfield has vainly endeavored to draw out the governor on these matters, he now makes the proposition of a joint debate or an exchange of speaking engagements. Some of the charges made by Mr. Mansfield are of such a serious nature that we do not see how the governor can allow them to go unanswered. If he fails to answer, of course the presumption will be that Mr. Mansfield has him on the hip and that he deems it the safer course to keep silent on matters on which he cannot give an answer advantageous to himself.

ANOTHER GERMAN CRISIS

If it be found that Germany has violated her agreement not to sink vessels without warning and if it appears that she thereby has caused the loss of American lives, the only course open to President Wilson will be to apply the "strict accountability" clause of one of his notes relative to such occurrences.

Germany, after the Lusitania disaster, agreed to modify her submarine operations so as to conform to international law. If she has violated her pledges in that respect there is only one course open to the United States and that is the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany.

Seen and Heard

There is never so much going on as the rumors would indicate.

Russian police have arrested food speculators in Odessa. Wish they could get busy in Chicago.

Growing Younger

A well known textile union official who is on a recruiting committee tells a story of a man, aged 44 years, who was anxious to join the army.

At the recruiting office he put his foot in it by telling his true age, and was rejected.

Going to the union man, he complained bitterly of the red tape ideas that kept him out of the army.

"Well," said his adviser, "go back and say you made a mistake and that your real age is 36."

Away went the would-be soldier, and putting on a bold front, told the recruiter he was only 36 years of age.

"And why on earth did you say you were 44?" asked the sergeant.

"Oh—you see," stammered the man, "I got a bit mixed. It's my mother is 44."—Toronto Globe.

Business Very Poor

A wonderful fund of good stories has Sir Thomas Lipton, and one concerns a certain American youth he met while paying one of his visits to the states in connection with the American's cup. The boy, who was employed by his uncle at a weekly wage more advantageous to his relative than to himself, had awakened to the fact that he was not getting enough of this world's "dough," and had announced his intention of setting out to better himself.

"You are making a great mistake," protested his uncle, "in leaving a steady job with me just for a little more money. A rolling stone gathers no moss, remember."

"Moss!" jeered the boy. "What's the good of that? Where's there a market for moss, I'd like to know?"

The Coal Question

Since the start of the alleged coal famine there has been again advanced that spacious argument. "You should have put in your coal in the summer time." What difference does it make? Why should not people put in their coal when they have money or secondly, when it is convenient? Approximately the same amount of coal is used here annually. It is an amount that can be ascertained by calculation nearly. The suggestion that everybody put in coal in summer is unfair and impossible. If everybody in one city did this what would other cities do? What possible difference can it make in the long run when you put your coal in if, as the producers claim, there is a shortage? Somebody is bound to get left. Many are bound to get left and this even after folks have generally followed the sage (?) advice, "Buy your coal in the summer."—The Salem News.

Halloween Parties

Now is the time to give a party if you want your guests to have a rollicking time. Of course it won't be a formal affair—a Halloween frolic couldn't be that—but for downright enjoyment there is no night like October 31. Besides the spirit which makes the night a gay one, the fact that so many things come ready prepared for Halloween entertainment, makes it the one to choose. Everything you can possibly need, except "the eats," you will find at the stationery or department store. Invitations in cute styles, decorations, favors and prizes. A "Bogie book," full of games and stunts, ghost stories and weird suggestions galore, is published each year just before Halloween. You can get this book from your stationer. The table can be trimmed quickly and inexpensively. A Halloween lunch set furnishes table cover, plates, doilies and napkins to use. A runner of black and orange crepe trimmed with black cat cutouts is added. The well of truth is a fitting centerpiece and anyone can make it. Rocks are created of cotton and grey crepe paper design and is mounted on cardboard. The real tree boasts autumn leaves which are really small gummed seals. Fortunes should be drawn from the well at the close of the supper.

Faith

There was crape on the door of the earthly home,
And the neighbors who entered in Just whispered the grief that they knew had come,
And told what the life had been.

"My mamma, she went-ed away last night,"
The youngest of all explained,
And the big round eyes that were wondrous bright,
No trace of a tear contained.

"My papa, he called, and we runned right down,
But mamma had gone away;
She has gone to heaven to wear a c'own—
We are going to meet her some day."

She prattled on in her innocence,
And saw, with a sad surprise,
The tears of love and of impotence
Well forth from the stranger's eyes.

"Why," murmured the child, "you are crying, too!"
And her look was a half reproof;
"We'll meet her in heaven, an' so can you,
My mamma said so, an' it's troof!"

There was crape on the door of the
earthly home,
But a glorious faith inside;
The teaching of lips that were cold and dumb
Was present to cheer and guide.

On that meeting day in the home
Perhaps we shall all confess
That the tears we shed which are not of love,
Are nothing but selfishness.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION

There was a well attended meeting of the Lowell Christian Endeavor union at the Worthen Street Baptist church last night, 211 members being present. An excellent supper was served by the society of the Worthen Street church and while the different courses were being served a musical program was carried out.

The auditorium of the church was decorated in an artistic manner, the Christian Endeavor banners predominating.

The meeting was presided over by O. E. McGregor. Earl S. Bacon, county chairman of the campaign for millions, distributed literature and conducted a live wire congress during which the problems of the campaign were discussed. A number of committee reports were read and other routine business transacted.

Lowell Man Had Stomach Trouble

James W. Gould of 147 Forest Ave., Says Since Taking Plant Juice He Is Feeling Fine.

The Dows Drug Store, in Merrimack Square, where the new preparation, Plant Juice, is being introduced, has presented a scene of unusual activity for the past few days. Many people are calling out of gratitude to thank The Plant Juice Man for what it has remedy has done for them, and to congratulate him upon the great success he has had in Lowell.

The following signed statement was recently made by Mr. James W. Gould, who lives at No. 147 Forest Avenue, and is a trusted employe of the Hamilton mill. Mr. Gould has many friends in this city and is also well known in labor circles. He said:

"For 10 years I have been troubled with my stomach in the form of indigestion; I had bad attacks of acute indigestion and suffered agony, and I thought it would prove fatal. Meats and vegetables would cause me great distress, and in fact I could hardly keep any food in my stomach; I had headaches, dizzy spells, could not get any sleep at night and would feel as tired in the morning as when I went to bed at night; I was badly constipated and had taken ever so many different medicines without the slightest benefit. After taking Plant Juice only a short time the effect on my system has been wonderful; I sleep well, can eat anything I want without the slightest distress, have no more dizzy spells and never felt better in my life. I am more than pleased with what Plant Juice has done for me and will recommend it to all of my friends."

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact any one of the following may denote affections of the stomach: Indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, bad breath, sick, throbbing headaches, night sweats, poor circulation, that tired feeling, costiveness, a coated tongue or a poor complexion.

The Plant Juice Man is at The Dows Drug Store, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

THE GRAND ARMY IS INDEBTED TO WILSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—That every G.A.R. veteran owes a debt of gratitude to the administration of President Wilson is the declaration of Col. John McElroy of this city, a lifelong republican and for 32 years editor of the National Tribune, official national organ of the Grand Army of the Republic. Col. McElroy has refused to go on the stump for Hughes.

"For me to take the stump against Wilson would be to smite the hand that helped us," he says. "We, old soldiers owe much to President Wilson. The new widow's pension law comes more nearly to doing justice to the wives and dependents of old soldiers than any pension law ever passed. Commissioner Saltzgaber, appointed head of the pension bureau by President Wilson, has been one of the most efficient pension commissioners we have ever had.

"Of course, many G.A.R. veterans are republicans. I am myself. But, however much we may disagree with the democrats over purely party matters, as veterans of the Civil war we must admit a debt to President Wilson and his administration."

DU PONT POWDER CO. OUT FOR HUGHES

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—By inverse application of the slogan, "Wilson has kept us out of war," an old republican farmer near Ithaca expresses a quaint opinion of the Hughes-Roosevelt campaign, and declares his intention to vote for President Wilson. His statement, given to Aaron G. Mintz, chairman of the democratic committee of Ithaca, follows:

"I never voted the democratic ticket before, but I am going to vote for Mr. Wilson. You know, I always judge a man by his supporters. Now, there is Teddy, and he likes war, and he is a little hot-headed. And to cap the climax, the du Pont powder people order their 70,000 men to vote for Hughes. Now, you know they don't make baby carriages."

M'CORMICK SHOWS UP ROOSEVELT'S BLUFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—"I see that the 'vocal part' of the republican campaign continues to run true to form," said Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee. Roosevelt, who is Mr. Hughes' spokesman, compels me to draw the deadly parallel.

"He seems to have changed his mind about our duty toward Belgium now that he has a presidential aspirant to boost.

"At Louisville, he said:

"'The case of Belgium was the first of Mr. Wilson's international sins. If we had protested against the invasion of Belgium,' etc., etc."

In an article in the Outlook on Sept. 23, 1914, he said:

"'Very probably nothing we could have done would have helped Belgium. We have not the smallest responsibility for what has befallen her. Only the clearest and most urgent national duty would ever justify us in deviating from our rule of neutrality and non-interference.'"

WAR TROUBLE NOT YET OVER SAYS NIXON

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Lewis Nixon, a close student of international affairs and for many years a prominent figure in public and commercial life, in a statement discussing the issues of the campaign, says that President Wilson's handling of the many problems that have grown out of the European war has been masterly. Mr. Nixon has been travelling throughout the country for the past six months and has had an opportunity to observe the trend of public opinion in many states.

"The next five months," he says, "may require decisions of vital moment to our country, and the people of the United States are beginning to realize that a four month twilight zone of doubt and uncertainty as to position taken and policy to be upheld might make us the principal sufferers from the after effects of the war.

"Even republicans with the real interests of their country at heart know that this is no time for a man yet groping in the dark for policies to enunciate to take the helm."

THREE CARDINALS OUT TO NAIL FALSEHOOD

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—To the disavowals of Cardinals Gibbons and Farley heretofore published, the New York World adds an authorized statement from Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, regarding the reported propaganda among Catholics of the middle west against President Wilson. Cardinal O'Connell's statement follows:

"It has come to my attention that some of the daily papers allude to an organized propaganda among Catholics of the middle west against one of the candidates for the presidency, assuming that this propaganda is carried on with the knowledge and tacit approval of the American cardinals.

"For my part, I know absolutely nothing of such political movement among Catholics anywhere in the United States, and if by any chance such unwarranted political activity existed, I should most heartily disapprove it."

WEST ON FIRE FOR WILSON, LOOKS LIKE LANDSLIDE SAYS M'CORMICK

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The west is "on fire for President Wilson," and "it looks like a landslide," for the democratic candidate, is the opinion of Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the national democratic committee, as expressed by Mr. McCormick after conferring today with Senator Thomas J. Walsh, manager of western democratic headquarters.

"The west has no edge on the east in this matter of loyalty to the president,' Mr. McCormick said.

"The east is mighty warm in its support of Wilson, and democrats generally. New York state, for instance, is for the president, and for him 'big.'

"The Wilson sentiment in Ohio that makes Frank H. Hitchcock concede the state to the democrats does not stop at imaginary state lines. It extends all over this section and by this token, not to mention over confidential reports and first hand advices, we know that Illinois and Indiana also are for the president. This same sentiment is sweeping the Pacific coast.

"I confidently expect the president to carry Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia. The swing is toward the president and there are no signs of abatement."

HUGHES REPLIES TO WILSON'S ADDRESS

TALKS ON PRESIDENT'S CINCINNATI SPEECH AT EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 30.—Charles E. Hughes, replying further to statements in President Wilson's Cincinnati speech, told an audience here today that the $2,000,000,000 increase in American exports last year was due almost exclusively to the demand created by the European war and cited a statement by Chairman Hurley of the federal trade commission, to uphold the republican claim that America is "not prepared for post-bellum competition with Europe."

"That $2,000,000,000 increase," Mr. Hughes said, "represents almost exclusively the demand created by the European war. What are we to do? There is but one safe course. It is idle to talk about conditions of work if there is no work. And you cannot have any lasting basis for prosperity unless you apply the republican doctrine of protection to American industries.

"I was amazed the other day when the spokesman for the opposing party told the people that we were ready. He said in substance that the nations engaged in this struggle are so wasted by war that we need not fear their competition.

"That is a very serious mistake, if you want to know what the facts are.

"Let those who speak for the opposing party take the words of the federal trade commission, spoken almost at the same time, as a result of their own inquiry.

"This is what Chairman Hurley of the federal trade commission said last week in New York on this very subject: 'While in many respects we know little of what is going on in the warring nations, we do know that within sound of the guns, almost within reach of the falling shells, Europe is reawakening her industries.'

"He says further: 'Under the stress of a life-and-death struggle every effort is being made to attain the highest efficiency in the production, in the distribution and in the use of commodities of all kinds.' He adds: 'New processes are being discovered, new inventions are being made and new forms of organization are being created and war has compelled Great Britain to make 30 years of industrial progress in 30 months.

"'If our industries are not to be caught slow of mind and flabby of muscle we must improve our business organization, must increase our manufacturing and merchandising efficiency, and must keep pace with every step in Europe.'

"That is the statement of the board by the chairman of it, with respect to increased efficiency abroad. They have got organization. They have got a better knowledge of themselves. They have got a better discipline and efficiency in production than ever before. Even the waste of men, in view of the numbers coming along year by year into industrial activity leaves them with more men today to enter into production than they had before.

"Now, these are facts for American business men and American working men to think carefully over. When it is said here we need organization, I agree. When it is said that we need development of alertness and power, I agree, but there is one thing that was not said. It is the thing which our opponents, in view of their principles, can not well say. It is that you have got to have your markets protected against the competition of labor that is paid less than you are. We want to build up American industry, protect the American wage scale and lay the foundation for social justice."

PASTOR SAYS HOMES ARE RUN BY CHILDREN

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—The Rev. Herbert R. Whitelock, preaching on "Who Rules the Home?" at Brighton Avenue Baptist church, Allston, last night, declared that neither the father nor the mother runs the home today, but the children.

"Not only do the boys and girls of today run the home but they run the literature of the home as well. The Bible and Pilgrim's Progress were formerly to be seen on every parlor table but today they have been supplanted by cheap literature," said Dr. Whitelock.

"The boys and girls also run the dress of the home and the fathers and mothers are obliged to dress today in a fashion to suit their children and their children's associates. Whether or not this is a heavy strain on the family purse is not considered. The children dictate the dress and the parents must obey.

"The young people also control the music and the religion of the family. Where once the finest music was to be seen on the family piano, today there is nothing but the cheapest of ragtime and the ragtime is worshipped today as was the finest music in days gone by.

"The young people today have entirely too much liberty. They make their own engagements and merely inform their parents that they have engagements for weeks in advance."

LINE FROM ST. NAZAIRE FRANCE TO HALIFAX

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 30.—The establishment of a direct steamship service between St. Nazaire, France, and Halifax, during the winter months, was announced today by Frank Martin, of the Marine Navigation Co., of London. There will be monthly sailings and the vessels engaged, it was said, will be of considerable tonnage. Most of Canada's imports from France heretofore have been via New York and it was stated that the new line would reduce freight rates and require less time for delivery. Mr. Martin said the service would be inaugurated with the arrival here of the steamer Nigaristan November 5.

BUSINESS MEN TO MEET PRES. WILSON

Special to The Sun

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Governors, state officials, business men of national and international reputation from all over the country will attend the Wilson Business Man's National league luncheon for President Wilson, at the Waldorf-Astoria Thursday, when the president will talk to business men, preceding his address at Madison Square garden in the evening. Among the first acceptances were those of Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, Gov. Fielder of New Jersey and ex-Gov. Emmet O'Neil of Alabama, ex-Gov. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, William L. Douglas, shoe manufacturer, and Royal A. Ferris of Texas, who will head the delegation of Texas business men. From Montana will come a delegation headed by John MacGinnis of Butte. North Carolina has sent acceptances for a delegation of not less than 20. South Carolina, Arkansas and even Florida will be represented.

August K. Laholt will head a delegation from Chicago and other Illinois cities. W. A. Julian of Cincinnati will lead an Ohio contingent and John Gamble will be chairman of the Alabama committee. The executive committee of the Wilson Business Men's National league urges applicants for seats to send their requests not later than Tuesday noon by wire to 280 Madison Avenue, New York.

DOCTOR ARRESTED IN MURDER CASE

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—Dr. Nathan M. Cohen of this city was arrested today as an alleged accessory after the fact to the murder of Cosmo di Nuccio at Providence, R. I., on Oct. 11. It is charged that he treated the wounds of one of Nuccio's assailants and the police say he has withheld information which might assist in locating the man. Arraigned in the municipal court, Dr. Cohen pleaded not guilty and was held in $2000 bonds for a hearing Nov. 6.

TRANSPORT TORPEDOED

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The steamer Angelike, conveying volunteers to Saloniki, has been torpedoed at Fleves, says a Reuter despatch from Athens today.

It seems probable that the volunteers mentioned were recruits for the force being gathered by the provisional government recently formed in Crete for the furtherance of what is now characterized "an anti-Bulgarian movement" by Greek subjects working in co-operation with the entire allies.

RECEIVERSHIP OF THE B. & M. RAILROAD

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—After a hearing in the United States district court today Judge Morton took under advisement the question of allowing Charles M. Green, a minority stockholder of the Boston & Maine railroad, to intervene in the receivership proceedings against the road.

Conrad W. Crooker, an attorney, who has started similar proceedings in Vermont and New Hampshire in behalf of Mr. Green and the Boston & Maine minority stockholders' protective association stated in the course of his argument that he wanted an opportunity to put Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and Boston & Maine roads, on the witness stand to state the facts concerning alleged fraud and conspiracy which the minority stockholders contend was the basis for the receivership proceedings.

"No one will say," the attorney said, "that if Mr. Mellen testifies it will not cause certain amiable men in this town to shiver."

Counsel for the Boston & Maine and the Intercontinental Rubber Co., which petitioned for the road's receivership as one of its creditors, opposed intervention on the ground that there was ample opportunity for all stockholders to be heard when the question of making the receivership permanent comes up for a hearing next Monday.

TWO NAVAL CENSORS ARE TRANSFERRED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Transfer of Lieuts. Charles R. Clark and H. S. Keep, naval censors at Sayville and Siasconset wireless stations, respectively to other posts was announced today by Admiral Benson, chief of operations. The admiral denied published reports that his action was taken because Great Britain protested that the officers had permitted unneutral information to go out concerning the German submarine raider U-53.

"It is not true that these officers were transferred to other duty as a result of requests of any foreign government or persons," said Admiral Benson. "I took the initiative without consultation or direction from any other authority."

The admiral declined to give reason for the transfer. It was said only questions of administrative detail were involved.

WHEELING & LAKE ERIE RAILROAD SOLD

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 30.—At a sale conducted under the direction of the United States district court here today the Wheeling and Lake Erie road was sold to Blair & Co., and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York, for $12,000,000

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. Frank Knobl, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. Yost, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. Clementina Duerring, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to inspect the laboratory of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

IRREGULAR CHANGES AT THE OPENING

MOTORS AND SOME EQUIPMENT SHARES LOWER—U. S. STEEL MADE SMALL ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Irregular price changes at today's opening indicated a continuance of the caution that marked the previous day's operations on the stock exchange. Motors and some of the equipment issues were lower by fractions to over a point, together with Marine pfd. and the metal group recorded a moderate setback. These were offset by fractional advances in U. S. Steel common and preferred, Rock Island, Industrial Alcohol and Colorado Fuel. Union Pacific, Reading and a few other leaders were dull and without material changes. Later quotations were mainly in the direction of higher levels.

Cotton Futures

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Cotton futures opened steady. December, 18.55; January, 18.55; March, 18.61; May, 18.70; July, 18.71.

U. S. Steel in Demand

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Except for the motors, the market assumed a more confident air before the end of the first hour.

U. S. Steel was in steady demand at a gain of a point with Crucible and Lackawanna Steels, Republic Iron, American and Baldwin Locomotives, General Electric and Westinghouse. Alcohol extended its gain, with Central Leather, Sugars, American Smelting and American Zinc. Fertilizers and paper issues became active at noon at gains of 1 to 3 points, with a new record for American Writing Paper pfd. at 51½. The reactionary trend of Rock Island and Canadian Pacific caused some restraint in other branches of the railway division. Bonds were steady.

Exchanges and Balances

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Exchanges $730,817,795; balances $29,649,960.

Boston Market

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Coppers were irregular in the early trading. Copper Range sold up $1 but Calumet & Hecla lost 5 points.

Further Advances

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The paper, fertilizer and more obscure specialties continued the conspicuous features of the intermediate session, with an increased inquiry for U. S. Steel and allied issues at further moderate advances. Rails and other standard stocks lagged.

T. R. TO SPEAK IN OHIO

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Theodore Roosevelt will make two speeches in Ohio in behalf of Hughes and Fairbanks this week. He will speak in Toledo Thursday noon and in Cleveland Thursday night. Friday night he will speak in New York city and Saturday night will close his speaking campaign with an address at Baltimore.

Alvin T. Hert, manager of western republican headquarters returned from New York today.

"New York and all the republican eastern states are safe for Hughes and Fairbanks," he said. "Every report we receive from the west is gratifying. I am convinced that the republican national ticket will be elected by a large majority in the electoral college."

SAYS FRENCH ARMY WILL BE EXTERMINATED

VON HINDENBURG TALKS—TELLS OF ATTEMPT TO KILL QUEEN OF RUMANIA

BERLIN, Oct. 30, by wireless to Sayville—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, German chief of staff, is quoted by the Overseas News agency as follows:

"The French show great tenacity, but they are exterminating lives by their method of fighting. All their tenacity will be of no avail, for in the end there will be none of them left. This fate of the French nation is owing above all else to the British. If the British ask next spring for one more offensive campaign they will rob France of the remainder of her army and her national strength.

"This war will make no great change in the estimate of British military accomplishments. Great strategists, in particular, are lacking among the British.

"The Transylvanian situation is excellent. The Rumanians are in retreat and the day of reckoning is coming. I welcomed their entrance into the war with joy. By means of it we got out of trench warfare."

"Replying to a question regarding the reported attempt against the queen of Rumania, Field Marshal von Hindenburg shook his head and said: 'Attempts of this kind always must be condemned.' (This is the first report to reach the United States of an attempt against the life of Queen Marie of Rumania.)

"The field marshal then spoke about the visit to Berlin of the Turkish minister of war, Enver Pasha, whom he called a 'clear, honest and trustworthy man and an excellent soldier.'

"The chief of staff expressed his admiration and respect for the Bulgarian king and the crown prince of Austria.

"The field marshal said that since the beginning of the war he had been on home leave in order to see his family only seven days. Speaking on the importance of sleep, he said:

"'The main thing is sleeping. Soldiers must be able to sleep—that is a most important quality.' As for the sleeping of army commanders while great decisions were going on, the field marshal said: 'Why not? If everything goes as you want it, then sleep perhaps somewhat less sound, and if everything is well then, of course, you sleep all the better.'"

REPORT OF VILLA RAID PURPOSELY MAGNIFIED

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 30.—Gen. Candido Aguilar, minister of foreign affairs in Mexico, insists in a message received today by the Mexican commissioners, that the action between Villa's forces and the government forces near Chihuahua recently has been "purposely magnified." General Aguilar's message is a denial that Mexico City is about to be evacuated, that Mrs. Carranza came to the United States for any other reason than that of recreation, that Mrs. Obregon has left Mexico and that Chihuahua is in any danger of being taken by Villa.

"The rumors respecting the defeat and death of Gen. Ozuna are false," the message continues. "A small detachment connected with the troops of the column of said general was surprised, but this skirmish was unimportant and completely lacks the proportions into which it has been purposely magnified."

HECKLERS INTERRUPT "DRY" CANDIDATES

ONE OBJECTS TO ATTACK ON HUGHES—ANOTHER, A "JAG," GOT HIS FROM LANDRITH

DOVER, N. J., Oct. 30.—Hecklers were active today in Newark, where the prohibition special train made an early stop on the last lap of its 20,000 mile campaign journey. J. Frank Hanly, the presidential nominee, was interrupted so frequently by one man that he abandoned his speech, stepped out into the crowd and warned the man to be quiet or leave. The man left. He had taken offense at Hanly's declaration that Charles E. Hughes had no program or issue.

Another man, who appeared to be intoxicated, interrupted Ira Landrith, the vice-presidential nominee. Landrith urged the crowd to take one look at the man and then vote dry.

THE BOY SCOUTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The attitude of the Boy Scouts of America is not that which was made the basis of the resolutions adopted by the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor, it was stated here today by James E. West, chief scout executive of the National Council of the scout organization. Mr. West said that a message received here today from Charles C. Jackson asserted that the latter's remarks had been distorted, as he had not alluded to labor unions but had appealed "for a larger and more intelligent participation in civic affairs."

"The resolution evidently was based upon an incomplete and misleading account of what Mr. Jackson actually said," Mr. West added. "The Boy Scouts of America has had the official support of the American Federation of Labor for years and we believe that the record of what we are actually accomplishing for the sons of labor men and our country as well as the policy of the national council to avoid participation in political affairs will warrant the continuance of this support as well as of all labor men individually."

MR. MANSFIELD ATTACKS M'CALL

Says Governor's Appointments Worst In History of State

Glad Opponent Has Recovered — May Now Answer Questions

Honorable Frederick W. Mansfield, the democratic candidate for governor, took part in one of the most enthusiastic political rallies that has ever been held around Greater Boston last night. The affair took place at the Star theatre, Dedham, at which place Mr. Mansfield was the first and principle speaker. Leaving Dedham, Mr. Mansfield and a corps of other speakers went to Revere, Chelsea, Everett, Melrose and Malden.

Mr. Mansfield aroused his audience at each of these places to a high pitch of enthusiasm by his frequent references to the republican administration and cited a dozen instances of inefficiency. He said in part:

"I propose to show through these exposures, that Governor McCall in his administration of the state's affairs, has been weak and inefficient; that he has brought the powerful influence of the governor's office to the constant help of the corporations and vested interests, notably the Boston Elevated Street Railway, and that he has been surrounded by office-pedlers who have forced him into such a state of abject submission, that his appointments have been the worst in the entire history of the state."

Mr. Mansfield explained that because of Governor McCall's illness he had refrained from attacking the "apparent weaknesses" of his administration but now that the governor is well enough to return to the stump, "I intend to point out that here in Massachusetts, just as he had done for twenty years in congress, Governor McCall has been absolutely responsive to the will of his corporation friends."

Mr. Mansfield tonight, in his first "exposure," devoted his talk to Governor McCall's attitude on the telephone situation, saying:

"I regret the illness of Governor McCall and I am glad he has recovered. Now that the governor is better, and is able to answer for himself, I propose to expose the weakness of his administration. I should be glad to discuss them from the same platform with him, in order that he may make his answer to the same audience that I address.

"Gov. McCall has been weak and vacillating. When he joined with certain progressives in a promise to secure real, human legislation from that lobby controlled legislature on Beacon Hill, I determined to watch his record closely, for it seemed strange to me that a man who for twenty years had been the railroad representative at congress could shift his course so suddenly.

"I welcomed the change in Governor McCall, but the change came only in words. He promised well. He did not keep his promise.

"His return to his old, reactionary self dates from the day that Murray Crane persuaded him to renounce Charles Sumner Bird and the Young Guard candidates for the Chicago convention.

"Since that day, he has yielded to the corporations, the vested interests and the office-pedlers, who adorn his private staff in such imposing array.

"Let me tell you the history of the telephone situation on Beacon Hill, to prove that Governor McCall is not alive to his duties, when such duties conflict with the private interests of corporation.

"The telephone rates are higher in Massachusetts than in any other section of the United States. The service is deplorable, not through the fault of the employes, but through the admitted fault of the officials.

"An investigation in New York saved the people of that city $3,000,000 a year in their telephone rates.

"The situation was so much worse in Massachusetts that Governor Walsh, in an official message to the legislature, demanded an investigation of the telephone rates. He felt, as I do, that an investigation would result in reduced rates and improved service.

"Through the operations of Frank Dickerman and other telephone lobbyists, Governor Walsh's bill was killed.

"Did Governor McCall recommend an investigation of telephone rates in his inaugural message? He did not. But a bill was introduced and the chairman of the Massachusetts public service commission, at a hearing on the bill before the committee on mercantile affairs at the state house, declared that it was the imperative duty of the legislature to provide for that investigation.

"The bill was killed. Let me tell you something about how it was done.

"The telephone company said, in substance, to the legislature, 'Don't investigate us this year. Our business is too big now. Let's wait until the rush is over. Do it next year.'

"And while this was going on, Governor McCall was using the influence of his office to abolish the public service commission. He had actually recommended it in his inaugural message. And why?

"Because the telephone company did not want to be investigated while Joseph B. Eastman and men of his type were on the public service commission. They did not want Mr. Eastman and men of his ability investigating their rates, their service and their financial affairs.

"They expected that the public service commission was going to be abolished and that they would be investigated next year by the new public service commission appointed by Mr. McCall.

"Public indignation was so aroused that Gov. McCall, who doubtlessly had been lead into this matter by the persuasive influence by the men who surround him, was literally forced by the weight of public opinion to abandon his effort to oust the public service commission. But the incident serves to illustrate fully that his personal bent is toward the corporation and not toward the common people of this state.

"I have held public office, and as I appreciate the problems that confront a man in public life, I realize it would be neither just nor fair for me to criticize the present chief executive unless I tell what I would have done if I were in his place.

"If I were governor of Massachusetts I would have kept the legislature in session until they provided for an investigation of telephone rates and service.

"If I am elected governor, I shall send a message to the legislature recommending an investigation of rates and service.

"The public service commission should be elected by the people but if it remains as an appointive commission, I will appoint or re-appoint to the public service commission, the kind of men who will properly and honorably investigate telephone rates and service in the interest of telephone users."

Tomorrow Mr. Mansfield will hold a noon-day rally at 12.30 at the Dennison Manufacturing Co., Framingham, and at 1 o'clock will hold a rally at the Long shoe shop in Framingham.

ANDREW CARNEGIE BUYS ESTATE IN LENOX

LENOX, Oct. 31.—Andrew Carnegie of New York has purchased the Shadow Brook estate, noted as one of the most beautiful and costly private residences in the country, and will occupy it as a summer home. The deal is said to involve more than $400,000.

The estate, which was sold to the steel king Samuel P. Shotter of Savannah, Ga., was built 20 years ago by the late Anson Phelps Stokes of New York.

It is the second largest private residence in America, being surpassed only by George Vanderbilt's Biltmore. It is situated on a beautiful slope and commands a view of the surrounding country that is without equal in the Berkshires.

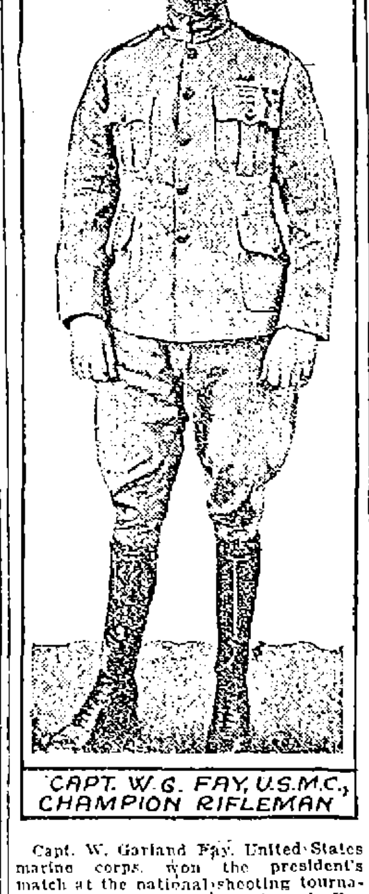

For size and elegance and massiveness of construction as well as beauty of natural surroundings, the residence has long been a potent attraction to students and lovers of perfect architecture. The house itself, which contains 100 rooms, is of old English architecture, the walls of the first floor and the towers being of marble, the second and third floors of stucco and timber.

It has a frontage of more than 400 feet, facing the waters of Stockbridge bowl. The entrance to the grounds is through a rough stone porter's lodge, covered with creeping vines. Within a short distance are the ruins of the old Nathaniel Hawthorne cottage.

A carriage road from the lodge leads through a stretch of shrubbery and floral decoration to the rear of the mansion, where there is a greenhouse, tennis courts and a reservoir fed by springs.

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

SLIP COVERS FOR FURNITURE

"Hasn't auntie pretty slip covers for her chairs?" exclaimed Marjorie as she interrupted Marie putting fresh covers over the furniture in the drawing room. "How I wish I could make some," she concluded.

"It is very easy, I am sure you could," returned Marie. "They are charming in flowers and sprigs and pin striped and summery freshness. And the most wonderful thing about them is that they are soft on the wrong side, so that they won't scratch the furniture.

"First of all they virtually are made on the furniture. A piece of the material is pinned on the part of the chair one has decided to start with, and after it is carefully fitted, it is cut the shape, leaving plenty of allowance for seams. In this way one should carefully do the whole chair, sewing the various pieces together as one gets them cut and trying on many times, in order to insure a perfect fit. Sometimes it is found easier to do all the basting before any part is removed; for others working with preliminary patterns may seem easier.

"The strip which runs from the extreme top of the chair back down to the seat, across the seat and on down to the required length, should be cut lengthwise of the goods without piecing. Before cutting, it should be tucked well into the crease between the seat and the back. The narrow fronts of the arms are cut out separately.

The fasteners are balls and sockets, or buttons and buttonholes or in some instances, little bows.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

KEITH'S THEATRE

To pick the headliner at the B. F. Keith theatre this week is not easy. There is so much that is good and so much that is novel and so much that is really and truly comic—but let us take Katherine Dana's Fisher Folks for a beginning. Their offering is "Summer Visitors" and it has been staged in a stageland corner of quaint old Provincetown. When the curtain goes up a group of fisher lads and lasses are seen resting on the shore. It is moonlight on the sea, and they are singing a soft crooning melody. Soon come visitors—a fashionable lady with a lovely voice and a newly wedded pair that furnish the comedy. The songs are of the old heart throb variety and there are some unique specialties. One of the fisher boys sings a song in which the imaginative can hear the booming of the distress guns, and there are some chorus offerings that recall the days of real music in vaudeville. Night falls and again the fisher folk sing while far away out at sea the red and white lights of a tiny lighthouse flash warningly. If you want to recall happy vacation memories at the shore, be sure to see those clever and fascinating fisher folks. It is an omission that their names are not on the program as they deserve individual mention.

John and Mae Burke are with us again. You know John, don't you? He has faltering legs—in the act—an old rose nose and a squeaky little voice like a chicken a week old. Once the general said to him "You're a Union soldier; you belong to the Union; you've fought for the Union—take your union suit and go to bed." That's John. He is a burlesque on a soldier all the way up—but in a legitimate way. Before the close of the act he plays a piano or what is left of it, for he pulls it to pieces, even going so far as to pull out a bunch of keys. Mae Burke is some von Hindenburg. Her chief contribution to the act is her figure—and she contributes largely.

A barrel full of wholesome fun, shot through with genuine wit—that's Walsh Lynch and Co. in "Along the Erie." It is a rural comedy in which the lead is taken by Billy Walsh who as Jimmie Hicke introduces the middle west to the slang of Broadway. Frank E. Lynch takes two parts and he is admirable in each. His singing of "Rural Free Delivery" has the flavor of Yankee folk humor, and the interest is sustained throughout. It would be interesting to know how many firms are on Billy Walsh's royalty list. He mentions about a score of well advertised articles in his talkalogues, and incidentally he mentions our Sunday hotels. Spalding park and other things of local interest. Billy and Frank are well mated to chase the glooms.

Quaint humor with an undercurrent of sadness and an accompaniment of twanging strings is in the musical offering of The Leightons in "The Party of the Second Part." It is a pleasing act winding up to a finale in which both sit on a trunk and sing Hawaiian music. The story of one domestic tragedy is stopped in its gruesome stages, and 'tis really a pity. There would be a great moral in it for frivolous wives who might be tempted to entertain company while their husbands are out digging clams.

Eugenia Le Blanc is plump and athletic, a combination all the more delightful for its rarity. She is six girls in one, and all of them professional entertainers. Her dances are of the highest order, and she changes from the grotesque to the beautifully spectacular in a jiffy. Now she is a rollicking Dutch girl, just a wee bit bow-legged, and in half a minute she is a peacock princess from the Ballet Russe. And what is more important—she puts all of her act over with a capital O.

Can it be that the war has scared the DeBourg sisters over here? They are French in the conventional way, with tons of temperament to spare, and they are vera vera clever. Mesdames have their hair built up on a trellis and they had appointments with an American dentist in Paris before touring, but the act's the thing after all. The junior Mme. De Bourg can make the "hankercher" dissappear in chic fashion, and at the close of the act she makes a pincushion out of her fond sister—only she uses swords.

The Gausch sisters are athletic in the Roman athlete way but they are pretty and feminine while doing difficult stunts. They give a good ending to an excellent bill. The pictures are interesting and up to the minute. All in all it is a show well worth seeing.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Never Say Die," William H. Post's great comedy success, was presented yesterday afternoon and evening by the Emerson Players before large and appreciative audiences at the Opera House. This piece, made famous by such actors as William Collier, Nat Goodwin and others, had the phenomenal record run of seven months in New York city, three months in Chicago, 11 months in London, six months in Australia and for three seasons was a prime favorite on the tour of both continents.

This comedy is one of the funniest that has been staged for years, it being bright and breezy and it is a case of laugh from the time the curtain rises on the first act until the end of the performance. Inasmuch as "Never Say Die" is well known to the theatre-going public and the ability of the Emerson Players in portraying plays the attendances during the week bid fair to be along the record-breaking line.

The particular shining lights in the interpretation of the comedy are Mr. Ivan Miller and Miss Harriet Duke.

The story of the play concerns a young man who inherited a fortune, but he is told, after being examined by a number of physicians, that he is to die within a month.

He meets a former college friend of his and learns that the latter is to be married within a year if able to secure sufficient funds to carry out the plans of the bride-elect. "Dionysius Woodbury," the man who acquired the fortune and is scheduled to die at the end of the month suggests to his friend that he marry the girl and when he dies the wife will have enough of money to carry out her project.

The marriage takes place, but after four weeks have passed Woodbury is still alive and very active for a near dead man. Prior to the announcement of his short time to live Woodbury had been dieting himself, but after living for sometime after the date set for his demise by the physicians he starts to indulge in all kinds of food, anything that appeals to him and as a result he becomes stronger.

Upon returning home after a year, the young woman finds that her lover has been untrue to her and having fallen deeply in love with her husband who she expects to die, everything turns out satisfactory to the couple.

Ivan Miller has a splendid opportunity to display his talent as a comedian in portraying the part of "Woodbury," the millionaire who is to live but a month. His way of doing things convulses the audience with laughter.

Miss Harriet Duke, who has taken the place of Miss Inez Ragan, as leading lady of the company, made a splendid "Violet Stevens," the young woman who marries "Woodbury" with the understanding that he is to live but a short time. Miss Rose Morison is good as "Violet's" mother and the other members of the cast carry their parts in a manner which reflects much credit on the company.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Many pleasant surprises were enjoyed by the patrons who crowded the Merrimack Square theatre yesterday afternoon and evening. "The Shine Girl" with Gladys Hulette in the leading role was a pleasant surprise to all as no one dreamed of ever seeing a play so interesting, so elaborate and so well acted as was this five act drama which was shown yesterday and which will also be shown today and tomorrow at all performances. The little shine girl is a slum philosopher who, by her work which is to gladden the hearts of others radiates joy and happiness to all who come in contact with her. Miss Hulette is a distinguished horsewoman and when she rides down an almost impossible cliff to save a little child she furnishes a thrill, the like and equal of which is never attained in motion pictures. In the story the little girl steals a loaf of bread for a hungry friend. She is caught. A kind young judge of the children's court makes her see that she should not take what does not belong to her. Later he is about to run away with another man's wife. She then asks him if he meant what he said about stealing. What can he answer. Yes, indeed, "The Shine Girl" is replete with heart interest.

The captivating Ann Pennington added another wreath of laurels to herself when she appeared at this theatre yesterday in "The Rainbow Princess," a five act picture of circus life. An entire circus was used in this play to bring out the realistic effect. The play is a strong drama, dealing with the fortunes of a little circus dancer who dances her way to success and into the hearts of old Judge Warren and his son.

The motion pictures of the Columbus Day parade recently held in Lowell, proved to be a big hit. As they were shown, in different parts of the theatre could be heard remarks to the effect that somebody saw their picture or that of a friend of theirs. These pictures as well as those above mentioned will be shown today and tomorrow.

ROYAL THEATRE

The extra charge of five cents admission over the regular prices, did not deter the crowd at the Royal theatre yesterday, who witnessed the premiere of "How Britain Prepared," in Lowell. These films, which are quite a celebrity by the way, attracted considerable notice while at the Shubert, in Boston, and the audiences which filled the theatre to capacity yesterday, were well aware of the nature of these fine, authentic portraits of conditions in England during wartime. It is not strange that the Royal raised the prices, considering the charge of admission, which Boston audiences gladly paid for the very same show. The films were not disappointing, and another big rush is expected today—so come early in order to secure seating accommodations.

OWL THEATRE

Francis Bushman and Beverly Bayne, the recognized sovereigns of the screen, and the most popular co-stars now in motion pictures will again be seen at the Owl theatre this afternoon and evening in the new Metro release, "In the Diplomatic Service." This new photoplay is considered one of the most powerful ever released from the Metro studios, and it tells a vivid story of love and international politics, and the social life of the nation's capital. A big surrounding program of the latest photoplays will also be shown.

WALSH—LYNCH & CO., in "ALONG THE ERIE"

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

While standing at Tower's corner with a friend, an old timer, on Saturday, the latter looking across at the Old Farragut House exclaimed: "If the hotel keepers of today ran their places like "Joe" Purcell used to conduct the Farragut House years ago, there'd be no trouble or complaint about conditions in the hotels on Sunday."

And by a singular coincidence, as I learned later, my friend made the statement on the 25th anniversary of the death of the late "Joe" Purcell—October 28, 1891.

In the old days the Farragut House was daily crowded with traveling men and when the Opera House opened it was the headquarters of all theatrical stars that came to Lowell, while before the coming of the Opera House it accommodated many of the stars who came to old Music Hall. On the registers of the Farragut House might be found distinguished names by the hundred. Mr. Purcell's family resided at the hotel, one of their number being the present register of deeds, William C. Purcell, and hence the hostelry was conducted on the highest plane, and never were any complaints made concerning it. It was also the scene of many notable banquets in the past.

The Sun of quarter of a century ago had the following account of the death of "Joe" Purcell:

"On Wednesday evening the many friends of Joseph W. Purcell, proprietor of the Farragut House, were shocked to learn that he had departed from this life, though his death was not unexpected by his family as he had been ill for eight weeks.

"Mr. Purcell's death will be widely mourned for he was very popular on account of his genial manner and cheerfulness of disposition while he was ever ready to succor a friend in distress. Mr. Purcell was born in England and was but 51 years of age, although he appeared somewhat older. When but six years of age he came to this country with his parents and settled in Suncook, N. H., where he remained for a short time before coming to Lowell. He entered the employment of James Meadowcroft, bolt manufacturer in this city, but remained at that business only a short time when he accepted a more lucrative position with the J. C. Ayer Co., for whom he went to Canada to put the company's medicine in the British provinces, a custom then adopted to avoid the payment of duty on the exported product.

"At the outbreak of the Civil war, although holding a good position with the Ayer company, Mr. Purcell returned to the states and enlisted in the navy. He served on the gunboats 'Lockwood' and 'Stars and Stripes' and was six months on the 'Potomac' participating in the first battles that were won by the Union forces in North Carolina. He prided himself on having been aboard the first boat that went ashore there under Admiral Farragut. After the two years for which he had enlisted had expired he returned home but soon enlisted for three years and on his next campaign he was on the flagship 'Colorado' and went to the Mediterranean. While there he participated in the international boat race in which the 'Colorado' was the winner although she competed under a great disadvantage. In naval parlance, while on his boat he was captain of the top and cockswain of the commodore's gig. After spending six years in the navy he received an honorable discharge and returned to Lowell and became engaged in business. He opened the Farragut House in 1880 and was soon obliged to enlarge that hostelry. He was a member of Post 12, G. A. R., the Elks and several charitable organizations."

Thus it will be noted how the Farragut house received its name. It might be added that as Mr. Purcell conducted his hotel business on a high and exemplary plane, so has his son conducted the affairs of the office of register of deeds.

Fred N. Wier

Frederick N. Wier, the well known attorney, of the firm of Trull & Wier, entered politics just quarter of a century ago and was elected to the legislature on the republican ticket from the old 22nd representative district, which included Centralville. Today Frederick N. Wier, "having matured," is a staunch supporter of Woodrow Wilson for president. In the contest of quarter of a century ago Mr. Wier, the republican candidate, received 906 votes, Edward Greenhalge, democrat, 641, and J. I. Brown, prohibitionist, 44. Speaking of prohibition candidates, a slimly attended prohibition rally was held in front of city hall a few days ago, and in the evening a number of men were discussing politics in front of The Sun building, when one of them asked: "I wonder if there was anyone up to hear the prohibition speakers this afternoon?"

"Yes, there were Bob Paradis, Willis Dean and Joe Cronin of the Courier-Citizen, Harry Howe and a few other Salvation Army men," replied another of the party.

French-American Democrats

It would appear from the columns of The Sun of quarter of a century ago that the French-American voters of the city were mostly democrats at that time, as would be indicated by the following editorial paragraph that appeared in The Sun immediately after the state election:

"In ward 5 the democrats polled over 100 plurality in the election which indicates that the French vote there is fast increasing. The new French democratic club is doing good work, and in a year or two will add many more voters to the list in that ward."

Ward 5 quarter of a century ago included practically all of the present ward 7 and Little Canada. For many years it was republican. Of the French Democratic club of quarter of a century ago The Sun had the following:

"The recently organized French Democratic club held a ratification meeting in its hall, on Wednesday evening, and great enthusiasm was manifest as the result of the election. The hall was tastefully decorated while the portrait of Gov. Russell was conspicuously displayed amid the folds of the American flag. The Papal Zouaves attended the meeting in a body. Benjamin Lenthier of Le National, who has done such excellent work in the campaign called to order and after congratulating all present upon the fact that the French vote of the state was cast solidly for Gov. Russell, the democratic candidate, proposed a toast to the governor. J. H. Guillet responded ably. Gov. Flower's health was next toasted, Mr. Lenthier responding in behalf of the governor of New York. L. Gallairdet spoke for the club and ridiculed the contentions of a local French paper that any large percentage of the French voters of Lowell were republicans.

"John C. King of the democratic headquarters congratulated the French-Americans for their efforts in behalf of the democratic party. Hon. John J. Donovan made an address in which he referred to the great triumph of labor in the election of Russell; the necessity of naturalization and the thoughtful consideration of everyone understanding the principles at issue before casting a vote for a party which might advocate measures diametrically opposed to the prosperity of the people. Mr. Donovan referred to the exploration and the settlement of America, and the discovery of the Merrimack river before the settlement of Jamestown or the waters of Plymouth bay were disturbed by the Mayflower, as well as the important part taken by the French in the Revolutionary war. He impressed upon his hearers the necessity of naturalization."

Lowell Opera Company

Do you remember the Lowell Opera company of merry and melodious memory. They opened up quarter of a century ago with a successful production of "Iolanthe," and their debut was reported by the old Sun as follows:

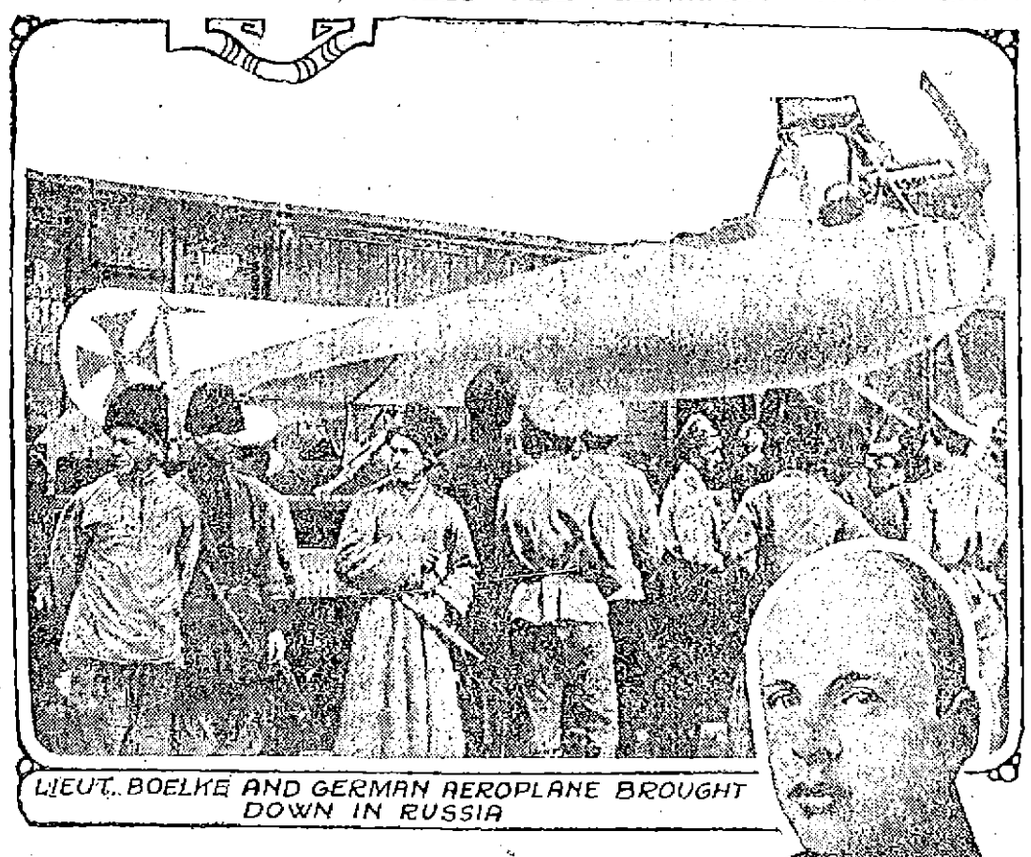

"The Lowell Opera company presented Gilbert & Sullivan's opera "Iolanthe" in the Opera House, Wednesday evening, to a large and appreciative audience. The performance was highly creditable to the company and highly pleasing to the audience; the costumes were rich and attractive while the acting and singing generally were as good as could be expected from an amateur company. The music of this opera is rather tame but the leading roles were finely interpreted.

"Mr. George Burns, as an Arcadian shepherd played the part of the lover very acceptably and sang well, as he always does, his fine rich baritone voice being heard to advantage in several solos and duets. Miss Lizzie McLaughlin made a charming Phyllis and sang with vim and expression. David P. Martin as the Lord Chancellor showed his ability as a comedian, and sang with a dash and abandon well befitting the moods of the character assumed. His topical verses introduced into the song: "Said I to Myself, Said I," were a surprise to the audience and made a decided hit. Mr. T. F. Molloy sang in good voice and as Earl Tolollal did some excellent vocal work. Mr. D. S. O'Brien played the role of the Earl of Montararat with skill and ability; Miss Mary E. Brady made a delightful queen of the fairies, delivering her lines with ease and grace, while Mary McLaughlin was equally successful as Iolanthe. Mr. A. L. Kerr impersonated Private Wells in admirable manner and Misses Bella Cook, Mabel Ware and Mamie Hill were the leading fairies. The chorus comprised many accomplished singers and did fine work, taking part with spirit and precision rarely equalled on such an occasion. In fine, the company throughout the whole performance showed the result of careful and well directed training. The names of the members of the chorus are as follows: James A. Murphy, John Boyd, David A. McHugh, George Sturtevant, Bert Stevenson, Peter Clune, Henry Reynolds, Andrew Haley, John McMahon, Walter Knapp, James Haley, P. A. Corcoran, George Wilkins, Frank Fagan, George Raynes, Mrs. George Wilkins and Mrs. Jessie Wilman, Misses Mabel Ware, Lilla Cook, Minnie Hill, Susie Cook, Barbara Carkill, Christina Kenny, Maggie McCaffery, Katie McCaffery, Mary Mullin, Katie Corcoran, Nano Gallagher, Louise McLaughlin, Katie Rafferty.

"Les Miserables showed their appreciation of Mr. Molloy's efforts by presenting him a beautiful floral harp inscribed with the name of the club and Misses Lizzie and Mary McLaughlin, Miss Brady and Miss Ware received a handsome bouquet each. The company won the hearty applause of the audience for uniformly good, rather than occasionally brilliant work."

THE OLD TIMER.

DEATH OF BOELKE, AVIATOR HERO, FILLS ALL GERMANY WITH GRIEF

LIEUT. BOELKE AND GERMAN AEROPLANE BROUGHT DOWN IN RUSSIA

Captain Boelke, the famous German aviator and one of Germany's most popular war heroes, in the course of an air flight came into collision with another aeroplane and was killed, according to a Berlin dispatch received in London by way of Amsterdam. His machine landed within the German lines. The day before Captain Boelke had shot down his fortieth aeroplane.

A Paris newspaper on Oct. 18 reported that Boelke had been severely wounded by a shell from a French anti-aircraft gun. Since then, however, his name has been mentioned in the German official statements.

Captain Boelke was the most spectacular figure among all the thousands of aviators flying at the front in Europe. He seemed to bear a charmed life, and as recently as September it was reported that he had escaped almost certain death five different times when his aeroplanes were practically shot from under him.

In June it was reported that he had been killed in an air battle with Roger Ribiers, a French aviator, over the Verdun battlefield. This report was corrected a few days later by Victor Chapman, the New York aviator who recently lost his life while flying with the Franco-American Flying corps.

Boelke is shown in the pictures with a German aeroplane brought down in Russia. He started in the Imperial Flying corps as an observer, later becoming a pilot. His steady eye, sure nerves and courage soon sent him to the fighting detachment of his service, where his duties were to meet and fight off the French and English battleplanes and reconnaissance machines. In this he was more successful than any other aviator. He always flew alone, managing his machine and its gun by himself.

Boelke was a native of Dessau, and took up aviation in peace times as a sport. When he was called out by the war he entered the flying service. He had filled a very large place in Germany's war imagination, and his death has brought universal grief to all parts of the empire. The emperor and the military authorities had singled out Boelke many times for recognition and reward. He wore the iron cross.

WOMEN OF KAMERUN

Members of Middlesex Women's Club Hear Miss Jean Kenyon Mackenzie In Interesting Story

The Middlesex Women's club felt a little disappointed yesterday afternoon at the failure of Maud Howe Elliott to keep her lecture appointment. Mrs. Elliott was out campaigning somewhere in the west and instead the club heard a simple talk on "The Women of the Kamerun" by Miss Jean Kenyon Mackenzie, a noted author and missionary. The disappointment was only prefatory, however, for in the recital of the pitiful tragedies of the banks of the Congo, all selfish feelings and regrets must have been forgotten.

The lecturer described the scene of her labors in the "cellars of the forest." In the Kamerun, the trees are so dense and tall that one does not know of the gorgeous flowers on the roof unless some vivid blossom falls from on high. Up there on the top of the trees are the monkeys and the beautiful birds, but down in the dark live the people—the dominant men and the tragic women who are bought and sold from childhood to old age. The missionaries made a clearing and let the sunshine in—but what a life for a sensitive woman who sees in the women of the Kamerun her sisters, suffering all the pangs that women have suffered since time immemorial!

The women of the Kamerun are very simple, said the lecturer. All their life is bound up in their hut, the spring from which they draw water and their garden. They have their innate modesty and their conventions. They may say and do things which American women would regard as vulgar, but they avoid subjects which are commonly talked about in the best society. The women of the Congo have their own code and their own conventions. Yet, they are mostly unmoral—being bought and sold at the will of their dusky lords. The little settlements are threaded on the trails like beads on a string, and the women are bartered and traded between the tribes. Miss Mackenzie pictured an African village, with the leaves of the palms waving above and the smoke wreathing itself over all. The head man sits before his door and looks down his village. He knows everything about his women, for generally he has bought them all. You may come upon this dignitary cleaning the streets in front of his dwelling. He has many women to do it for him, but it is a badge of his independence.

The pathos of woman's life in the Kamerun was condensed in the story of the woman whom the lecturer met walking along silently with her hands on her head—ancient symbol of despair. She had had a son in the second marriage back and he was ill and in need of her but her present husband would not let her go. It takes a great deal of courage for one of these to be a Christian. First of all she confesses all her wrong-doing to her husband and he usually beats her soundly. One Christian woman came to the speaker and told how in a dream she had seen a baby she had in a distant village by a previous marriage. She asked if her religion would permit her to run away to him. "When I speak of the troubles of women to these," she said, "their faces get fixed in a tragic way. They understand too well. To many the story of Christ comes as a great solace. He is the 'Child of the Sister' and He Consoles them for the children who die, the children who never come, the taunts of rivals and the gossip of merciless primitive villages."

ORDERS REPRISAL UPON RUSSIAN PRISONERS

ACTION OF GERMANY PENDING RUSSIA'S ACCEPTANCE OF GERMAN DEMANDS

BERLIN, Oct. 31, by wireless to Sayville—Measures of reprisal upon Russian prisoners have been ordered by the German government pending the Russian government's acceptance of German demands for improving treatment of German prisoners of war in Russia, according to the semi-official North German Gazette.

This newspaper states that the German government asked of the Russian government that it put an end to conditions which were causing suffering to German prisoners of war and that the period given by the German government for compliance having elapsed without a satisfactory answer from Russia, the German government has ordered reprisals. To this end, it is stated, a number of commissioned officers belonging to crack Russian regiments have been transferred to a special camp where the discipline is especially severe and where they will remain until the Russian government complies with the German request.

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT WITHDRAWS DEMAND

HAD REQUESTED BANKS USING WIRELESS TO FILE COPIES OF SECRET CIPHERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The navy department, it was announced today, has withdrawn its demand that banks using the wireless to send messages to Europe shall file with the government censor copies of their secret ciphers to be used for testing messages addressed by the banks to their foreign correspondents.

Since the establishment of the wireless censorship the banks have willingly given the government copies of their codes but they had not been required to supply the "key" to the signature which is the sole test of the authenticity of the messages. If that cipher became known bankers said, messages could be sent to any part of the world instructing the recipient to pay out money and there would be no way of preventing the fraud.

When this was explained to the navy department officials, they decided to accept the suggestion that the banks instead of filing the test words should merely give the wireless censors affidavits to the effect that the messages they sent contained no objectionable matter. The banks also agreed to preface the test words or figures with the notation "test."

SLEEPYTIME TALES

HOW GRACE NAMED THE FISH

Once upon a time the twins had found a little fish and had put it in a hollow in a rock with cool salt water, and they fed and called it their own. Anita thought it should have a name and Baby Grace said the "sish" should also. Uncle Frank said Sish was a good name for it and so the fish was named Sish.

The rock that it lived in was near enough for the tide to splash in fresh water but not near enough to carry it off. Each morning it was fed and soon it was quite tame and would eat the bugs Thurston brought it, out of his hand. The children had had their pet nearly a month and Uncle Frank was making a box for them so they could take it home with them to their city home.

One day, however, it began to rain and rain, and that night the waves came up on the beach higher than ever before and when the twins went down the next morning to see their pet they found that the tide had come up and washed their pet out of its home and into the sea. They all felt so sorry they didn't know what to do, and even Thurston wiped his eyes with the back of his hand and said, "It was a nice pet," and Anita said she would rather have Sish for a pet than some of her dolls.

It seemed lonesome without their pet and when their grandfather came home at night they told him all about it and he said it was too bad and went with them down to the beach to see the empty place in the rocks.

The next night, when grandfather came home he had something in his hand which he was carrying very, very carefully. When he undid the paper there were three goldfish in a large glass bowl, two gold and black for the twins and one all gold for Baby Grace.

How the children danced around and clapped their hands with joy, but said Thurston, "We'll keep them in the bowl and never let them out; then we can't lose them," and they never did.

Mother Praises Remedy That Relieved Her Baby

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Is a Dependable Family Laxative.

Nearly all the sickness incident to a baby's life is due to constipation, or inaction of the bowels. At the first indication of irregularity in this important function, relief should be afforded promptly. A mild laxative should be administered to gently carry off the congested waste and leave the stomach and bowels free to perform their allotted tasks.

Of the various remedies recommended to relieve constipation, the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, as prescribed by Dr. W. B. Caldwell and sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the most effective. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant to the taste, mild and gentle in action, and quickly brings the desired relief in an easy, natural manner.

Mrs. C. J. Douglas, Mason, Ill., writes that she cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a dependable family laxative. Little Mary Eva had been badly constipated until they tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which brought the first natural relief the child had had in two weeks.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere and costs only fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

DUFFY'S REPUTATION FOR RELIABILITY

cannot be usurped by "something just as good." If a dealer considers an imitation of Duffy's "just as good," why does he attempt to sell it to you? He knows imitations are not "just as good" as which has been a standard article of commerce for 60 years, for in copying the work of others there is no virtue.

When you say: "I want Duffy's;" don't let a dealer change your mind. He is trying to dispose of an inferior article at greater profit without regard for your health and well being. Because we know Duffy's Malt is made right and is the highest quality tonic stimulant it is possible to produce, we want the public to know that we are responsible for it. That's why "Duffy's Annual" is around each bottle, the "Old Chemist" trade mark is on the label and over the cork, and our name is also blown into the bottle. This is for your protection, so that you can always be sure to

"Get Duffy's and Keep Well."

Sold in Sealed Bottles Only. Beware of Imitations.

NOTE Get Duffy's from your local druggist, grocer or dealer. $1.00 per bottle. If he cannot supply you, write us. Send for useful household booklet free.

BASEBALL PLAYERS IN NEW DEMANDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The official list of requests made by the Baseball Players' Fraternity to the baseball national commission and the national board for concessions to its members was outlined yesterday by President David L. Fultz of the Fraternity, as follows:

Want Full Pay

1—That clauses in baseball contracts empowering clubs to suspend without pay, after certain periods of disability, players who are injured in service, be eliminated, and that such players be entitled to full pay as long as they are held under contract.

2—That Rule 34 of the "Rules and Regulations" of the National board be amended in so far as it violates marked "First" of the fraternity agreement.

3—That minor league players receive their travelling expenses from their homes to the training camps when reporting for spring practice. (The words "travelling expenses" to include, in addition to railroad ticket, berth and meal money where either or both of the last two items are usual expenses of the trip involved.)

As to Hearings

4—That the procedure now employed by the National board in hearing players' claims presented by the fraternity be amended so that the fraternity shall receive copies of the defences interposed by the clubs and an opportunity be given it of answering such defences; that immediately upon decisions being rendered the fraternity shall be served with a copy thereof and the players' exhibits, if any, presented by the fraternity, returned to it, if requested. That the board shall enforce its award against the clubs.

In a brief supporting the fraternity's petition, President Fultz, acting for the board of directors, states in part, referring to the various requests:

"Request 1—There exists today in many of the minor league contracts, and in some of those of the American league, a clause allowing clubs to suspend without pay, a player who has been disabled on the field.

Rule Unjust

"We believe that this rule is unjust to the player, in that it deprives him of the opportunity of earning his livelihood, not because of any breach of discipline on his part, not because he has neglected in any way to do his full duty, but because he, engaged in a dangerous occupation, disregarding his own welfare in his excessive desire to win, has taken a risk in the furtherance of that desire which has brought injury upon him.

"We believe that the worst treatment a player in this situation should receive is his unconditional release, or, in other words, his discharge, if the club does not wish to pay his salary. By the clause under consideration, however, a club is allowed to retain title to the player, prevent his going to any other club and yet pay him no salary.

"Request 2—The National board, at its annual meeting in the fall of 1915, enacted a clause, designated Rule 34 of the rules and regulations of the National board, which is in direct violation of Section 1 of the fraternity agreement.

"This section permits a player who has received notice of his unconditional release to immediately negotiate for his services, so that by expiration of the release period he will have a position open for him. Rule 34 complained of takes this right away from the minor league player, thus materially lessening the value of the release notice."

FORMER HEAD OF NAT. LEAGUE IS DEAD

NICHOLAS E. YOUNG, OLD TIME PLAYER AND LEAGUE PRESIDENT, PASSED AWAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Nicholas E. Young, an old time baseball player and formerly president of the National league, died at his home here early today. He had been employed in the treasury department for some time.

He became president and secretary of the National league in 1881 and held that position until 1903 when he retired and was succeeded by Harry Pulliam.

Mr. Young had been an invalid for four years.

NAVY TEAM APPEARS STRONG; INGRAM PLAYING FINE GAME

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 31.—The Navy coaches are now a happy lot. The early showing of the team has more than come up to expectations of the handlers of the middy gridiron boys. In the recent game with Georgia university, which Annapolis won by a score of 27 to 3, the Navy team was smooth in attack and sturdy in defense. Ingram at halfback has shown up in great form in the last few games. He surely will be a factor in all the Navy games from now on and a man whom the West Pointers will have to watch in the big Army-Navy battle scheduled to be held at the Polo grounds, New York, Nov. 25.

MANY LEAGUE MATCHES ON LOCAL ALLEYS

Many interesting league matches were rolled on local alleys last evening. Three games were rolled in the Waterhead league on the Middlesex alleys and two Broadway league matches took place on the Highland alleys.

WILSON A WINNER IN WIDE STRAW VOTE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 31.—The Evening York Herald's straw vote to date shows Wilson leading Hughes in states which have 331 electoral votes. Only 266 electoral votes are necessary for election.

The states which the Herald gives to President Wilson are: Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New York, Ohio, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and all the south. Even without New York, which the president will carry by upward of 100,000, he would have 266 electoral votes.

"The drift during the week was unquestionably in the president's direction," the Herald says.

Columbus, Oct. 31.—The Evening Dispatch's poll to date: Wilson, 34,445; Hughes, 22,244.

BUFFALO, Oct. 31—The Courier's poll to date: Wilson, 10,570; Hughes, 7556.

Tomorrow, a holiday of obligation, the feast of All Saints will be observed by the celebration of masses at 5.15, 7 and 8 a. m. On Thursday, All Souls day, masses will be celebrated at 5.15 and 7 o'clock, and a requiem high mass will be sung at 8 o'clock.

DENNIS LEARY DEAD

Former Member of City Council and Hotel Proprietor Died Suddenly Last Evening

Dennis J. Leary, a well known resident of this city and former proprietor of the American hotel in Central street, died suddenly last night. Mr. Leary, who had been in the employ of the Bay State Street Railway Co., was on his way from the power house and in passing through Gorham street was suddenly seized with a weak spell. He fell to the sidewalk and was taken into a nearby store where restoratives were applied. Several doctors were also summoned, but he died within a few minutes of the time he was taken ill.

The deceased was for a number of years a member of the common council, under the old form of government. He is survived by one son, John D.; one brother, Daniel H. Leary, and three sisters, Misses Ella E. and Elizabeth T. Leary and Mrs. William H. Sheehan.

The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons and today taken to his late home, 756 Broadway.

SAYS GERMANY WANTS PEACE

Berlin Paper Says, "We Want Europe to Live, Not Germany Only"

Never Hated France Want Peace of Whole Blood Stained World

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Berlin Vorwaerts, commenting on the interview with Field Marshal von Hindenburg yesterday in which he discussed many phases of the war says, according to a Berlin despatch forwarded by Amsterdam:

"He advises France to be reasonable and not to act as a further obstacle to peace. This advice will have a better chance of being heard abroad if we show ourselves reasonable, too. If we are going to drag this war on indefinitely then the whole of Europe will bleed to death and America and the colored races would be our heirs. But we want Europe to live, not Germany only, but all the nations. We want France to live. We see her now bleeding white, but we have never hated her. We want peace also for England and Russia, peace for the whole blood stained world."

STATE OF VIRGINIA "DRY" AFTER TODAY

NEW LAW GOES INTO EFFECT AT MIDNIGHT—800 SALOONS WILL CLOSE

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 31.—This was the last day on which intoxicating beverages may be sold legally in Virginia. At midnight tonight the new prohibition law goes into effect and about 800 saloons in the state will have closed their doors for the last time.

Reports from all parts of the state today told of large quantities of liquor being stored away in the homes of citizens in anticipation of a dry state. In this city thousands of gallons are said to have been delivered to private homes.

The law stipulates that a person may order from another state but one quart of whiskey per month, three gallons of beer or one gallon of wine. This right remains to be tested in the courts.

NOTED REPUBLICANS ARE OUT FOR WILSON

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—An instance of how the tide is turning to President Wilson in Pennsylvania is furnished by the announcement just made by two prominent republicans here of their endorsement of President Wilson's policies. The new supporters of the president are Adolph Marcus, a leading wholesale merchant, and John M. Harris, a well known member of the bar, who has frequently been a campaign speaker for the republicans.

"Wilson has been a wonderful president and I shall vote for him," says Mr. Marcus. "He has been the man needed in such a critical time. As a business man I know that this tariff talk is all nonsense. It is silly to talk about a high tariff when there will be no need of a tariff again for 40 years. Our country is growing so fast in population that we can now use everything we make here. Europe will need everything it can make, too, so why talk about a condition that cannot exist?"

"Woodrow Wilson towers above them all," says Mr. Harris. "He is the big American. There is no man who knows America as he knows it and there is no set of men living that can control him."

HALLOWEEN PARTY

A very pleasant Halloween party was held Friday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Hiltz, Berkeley avenue. During the evening a musical program was carried out as follows: Piano solos, Mr. Richard Carlin, Miss Lorine Tartar, Miss Sadie Carr and Miss Mary Egan; vocal solos by Miss Esther Shaw, Mr. Thomas Carlin, Miss Babe Lavine, Miss Etta Donohue and Mr. Arthur McCann; hula hula dance by Miss Esther Cooney and Mr. James McCann. General dancing followed. Refreshments were served. Friends were present from Lawrence, Haverhill and Boston. The success of the affair was due to the efforts of Misses Margaret Hiltz, Etta Donohue, Sadie Carr, Esther Shaw and Mrs. Martin Hiltz.

ANOTHER JUMP IN HIGH COST OF KEEPING WARM

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The high cost of keeping warm took another jump here today. Householders in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx learned that coal in the domestic sizes, egg and nut, now brings $12 a ton.

Dealers attributed the increase to the tremendous consumption of coal in factories throughout the country, which are running day and night to fill war and other orders; to the natural increase of coal orders at this time of the year; to the inability of railroads, because of a shortage of equipment, to haul all the coal that is ordered, and to the large increases in shipments of coal to foreign countries, chiefly Canada. There is no shortage, it is said, in the coal supply.

Anthracite coal operators declare that the shortage of labor is largely responsible for high prices. Thousands of mine workers have returned to their homes in Europe to fight and others have gone to earn better wages in war munition factories.

ELMER BUCKLAND DEAD

Well Known Printer Passed Away This Morning After an Illness of Several Months

Elmer E. Buckland, proprietor and manager of the Buckland Printing Co. in Middle street, died today, aged 48 years, 1 month and 16 days. He had been in poor health for several months. He tried change of climate, consulted specialists and did everything possible for the restoration of his former health, but he fell into a gradual decline that resulted in his death today. Elmer Buckland had many friends in Lowell and while they knew of his failing health, the news of his death will be more or less a shock to them. He was honest and upright in his dealings and those who knew him best loved him most. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Katherine Buckland; one daughter, Barbara; his father, Gardner E. Buckland, and two sisters, Miss Cora Buckland and Mrs. C. Marshall Forrest. Deceased was for several years a member of the Yorick, Vesper Country, Highland and Central clubs, and retained his membership in the Yorick club up to the time of his death.

PULMOTOR SAVED SANBORN'S LIFE

HAVERHILL, Oct. 31.—When he had been revived by use of the pulmotor after inhaling illuminating gas early yesterday morning, John Sanborn, aged 64, of 66 Emerson street, told the police that he had taken bichloride of mercury and would end his life the first chance he had. Sanborn was committed to the state insane hospital at Danvers yesterday afternoon.

Sanborn, it is said, has been suffering from mental derangement for several weeks. He had told his son-in-law that if he failed to report for work at the shoe factory where he is employed that he would be found dead in his room. Yesterday morning Sanborn failed to appear when the factory opened and when fellow workmen went to his room they found him lying on his bed, overcome by gas.

A call was sent to the police station and a pulmotor was rushed to the scene. City Physician H. M. Crittenden and Medical Examiner John F. Croston also hastened to the house. By use of the pulmotor Sanborn was revived. He told the physicians that he had turned the gas on at 4 o'clock and that previously he had taken bichloride of mercury and that he intended to end his life.

LOCAL ARTISTS IN RECITAL

A fine program has been prepared for the vocal and instrumental recital to be given in Colonial hall tomorrow evening, Nov. 1st. The attraction is proving to be more keen because local people will be heard on this occasion.

Miss Clemence Simard, of this city, is the soprano with a most pleasing tone and a remarkable range. She originally studied at the Boston Conservatory, but is now continuing under the direction of Mr. Edmunds of this city. Much diligent work on her part has given her the standing which she now maintains. Miss Simard expects to go on a concert tour shortly, and this will be in the nature of a send off by her many friends.

Mr. William Heller, who is also a local musician, will be heard at the piano. Aside from being the accompanist for the soloists, he will interpret on the piano the famous "Waltz" by Kreisler.

Others appearing on this occasion are Mr. Theodore Post, a lyric tenor with a bell like register; Jackson Palmer, Esq., a deep and resonant bass singer; Mr. Frank J. Deignan, an able violinist with a keen idea of the value of musical tones.

Music lovers of Lowell may consider this an opportunity to hear an aggregation of artists in a joint concert, upon which occasion many favorite pieces will be rendered, some by special request. Tickets for the concert may be obtained at Steinert's music store.

LOWELL FANS WILL WATCH RIVET WORK

CANADIAN CHAMPION WILL DEMAND MATCH FROM MIKE GLOVER IF HE LICKS RYAN

A large crowd of local fans will go to Lawrence next Thursday evening to watch George Rivet, the welterweight champion of Canada, perform against Billy Ryan of New Brunswick, N. J. This will be Rivet's first bout around these parts in three years as he has done all his fighting in Canada, where he has defeated all of the province's best boxers and many American pugilists who went up there to try and break the former Lowell boy's sensational run of victories.

Ryan comes to Lawrence with a good record, and his handlers claim that he will defeat any welterweight in New England. If Ryan wins from Rivet, he will be in a position to demand a match of Mike Glover, welterweight champion of New England, for a championship bout.

Rivet fought his first two battles in this city and then went north in search of ring work and that he has made good his ring record will show, Johnny Lustig, Johnny Lore, Patsy Drouillard and several other well known fighters having fallen victims to the champion's cleverness. There will be two eight-round bouts in addition to feature bout, which will be one of 12 rounds.

Mrs. Emma J. Richardson who fell and broke her arm about five weeks ago returned to her home in Tenth street yesterday from the Lowell General hospital.

The police have been asked to try to locate the whereabouts of Leon L. Farnum of North Chelmsford who has been missing since Sunday. Mr. Farnum, who is an elderly person, left his home Sunday evening for Chelmsford Centre. He did not reach his destination and nothing has been heard from him since.

Joseph D. Ryan of North Chelmsford is confined to St. John's hospital in this city, suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident at Harvard Sunday. In order to avoid a collision with another automobile the driver of the car in which Mr. Ryan was riding drove his auto into a tree. Mr. Ryan was thrown out and received a compound fracture of the arm.

Abel R. Campbell, the well known real estate dealer, had a narrow escape from being seriously injured when his automobile skidded in Middlesex street early last night and struck a water hydrant at Garnet street, putting the hydrant out of commission and causing a flow of water through the street. One of the rear wheels, the one which came in contact with the hydrant, was smashed and the machine was taken to a garage. The water department was notified and in a short time men were at work replacing the hydrant with a new one.

HUB HOTEL MAN SUES

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Charging that he was evicted from the American house, Hanover street, last summer, Allen C. Jones, former proprietor of the hotel, has brought suit for $250,000 damages against J. Sumner Draper, a prominent Boston real estate man.

Included in the suit is a claim for $3600 to which Jones says he is entitled to receive from Draper under the provisions relating to a termination of the lease. Draper denies that he evicted Jones and says that after the latter had refused to leave the American house, when the lease was terminated, a writ of ejectment was asked in the court. The execution, Draper says, was never served because Jones voluntarily quit the premises.

WALSH SAYS IT'S WILSON

Ex-Governor, Back From a Three Weeks' Tour of Middle West, Reports Landslide in Prospect

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Ex-Gov. David I. Walsh, who paid a flying visit to this city yesterday after three weeks in the middle west, predicted the election of President Wilson. The ex-governor spent the morning in Boston, leaving at 1 o'clock for Hartford, where he spoke last evening.

"It is easy to indulge in extravagant statements," he said yesterday, "but my observations in the past three weeks, during which I have traveled through the middle west, convince me that President Wilson will be reelected. The middle west is far more excited over the campaign than is the east. The size of the meetings there was a big surprise to me.

"The sentiment for Wilson is very strong throughout the middle west. Independent republicans and progressives are more outspoken in declaring their intention to vote for Wilson. Ohio seems to be absolutely certain. In Indiana the fight is very sharp; both sides have perfect organizations and the state has been thoroughly canvassed. Indiana will go for Wilson.

"I am not so confident of Illinois. There is a general feeling there, however, that the women and the farmers, with the slogan, 'He kept us out of war,' will carry Illinois for the president.

"From my observations I am certain that the Adamson eight-hour bill will work in the president's favor among railroad men and in railroad centers.

"I believe that West Virginia will unquestionably go democratic. In Chicago I talked with leading democrats who have campaigned in Colorado, Nebraska, California, Oregon, Washington and other states of the far west and they report these states to be overwhelmingly for Wilson. There is strong evidence of a landslide, and I would not be in the least surprised if President Wilson swept the country.

LICENSE COMMISSION HEARS EVIDENCE IN HOTEL CASES

The license commission held a special meeting last evening for the purpose of hearing evidence in connection with complaints filed by Supt. of Police Redmond Welch against five innholders relative to the conduct of their Sunday business. None of the hotel men was represented by counsel, H. F. Mellen of the St. Charles and George H. Barrett of the New American waived the reading of the complaints against them and they were granted continuances until Wednesday evening, November 8, at 8 o'clock.

The charges against Garrity & Co., doing business as the Washington tavern, Thomas J. Hart of the New Merrimack and Martin W. Halloran of the Arlington were heard last evening but no action was taken by the commissioners.

Besides the members of the police department to testify William C. McNamara, Jr., field secretary of the Anti-Saloon league, was called by Supt. Welch in two cases. Mr. McNamara told of his observations in the Washington tavern and the New Merrimack hotel on the night of October 22.

No charge that liquor was served to a minor or to a person without food was made. Supt. Welch contended that the large number of people found in the hotels after "meal hours" was evidence that liquor was being sold to persons other than guests. He quoted a legal definition of the word "guest" as termed by the superior court. He said:

"A neighbor or friend, who is no traveler is not a guest. A guest is first one who comes from a distance and second a particular guest, who is entertained." During the hearing of the three cases both Liquor Inspectors Holland and Cooney testified that they noted a "wonderful" improvement in the hotels on Sunday, October 22, over previous Sundays. The improvements had to do with the number of guests and the conditions found. Both officers said that they found nothing that would warrant the bringing of complaints against any of the hotels.

The case of Garrity & Co. was first heard. Liquor Inspector James E. Holland testified that he visited the Washington tavern on Sunday, October 22, at 4.30 o'clock and found 42 men sitting at tables in the dining room. They were served soup, beans, pie, eggs, vegetables and liquors. At 8.20 o'clock on the same evening he again visited the tavern and saw 18 men there. All were drinking and eating. By liquor he meant beer, ale, whiskey, gin, etc. Inspector Holland said that he never saw the dining room being used during the week.

"Did you see anything that made you think there ought to be a complaint made against this house, any intoxicated persons or any young men?" asked Chairman Hanson.

"If I did I would have made a complaint," answered the inspector.

In explaining the variety of food on the tables, the witness said that some of the men had an egg, others a salad and some a sandwich.

"Did you find any tea, coffee or milk served in that room?" asked Commissioner Boulger.

"I saw ginger ale. A few weeks ago I saw coffee served in that room."

"What would you consider the principal business, the sale of liquor or food?" Commissioner Boulger continued.

"I think the men go there for their beer."

In answer to a question by Supt. Welch, Inspector Holland said that he found every man eating and therefore did not think it necessary to make any complaint.

"In my opinion," said Commissioner Boulger, addressing Supt. Welch, "this is no childish play in bringing charges against these men unless you have evidence to verify them. We are here to investigate the complaints and want the facts."

"What did you mean by the statement that you did not see anything to induce you to make a complaint?" asked Supt. Welch.

"The men all had food and I thought that covered the law. I didn't see a man without food."

"I presume you wouldn't say that the men went there for liquor?" asked Chairman Hanson.

"I couldn't swear as to that."

Holland's Testimony Corroborated

Inspector Alfred J. Cooney corroborated Inspector Holland's testimony relative to the number of people in the tavern.

"What was the quantity of the food served to each man?" asked Supt. Welch.

"If a man had beer, he also had catsup and bread. With soup or an egg they served either crackers or bread. Some of the men had beer, others gin or whiskey but mostly beer."

"Each man had something?"

"Yes."

The inspector said that he didn't know whether the men belonged in Lowell or were travellers.

"Did you make any note of the number of people you saw leave their places with food untouched?" asked Commissioner Boulger.

"No. Everybody ate something."

"You didn't see any drunks or any minors?" questioned Mr. Hanson.

"No."

"On the whole what did you find?" he continued.

"An improvement of the Sundays previous," the inspector answered. Mr. Holland verified this, saying that it was a wonderful improvement.

"What was the nature of the improvement?" queried Commissioner Boulger.

"There were not so many men and the tables were not so numerous. The men present that Sunday were the cleanest of the previous diners."

"You say there was an improvement?" asked Supt. Welch.

"Yes, a better cut of men."

"Was there a better variety of food?"

"Mr. Garrity always had a good variety of food."

"Did you see any reason why a complaint should be made?" asked Chairman Hanson.

"No, sir."

"What is your best judgment as to the place of residence of the men?"

"I couldn't say."

Supt. Welch Testifies

Supt. Welch then testified in part as follows:

"I called at the Washington tavern at 8.40. Found Mr. Garrity there and 47 men in the dining room. They were generally served beer. Some had sandwiches, some eggs, soup or pie. The waiters carried a bill of fare and submitted it to the men at the tables. Half a dozen or more of the men greeted me as 'Mr. Welch.' That was the extent of my observations. I saw nobody drunk or no minors there."

"You saw it the same as the other officers?" said Mr. Hanson.

"Only I saw 47 men."

Supt. Welch said that a Mr. McNamara was present, who would like to testify. He was sworn.

William C. McNamara

He said: "My name is William C. McNamara, 33 Burtt street, Lowell. I went to the Washington tavern on Sunday, Oct. 22, at 9.25 in the evening. I entered through the hall to the room on the left and found 65 men there. We were in there 25 minutes, and saw sandwiches, soup, doughnuts and other small articles. At one table I noticed a dish of soup and sandwich that had not been eaten. At 7.45 o'clock there was a man at the door saying 'Nothing doing, gents.' One man was held up by a clerk and Mr. Garrity appeared at the door and said there was room inside."

"You were allowed in, weren't you?" asked Mr. Garrity.

"Yes."

Mr. Garrity then said that he saw Mr. McNamara drive to the hotel in a machine, that he knew who he was and did not try to prevent him from entering. He said that he had tried to conduct his business properly and was not to blame for the large number of men in the hotel.

"How do you account for the large number?" one of the commissioners asked.

"They order food and the law allows me to sell. My prices are cheap and they attract the working class." He said that the large number of visitors to a city on Sundays and holidays made business heavier on those days.

New Merrimack Hotel

The evidence in the case of M. J. Hart & Co., New Merrimack hotel, was practically the same. The liquor officers testified that at 5.50 o'clock on Sunday, Oct. 22, they found 64 men being served in the dining room. At 9.50 there were 38 men. Some of the men came from New Hampshire on motorcycles.

Supt. Welch said that he visited the Merrimack hotel as a result of a visit from Mr. McNamara. He saw 68 men in the two dining rooms, eating and drinking.

"Are those places conducted as well as in the last eight or ten years?" asked Commissioner Putnam.

"For sometime past there has been an increase in the number of men."

"Might it not be true that some of these men have no homes, and board where they only get two meals on Sundays?" continued Mr. Putnam.

"Yes."

"In your opinion what was the principal business?"

"Sale of liquor."

Mr. Putnam then said: "If these men are violating the law I want to punish them. If they are not, it is another thing. Why bring the matter to the license commissioners, who are not lawyers, without a court decision? Couldn't you take one of the best cases you have in Lowell to the courts and get a decision?"

Supt. Welch said that three or four years ago cases were brought to the courts at a great expense with a jury disagreement the result. He thought that the same thing would happen again.

"You seem to be putting up something to the license commission that the courts don't want to handle," continued Mr. Putnam. "I would like to see a case taken to Judge Enright to see what action he would take."

Mr. McNamara also visited the New Merrimack. A minister accompanied him to the door. He asked Mr. Hart: "Do you think you are giving the license commissioners and the mayor a square deal?" and Mr. Hart answered, "What do you want me to do?" Mr. McNamara accused a man of being drunk and had some talk with him.

Mr. Hart accounted for the large patronage at his hotel by saying that he had visitors from Nashua and Manchester. Railroad men also stop there for lunch, he said, because it is so handy.

The Arlington Hotel

In the case of Martin W. Halloran of the Arlington, the inspectors testified that at 4.15 o'clock there were 32 men in the dining rooms and at 8.25 there were 42. All were eating and drinking the same as in the other places and no intoxicants or minors were seen. Supt. Welch at 7.40 o'clock saw 61 men there. He recognized eight or nine as Lowell men.

Mr. Halloran said that he did a big lunch business. Men come to my place to get small lunches at all hours, he said.

"The burden of proof is on you, and I'd like to know how you account for so many men being there," said Commissioner Boulger.

"They are there every night," answered Mr. Halloran.

Supt. Welch then read the legal definition of a "guest," and said that was the reason he brought the complaints.

"Did you see any improvements in the hotels over three or four weeks ago?" asked Mr. Hanson.

"I hadn't stepped into the hotels for sometime until that Sunday. I wouldn't have then if my attention had not been called to the Merrimack. I thought that it would be fair to go to all of them."

"Where would you draw the line? Would you let in 20 and turn the next 20 away?"

"I think the proprietor should use his own judgment."

"You brought the complaints from what you saw personally, didn't you?" asked Mr. Hanson.

"The complaints were based on the reports and my observations."

"Do you think the officers' reports warrant the bringing of complaints?" was asked.

"I don't care to discuss that now."

The meeting was then adjourned without any decisions.

SMALL LOAN BANK FOR LOWELL

As a result of a meeting of business and professional men at the Yorick club last night it was practically settled that Lowell will have an industrial bank on what is known as the Morris plan, to issue small loans at a reasonable rate of interest and payable in regular instalments.

Mr. Herrick Brown of the Industrial Finance corporation of New York explained to those present the Morris system, which is simply a bank for making small loans at a moderate rate of interest to those who would not be likely to have sufficient credit to secure loans through the other banks doing business in our city. Such a bank would put the loan sharks out of business.

Mr. Brown, after explaining the operation of the system, said that banks of this sort were operated in many New England cities and proved very successful and very beneficial to the people in such cities as New Bedford, Fall River, Holyoke, Manchester, N. H. He said there are at present 54 such banks in operation in different cities of the country and that they have 200,000 borrowers.

Mr. Brown answered many questions from gentlemen present and after some discussion, on motion of one of the bank men present, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, that we, the undersigned, recognizing the need in this community of an institution where wage earners and people of moderate means may secure loans upon fair conditions and at a reasonable rate of interest, and having considered the methods of operation and the statements of success heretofore secured in other cities by the operation of the Morris Plan of Industrial Loans and Investments, recommend the establishment of such an institution in Lowell. We are of the opinion that the plan proposed is practical and safe in operation, reasonably profitable, and that such an organization would be of great benefit to this community."

It was voted that those present constitute the organization committee. Hon. John Jacob Rogers was nominated for president, but he declined on the ground that he would not have the necessary time to attend to the duties of the office. Mr. Robert F. Marden was then named as president, and he agreed to serve. The organization stands as follows:

Robert F. Marden, president of the board of trade, chairman; Hon. John Jacob Rogers, Franklin Nourse, George Stevens, Philip S. Marden, Larkin T. Trull, J. Harry Boardman, George E. King, Royal P. White, Dudley L. Page, John H. Harrington, Edward B. Carney, John F. Sawyer, Amasa Pratt, Henry W. Barnes, Frederick A. Flather, Frederick P. Marble, Frank D. Dunbar, Hon. Frederic A. Fisher, John H. Murphy, Harry Dunlap, Frank P. McGilly, Arthur T. Safford, Percy Gulline and C. I. Hood

The Finance corporation of New York will underwrite the stock and subscribe one-quarter of the $100,000 capital of the bank. The Lowell bank is to be incorporated and a down town location is to be secured as soon as possible.

The bank will be under the control of the loan commission of the state.

This plan of bank is quite common in European countries. It is said to have originated in Germany. The system of loans will be available to any worthy person for legitimate purposes. The applicant is to fill a blank giving particulars as to occupation and other details and for what the money is needed. The applicant must have two endorsers, who will between them meet the instalments in case the person contracting the loan fails to pay them.

The terms are made very easy. For example, a loan of $50 or $100 might be made payable in weekly instalments and at a rate of interest that would not exceed 6 per cent. The rate charged by some of the loan agencies amounts to 100 or even 200 per cent in a year, so that those who get involved in such obligations can never get out of debt.

It is expected that this bank when once started will be of great benefit to the wage earners of the community, who in the past have had no opportunity of securing small loans at a fair rate of interest.

EXPLAINS RECENT VOTE IN AUSTRALIA

TRADE COMMISSIONER TELLS HOW CONSCRIPTION WAS DEFEATED

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The heavy vote against conscription recently cast in Australia, says T. E. Quinn, trade commissioner for the government of New South Wales cannot be taken as conclusive and may be reversed by the votes of Australian soldiers on foreign battlefields, which are now being taken by a government commission.

"The vote," said Mr. Quinn, "was mainly due to three causes, first, to the ingrained opposition, in the most advanced democracy in the world to anything resembling coercion; second, to a struggle within the labor party for control of the movement, and third, to the popular feeling in Australia that the war is nearly fought to victory and that, consequently conscription in Australia is unnecessary."

RAPS ENTENTE FOR ACTS TOWARD GREECE

LONDON PAPER SAYS ENTENTE HAS GIVEN GREEK KING POWER TO PUNISH VENIZELOS

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Although no comment had yet been published here regarding the displacement of D. Caclamanos, the Greek minister to Washington owing to his pro-Venizelos views much indignation is expressed on the ground that the entente allies allowed the Greek government to displace numerous other public officials for similar reasons.

The Morning Post publishes reports from Paris and Athens that the entente allies definitely have decided not to recognize the Venizelos movement and demands that the British parliament insist that this action be reconsidered. The Post says:

"If the allies refuse to recognize the Venizelos government they thereby admit that the soldiers and officers who adhere to that government are rebels and that officials and magistrates who support Venizelos are traitors, that Venizelos himself and his friends have no status; that they are all liable to be cashiered, imprisoned, dismissed or shot by the Athens government and that is apparently just what is being done—Venizelos supporters in the army, magistracy and other public officers are being arrested, cashiered, punished at wholesale without even the formalities required by law.

"The allies, indeed, are placing in the hands of King Constantine the indisputable title to punish patriots who are the allies' best friends. Parliament, if it is not altogether lost to the honor of the country, should insist that the Venizelist party shall not be betrayed into the hands of their enemies."

IMPORTATION OF COTTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Regulations governing importation of cotton, designed to prevent introduction of the pink boll worm were amended today by the department of agriculture to include burlap or other fabric used for wrapping cotton and to which cotton is adhering. Considerable quantities of such fabrics are being imported for use in making certain grades of paper and for other purposes. Such material freed from adhering cotton and disinfected abroad, as well as second hand or used burlap or other fabric ordinarily employed in wrapping cotton but which has not been used, may be admitted. American cotton bagging, commonly known as coarse gunn used only to cover cotton grown in the United States may be admitted under proper certification without disinfection. All forms of manufactured and semi-manufactured cotton now admitted without disinfection or restriction as to distribution, shipment or storage, must be covered with wrappings, which would not require disinfection under the new amendment which becomes effective Jan. 1, next.

LODGE CHARGE UNTRUE, SAYS PRES. WILSON AND EX-SEC. BRYAN

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 31.—President Wilson last night characterized as "untrue" the statement made by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts to the effect that the president had seriously considered adding a weakening postscript to his "strict accountability" Lusitania note.

The president telegraphed to Walter Lippmann of New York, editor of the New Republic, replying to a message from Mr. Lippmann regarding Senator Lodge's statement.

The president's telegram follows:

NO POSTSCRIPT WRITTEN

"In reply to your telegram let me say that the statement made by Senator Lodge is untrue.

"No postscript or amendment of the Lusitania note was ever written or contemplated by me except such changes that I myself inserted which strengthened and emphasized the protest.

"It was suggested after the note was ready for transmission that an intimation be conveyed to the German government that a proposal for arbitration would be acceptable and one member of the cabinet spoke to me about it, but it was never discussed in cabinet meeting and no threat of any resignation was ever made, for the very good reason that I rejected the suggestion after giving it such consideration as I thought every proposal deserved which touched so grave a matter.

"It was inconsistent with the purpose of the note. The public is in possession of everything that was said to the German government.

(Signed) "Woodrow Wilson."

UNTRUE, SAYS BRYAN

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 31.—William J. Bryan, former secretary of state, denied here last night that there was any truth in the story that a postscript had been written to the Lusitania note advising the German government the strong language of the note should not be taken seriously and that later the postscript was withdrawn.

"I take it for granted," Mr. Bryan said, "that the president will deal with the case as he deems wise, if indeed any attention need be paid it, after Mr. Breckinridge's denial."

Mr. Bryan would make no further comment except to call attention to the fact that his resignation was not tendered at the time the first Lusitania note, to which the alleged postscript was attached, was written but at the time the second note was written, which was nearly a month later.

LODGE REPEATS CHARGE

FITCHBURG, Oct. 31.—Standing before an audience last night in city hall that had just cheered him to the echo, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge read a letter from a Boston friend, who said that the senior senator's statement in regard to the now famous "postscript" on the second Lusitania note was a fact.

John Temple Lloyd Jeffries, 106 Marlboro street, was the author of the letter that Senator Lodge read, and which he later said "made out his case." It was to an audience of upwards of 1500 people that Senator Lodge read the letter, following which he attacked the administration and his policies in a speech that was frequently applauded.

Mr. Jeffries in his letter to Senator Lodge said that he regretted being drawn into the affair, but he added that he could not sit "idly by and see you called a liar when I know your statements are true."

LOWELL JITNEY MEN ARE BARRED IN LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Oct. 31.—An ordinance, regulating the operation of jitneys within the city limits, drafted by Attorney Michael S. O'Brien, counsel for the Chauffeurs' association, working in co-operation with Alderman Cadogan, commissioner of public safety, was adopted by the municipal council yesterday to take effect on Dec. 1.

The measure provides that all jitney drivers as well as the owners of the cars must be licensed and only residents of Lawrence, Methuen, Andover and North Andover, are eligible for a license provided the applicant is 18 years of age and has been a resident of either one of the places named for more than a year. It appears that residents from other places cannot do a jitney business in Lawrence. This may seriously interfere with the jitney traffic between this city and Lowell and Haverhill especially if the latter two cities should adopt a similar measure. As it stands, Lowell and Haverhill operators will be shut out of Lawrence after Dec. 1.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore health.

JEWETT ESTATE HEIRS REFUSE TO ACCEPT CITY'S OFFER

John J. Harvey, Esq., appeared before the municipal council at the regular meeting this morning and argued that the heirs of the Jewett estate ought to be allowed at least $6000 for the property on Kirk street, adjoining the high school, and next to the Costello property, seized by the city for part of the new high school site. The owners have refused to accept the valuation of the city and yet do not care to take the matter to the courts except as a last resort.

Mr. Harvey stated that the case was different from all others involved in the seizure of these properties. He said that the property was assessed for $4550 which, he claimed was very much below a fair market value, the Costello property being assessed for $6300. While the Costello property had more land area he contended that the Jewett place was the more valuable, being a "corner lot" and nearer to Merrimack street. He reviewed the history of the property since it was built stating that much money had been lost because of the inability of the owners to lease a building so near the school.

His conclusions were based, he said, partly on the expert judgment of Simon B. Harris, who thought that $1.25 per foot would be a fair assessment. This was the price set on the land of the Genoa club property. "We think," said Mr. Harvey, "that the land and buildings on Kirk street were as valuable as those on Anne street

Humphrey O'Sullivan received a telegram this morning from Judge Alton B. Parker of New York stating that he would attend the big rally in Lowell. Mr. O'Sullivan went to Boston on the 3 o'clock train this afternoon to meet Judge Parker and will return with him this evening. Other speakers will include Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield, candidate for governor; Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor Curley of Boston; Mr. Joseph Joyce Donahue, candidate for attorney general; Mr. Thomas M. Nolan, director of the Mansfield Flying Wedge of Massachusetts, and others. Mr John H. Harrington of The Lowell Sun will preside. The rally will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

Party Leaders Encouraged

Responsive crowds at the various democratic rallies yesterday greatly encouraged the party leaders and the state committee has completed arrangements to speed up the campaign for the remainder of the week.

Mayor Curley of Boston yesterday started a movement to have the president attend a mass meeting in that city on Friday. Mayor Curley sent the following telegram to the president at Shadow Lawn:

"Democratic enthusiasm unparalleled here with opening of closing week of campaign. Your presence imperative for democratic victory for both national and state tickets. Will you not come here Friday evening, Nov. 3, and address great mass meeting with message of impending victory?"

Ex-Gov. Walsh will speak at the noon meeting in Faneuil Hall Friday, together with United States Senator Ollie James of Kentucky and the candidates on the state ticket.

It was also announced at democratic state headquarters yesterday that Hon. Michael Francis Doyle of Philadelphia, who defended Sir Roger Casement in his trial for treason in London recently, is coming to participate in the Massachusetts campaign. Mr. Doyle will probably arrive in Boston tomorrow to place himself at the disposal of Chairman Riley of the speakers' bureau of the Massachusetts state committee. Congressman Carter Glass of Virginia is scheduled to speak at Lynn tomorrow night.

Today scores of noon rallies were held in Boston and other cities and large towns, and besides the Lowell rally tonight there will also be rallies in Worcester, Haverhill and Lawrence.

Dance tonight, Highland hall.

BERLIN REPORTS FRENCH AND BRITISH REPULSED ALONG THE SOMME

Berlin's report on the latest operations on the Somme front announced repulses for the British near Lesboeufs, north of the river, and of the French, who attacked La Maisonnette farm and the new German positions south of Biaches.

The German artillery broke up attempts by strong French forces to advance in the region of Chaulnes, it is declared.

Russian Attacks in East

The eastern front again is stirring with activity. From the north of the Volhynian region to the south of Halicz, on the Lemberg front, the Russians are attacking and in the sector west of Lutsk report the capture of Austro-German first line trenches.

Teutons Take Russian Positions

Berlin announces not only the repulse of Russian attacks on the Shara and below Stanislau, southeast of Lemberg, but claims the capture of important Russian positions in the Narayuvka region, in the vicinity of Halicz.

On Transylvanian Front

Fighting on the Transylvania front continues violent in the mountain passes and near the frontier. No further advances by the Austro-German forces are claimed, however, while Petrograd reports the Rumanians continuing their successes in the Jiul valley, pressing Field Marshal von Falkenhayn's forces farther north.

Rumanian Efforts Fail

Berlin claims the failure of Rumanian efforts to re-capture heights north of Campulung, where the Austro-German advance had pressed a considerable distance into Rumanian territory southwest of Kronstadt.

Quiet at Verdun

On the Somme front in northern France the intense activity of the past few days had diminished until now only artillery fighting is reported in that area. Similar conditions prevail before Verdun.

French and Serbs Advance

In Macedonia, further progress for the French and Serbians west of Lake Presha, southwest of Monastir region is reported by Paris. The Bulgarians announce an entente defeat in attacks in the Cerna region, southeast of Monastir, and the driving back of the Serbians near Nonte, in the Moglenica district, farther east.

British Casualties

During October, British casualties reported from all war theatres were 4331 officers and 102,702 men, London advices today state.

Germany Orders Reprisals

Germany has directed reprisals upon Russian prisoners because of Russian non-compliance with German demands for improved treatment of German prisoners, according to a semi-official announcement in Berlin. Certain Russian officers have been placed in camps where the discipline is especially severe.

BERLIN REPORTS SERBIANS WERE THROWN BACK WITH HEAVY LOSSES

BERLIN, Oct. 31, by wireless to Sayville.—Serbian troops which recently have been advancing on the western end of the Macedonian front have been checked and thrown back with heavy losses, the war office announced today. Following is the statement:

"After initial success, Serbian detachments in the eastern part of the Cerna bend were thrown back with heavy losses by a counter attack of Bulgarian infantry to the positions from which they started."

OVER 10,000 RUMANIANS CAPTURED BY AUSTRO-GERMANS

BOSTON, Oct. 31, by wireless to Sayville.—Efforts of the Rumanians to re-capture positions along the Transylvanian frontier yesterday were without success, the war office announced today. Since Oct. 10, the Austrians and Germans have captured more than 10,000 Rumanians.

13 MISSING FROM BRITISH STEAMER MARINA

Thirteen persons, among them probably some Americans, are missing from the British steamer Marina, according to American Consul Frost at Queenstown, who reports survivors as stating that the vessel was torpedoed without warning in a heavy sea and sank in 10 minutes.

SEC. LANSING TALKS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Secretary Lansing said today that his reports on the destruction of the British ship Marina with probable loss of American lives still was too incomplete to permit of any conclusions or to allow him to discuss the case. Fuller reports with affidavits of American survivors have been ordered by cable.

This morning's news despatches saying some of the survivors had seen the wake of a torpedo and that the ship was struck twice added gravity to the situation.

Officials noted, however, that the British admiralty was not prepared to say the ship was torpedoed and that Consul Frost's report yesterday said she was destroyed by gun fire.

Entirely aside from the first aspects of the case, officials made it clear that no conclusions could be drawn until all apparently conflicting circumstances could be cleared up and evidence had been gathered in legal form.

Admittedly the case was viewed as more serious than any since the destruction of the Sussex, as it is the first involving loss of American life, but the state department gave no evidence of tension as it set about gathering the facts.

Since the original reports given out yesterday, the state department has not made any further in-

DISCLAIMED RESPONSIBILITY FOR ATTACK ON AMERICAN OFFICIALS

MAN CHARGED WITH MURDER IS PLACED UNDER OBSERVATION

Thomas H. Kelliher was arraigned before Judge Enright in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with having murdered Daniel Cronin at the state infirmary in Tewksbury on October 16. Inasmuch as the man has been an inmate at Tewksbury since 1899 and there is a question as to his sanity the court by agreement with Deputy District Attorney Robert J. Crowley ordered Kelliher committed to the insane hospital at Worcester for thirty days for observation.

Kelliher and Cronin were in the insane department at Tewksbury but it was considered that neither was dangerous for the former had been in several departments of the institution. On the morning of the 16th, it is alleged that while the two men were going to the breakfast table Kelliher knocked Cronin down on the floor and

BRITISH LOSSES IN OCTOBER 107,033

LONDON, Oct. 31, 11.05 a. m.—British casualties reported in October in all war areas are: Officers 4331; men 102,702.

October losses of 107,033 bring up the total British casualties for the four months of the Somme offensive to 414,302. The daily average loss for October is 3452.

The British figures are of especial interest on account of their bearing on the controversy between London and Berlin regarding the losses of the allies on the Somme. Several of the statements in October from the German war office dwelt on the sacrifices of the British and French to obtain a comparatively small amount of territory. It was said they had made desperate efforts to break through the German lines, hurling forward great bodies of troops and sustaining enormous losses. On one occasion the British war office denied a statement of this nature from Berlin. Unofficial advices from British sources stated the losses of the allies, relative to those of the Germans and to the operations undertaken, were decreasing to a marked extent, on account of increased efficiency of the artillery and aerial services.

So far as is shown by the London figures, which of course take no account of the French casualties, the losses of the British have been decreasing since August. The total reported for September was 119,549, or a daily average of more than 3800. In August the total was 127,945, a daily average of 4127. In July, however, the casualties reported were only 59,675.

POPE RECEIVES GEORGE B. BAKER OF NEW YORK

PONTIFF PRAISES WORK OF AMERICAN COMMISSION FOR RELIEF OF BELGIANS

ROME, Oct. 31.—Pope Benedict today received in private audience George Barr Baker of New York, a member of the American commission for relief in Belgium. Wishing, he said, further to demonstrate his appreciation of the work of the American relief committee, the pontiff presented to Mr. Baker two autographed photographs, one for himself and one for Herbert C. Hoover, the chairman of the commission.

The pope expressed the hope that the plan of the commission to provide a supplementary meal for the Belgian children to save them from starvation and disease would be a success and added that it would give a new proof of American generosity.

His Holiness recently addressed an apostolic letter to Cardinal Gibbons recommending that the Roman Catholic episcopacy, clerg and laity in the United States support the plan.

HEAPS OF MONEY

The city treasurer's office at city hall was yesterday one of the busiest places of the city. Of course there was a reason, for yesterday was the last day of grace accorded the taxpayers before the six per cent interest went into effect. As a result of the office corps being kept busy the sum of $171,295.62 was received for 1916 taxes, while delinquents who had not paid their 1915 taxes swelled the treasury by $518. Water bills were also paid yesterday to the amount of $13,966.91.

Beginning today interest at the rate of six per cent will be charged on all unpaid taxes, the interest dating back to Oct. 15.

POOR GET THEIR DOLE OF FISH AT NEW YORK'S SEA FOOD MARKET

GETTING THEIR SUPPLY OF FREE FISH

SEN. LODGE'S BUSINESS TO OUST DEMOCRATS

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in his vicious attack on President Wilson is running true to the sentiments he expressed after Candidate Hughes' speech of acceptance. On Aug. 1st, the New York Telegram, evening edition of the Herald, which is one of Hughes's staunchest supporters, reported this interview:

"It was suggested to Senator Lodge that the newspapers were charging that the republican nominee's speech contained nothing constructive but was devoted to criticisms of the great administration. He was asked why the republican nominee offered nothing constructive. With an exhibition of peevishness the senator said:

"'Why ask that democratic question: What business is it of the opposition to construct? Our business is to throw them out of power and that is what we are going to do.'"

CANNOT SELL VESSELS

MANILA, P. I., Oct.—The right of Philippine ship owners to sell their vessels without government sanction is expressly denied in a decision made by the board of public utility commissioners. The board refused the petition of Ynchausti & Co., a local shipping firm, for permission to sell the inter-island steamer, Governor Forbes.

The board says that it can see no reason in law or economic morals why the firm of Ynchausti & Co. should be permitted to make the 100 per cent profit, which the sale would mean to them, instead of the annual 30 per cent profit, which the vessel is yielding, at the cost of the welfare of the people of the Philippines. The Governor Forbes has been plying between Manila and Iloilo, the sugar metropolis, for some years though this service has been suspended for the past few months while the vessel was on charter to Trans-Pacific carriers.

The board does not attempt to pass upon the legal aspects of its decision, but confines itself to a statement that the organic act which established the board of public utility commissioners gives it power to refuse permission for the sale of public utility company property.

The steamship company will appeal.

TWO SCORE WOMEN IN CONTEST FOR STATE OFFICES—MANY SOCIALISTS

NEW YORK, Oct. — Official lists of candidates of recognized parties for the congressional and state elections coincident with the presidential voting on November 7 show that there will be at least two women running for congress and more than two score women in the contest for state offices, ranging from governor down.

In Montana Jeannette Rankin is the regular republican nominee for congress and in Colorado Hattie K. Howard is running on a progressive ticket.

The Associated Press has just compiled all of the state tickets from every state in the Union and it appears from these lists that there are exactly 46 women candidates for various state offices. This figure may be slightly reduced or increased by the fact that some names which almost certainly seem to be those of women are in rare cases also names of men, and it is possible that some women have escaped identification by the use of initials instead of their full name, but the figures given, if not precise are interesting, since they develop the following facts:

Of the 46 women seeking state offices the majority (24) are nominees of the socialist party.

Idaho is the only state in the United States where a woman is candidate for governor, Annie E. Triplow, being the socialist nominee for chief executive there.

There are thirteen states throughout the country where women are seeking state offices, namely, Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Illinois, and Kansas.

In Washington there are two women candidates, prohibitionist and socialist, for the office of lieutenant-governor, and two women of the same parties for state treasurer.

In Connecticut, Rhode Island, Arizona, Colorado, and Kansas there are women candidates for secretary of state. Various other offices, principally as trustees of state universities, or superintendents of public instruction, are those for which women have been named. In only one or two rare instances does it appear that the women candidates are now holding the office for which they seek election.

CHILDREN COLLECTED PAPER

WASHINGTON, Oct. — Children of the public schools of the District of Columbia, after a few days' campaign, which is to continue indefinitely, have collected approximately 27 tons of old newspapers and magazines which sold for $317 and the money has been placed in a fund for the equipment of playgrounds and other social activities. The plan for collecting the old papers was suggested by The Evening Star which pointed out that it would serve a double purpose, assisting the children to obtain better playgrounds and help the paper trade in the present shortage. The plan was approved by education authorities and has been taken up enthusiastically by the school children.

During the first five days, 54,929 pounds of old newspapers and magazines were taken to the school buildings by the children. The last day of the week totalled 22,115 pounds, one school contributing 3923 pounds. The papers were sold at the rate of 50 cents per hundred pounds for the newspapers and $1 per hundred pounds for magazines. The individual schools will receive the greater proportion of the money received from their contributions and part of the sum goes into a general fund.

A pretty marriage took place last evening when Fred A. Grant, an accountant for the Lee, Higginson Co., of Boston, and Miss Edith Farrington, of this city, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at 6 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception rectory by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O.M.I. The bride was attired in white crepe meteor with silver trimmings. She wore a veil caught up with lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was a sister of the bride, Miss Clara Farrington, who wore white Georgette crepe with pink picture hat and carried pink chrysanthemums. The best man was James Farley. At the close of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride, 182 Perry street, where a brief reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Grant, who were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts left in the evening on an extended honeymoon trip and after January 1 they will be at home to their friends at 7 Taylor street, Melrose Highlands.

The correspondent says the trials have been stopped and that the Dutch committee in San Francisco is blamed for passing the machines after a too perfunctory examination.

Will Lodge's Roorback Elect Fitzgerald?

"THE LODGE ROORBACK"

"If this campaign could only be prolonged a fortnight, our distinguished senior Senator might succeed in electing John F. Fitzgerald of Boston to the United States Senate for the six-year term beginning in March next.

"Our distinguished senior senator's Lusitania "postscript" story seems to be his most remarkable contribution to the campaign. A statesman of great reputation and a politician of long experience, Mr. Lodge arrested the attention of the country when he put into circulation this singularly infamous charge against the President of the United States. A day later he disclosed his authority for the accusation he had so deliberately fathered.

It turned out that our distinguished senior senator, historian, statesman and scholar got the story from ex-Lieut.-Gov. Grafton Cushing, who got it from a medical professor in Tufts College named Bailey, who got it from young Mr. Breckinridge of Kentucky,—he resigned his post as assistant secretary of war last winter—and who was amiable enough to disclose in an unrecorded conversation this horrible state secret to the aforesaid medical professor on a railroad train between San Francisco and Omaha sometime last July. Mr. Breckinridge was himself not a member of the cabinet circle and depended upon hearsay, according to the Bailey-Cushing Lodge version of the incident. Here, of course, was evidence that would not convict the traditional yellow dog; but Mr. Lodge, having presented it as a crushing demonstration of the truthfulness of his charge, said to his Somerville audience in his most senatorial manner: "This simply throws an additional light on the shifty character of this administration in its foreign policies."

While Mr. Lodge is taking such a lofty flight in political discussion, it is a pity to disturb his complacency. But four cabinet ministers, Messrs. Lane, Houston, McAdoo and Gregory, have already branded the "postscript" story as a falsehood; and Mr. Breckinridge himself is now heard from to this effect in a telegram to the Philadelphia Public Ledger:

"Anyone who quoted me to Senator Lodge as represented in your telegram is a scoundrel. No member of President Wilson's Cabinet ever threatened him on any subject. The malice that would seek for partisan advantage to emasculate the potency of one's government in a vital international affair by the mongering of backstairs gossip is beneath contempt."

Right there the incident may be left, at least for the time being. We were prepared to subject the Tuft's professor's story, upon which the distinguished senior Senator relied, to a searching analysis in order that its various misconceptions, absurdities and misstatements of fact might be hung up to dry in the high noonday sun of pitiless publicity. But Mr. Breckinridge's very indignant repudiation of the story and his hot denunciation of the professor makes the further consideration of the case seem superfluous.

Webster defines a roorback as "a defamatory falsehood printed for political effect." The distinguished senior Senator is scholar enough to know how the word "roorback" came into our language. Meanwhile, John F. Fitzgerald of Boston begins to grow in size, when compared with this Massachusetts inheritor of a proud tradition and a great past."

kicking him inflicted injuries which resulted in Cronin's death.

Kelliher was brought to the police court this morning by two of the officers of the institution and arraigned on the serious charge of murder after which Major Crowley and Judge Enright conferred and it was deemed advisable to place the defendant under observation. Judge Enright in passing on the case said that he understood that while Kelliher was considered insane he had never been legally adjudged so. Dr. George A. Peirce, first assistant superintendent at the infirmary, was the complainant in the case.

Motorcycle a Menace

"The motorcycle is a menace to the community, they are worse than automobiles and I am going to stop overspeeding if there is any way of doing it," said Judge Enright in police court this morning after imposing a fine of $30 on Charles E. Downing of Lynn.

Downing was charged with operating a motorcycle in the town of Tewksbury on October 22d at an unreasonable rate of speed and a second count charged him with recklessly operating a motor vehicle which endangered the lives and safety of the public. He entered a plea of guilty to the first count and not guilty to the second. After the court considered the evidence in the case the defendant was found guilty on the first count and a fine of $30 imposed, the second count being placed on file.

According to the testimony of Chief Frank Farmer of Tewksbury the defendant passed through Tewksbury on the 22d of this month on a motorcycle which was travelling between 40 and 50 miles an hour and after making a curve crashed into an automobile. Downing and John Landry, who was also on the machine, were thrown to the ground and suffered a general shaking up and received minor injuries.

Downing, testifying in his own behalf, said that he was going at the rate of 25 or 30 miles an hour, but was not positive as to that owing to the fact that there was no speedometer on the machine. He said that after turning the corner a motorcycle with side car attached came along the left side of the road and while trying to avoid the approaching machine he applied his brake causing his machine to skid and it crashed into an automobile.

Had an Unlicensed Dog

Alphonse Rousseau was charged with keeping an unlicensed dog and the case was placed on file after it was learned that the defendant had licensed the animal.

Statutory Offenses

Peter Brown and Cora Townsend, charged with a statutory offense, were each fined $15. On the same charge Charles Pappas was sentenced to six months in jail, while the case of Delia McKeown, his associate, was continued for two weeks. The above arrests were made last night by Special Officer Francis Moore and Patrolman Jeremiah Regan.

Cases Continued

The cases of Charles A. and John J. Angier, charged with having watered milk in their possession, were continued until Nov. 28.

Woman Assaulted

John H. Dawson was charged with assault and battery on May A. Smith of 1239 Lawrence street, Wigginville, on Oct. 26th. He entered a plea of not guilty.

According to Mrs. Smith, Dawson has bothered her for a long time and on the date in question he attacked her, pulled her hair and struck her in the face, discoloring her right eye. Several witnesses corroborated the testimony offered by the complainant.

The defendant claimed that he struck the woman in self-defense. He admitted, however, that he had been arrested on several occasions and at the present time is on parole from Shirley. The case was continued until Saturday for sentence, Dawson being held under $300 bonds for his appearance at that time. Lawyer Melvin G. Rogers appeared for the government.

Disturbed the Peace

Anstoloer Demetratos and James Jenakos was charged with disturbing the peace and after entering pleas of guilty each was ordered to pay a fine of $10.

Speros Georgasas and William Generes, also charged with disturbing the peace, were each ordered to pay a fine of $10.

Drunken Offenders

Frank O. Ball, who resides in North Chelmsford, raised ructions at his home Saturday night and at 11.30 o'clock his wife summoned Officer Vinal, who placed the man under arrest. Yesterday, when Ball was arraigned in police court, he entered a plea of not guilty and the case was continued until this morning. Officer Vinal and Mrs. Ball testified as to the man's actions Saturday night and also on previous occasions and Mrs. Ball said she wanted nothing more to do with her husband. Ball agreed to pay his wife $10 a week and keep away from the house, and on that condition the court gave the defendant a suspended sentence of five months in the house of correction.

One offender was given a suspended sentence of three months in jail and seven first offenders were released by the probation officer.

RE-ARGUMENT ON FATE OF WATER POWER PROJECT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—The supreme court today heard re-argument on the fate of a water power project at Long Sault Island, St. Lawrence river said to be capable of developing 600,000 horsepower, three times greater than Niagara Falls plants, and worth $180,000,000. The Long Sault development company's New York state charter was declared annulled in Gov. Sulzer's administration when the act under which it had been granted was repealed.

The company, which Attorney General Woodbury of New York declared was a subsidiary of the aluminum trust, lost the fight to save its charter in New York federal courts, and appealed to the supreme court which heard the first argument in April but reached no dicision.

LOWELL AUTO SKIDS AND BREAKS WINDOW

HAVERHILL, Oct. 31.—Skidding on the wet pavement an auto truck owned by Chester Boessett of Lowell and operated by Hector W. Jodoin of 28 Campaw street, Lowell, plunged across the sidewalk and narrowly missing scores of pedestrians, crashed into the window of the Newark shoe store, 166 Merrimack street, early Sunday night.

Jodoin was driving up Merrimack street in the direction of Washington square. In swerving to get out of the car tracks, his machine commenced to skid. Jodoin attempted to head it into an alleyway but the vehicle shot across the sidewalk and crashed into the store front. Nobody was injured; the big plate glass window was shattered.

JEWETT ESTATE HEIRS

or more so." In conclusion, he stated that his clients do not care to take the matter to the court except as a last resort and he suggested that some board of arbitration be appointed to make a fair estimate of what the owners ought to receive in compensation for the property seized. His suggested valuation is $6000, and he said that the evidence in favor of this would be considered strong, if not conclusive, by a jury. The owners had refused a private bid of this amount, he stated.

Commissioner Morse was the only one of the commissioners to speak on the matter. He took issue with Mr. Harvey and expressed himself in favor of a court verdict if the Jewett heirs do not care to accept the price offered by the city.

"You say Mr. Harris is an expert," said Mr. Morse. "Don't know that he's any better than the expert assessors in this building."

"Perhaps not" answered Mr. Harvey," but probably they did not exercise their expert knowledge in this instance."

Well, I'm in favor of a fair settlement," rejoinded Mr. Morse, "but if we appoint any judges, men on the street will say 'Oh, they are a lot of grafters up there,' I think the courts ought to decide the matter."

Petition on Poles

The Bay State Street railway and Lowell Electric Light corporation petitioned for the relocation of 3 poles on Wilder street, corner of Pine. Representatives of both companies spoke in favor of the project. There were two remonstrants—Mr. Frank H. Haynes who said that he already has poles enough in front of his property and Miss Dorothy Wixon. After being shown the plans, both remonstrants withdrew their objection and the matter was referred to Commissioners Morse and Donnelly.

Petitions and Reports

The United States Cartridge company requested permission to store 6000 pounds of powder on land within the city limits and it was referred to Commissioner Putnam.

Garage and gasoline license requests were as follows: Walter S. Miller on Burtt street; Charles W. Holmes on Varnum avenue; Nelson Claremont on London street, and Arcide A. Parent on Walker street. David and Della McCluskey petitioned for a gas light opposite 18 Agawam street, and Martin Murphy petitioned for a light on Fisher street.

Notification of claims for personal injuries was made by Severe Gelina and Mrs. Micheal Gorman. The Lowell Electric Light corporation petitioned for the location of three poles on Orchard street, and the New England Telephone & Telegraph company for poles on Ludlam street, east of Dalton.

Hawthorn Street

Commissioner Morse reported on the petition of A. Knapp and others that a portion of Hawthorn street be laid out and accepted. A hearing has been held and the commissioner of streets urged the adoption of an order to that effect.

An order was read calling a meeting for the nomination of officers for city election Tuesday, Nov. 21, for the selection of two aldermen and three members of the school committee. The polls are to be open from 12 to 8. The city clerk was advised to issue notices accordingly.

The report of the license commission to the municipal council for the quarter just ended was read and accepted.

The health department petitioned for a carload of oats to be delivered no later than Nov. 10, and it was referred to the purchasing agent.

On recommendation of Commissioner Putnam, garage and gasoline licenses were granted to Frank Trull, Mammoth road; E. Chicoin, Merrimack street; Victor Provencher, West Third street; W. H. Potter, Gibson street; Charles M. Bixby, Princeton street; Minnie Deroy, Webber street; Joseph A. Calmette, Victoria street, and Charles W. Hamel, Hurd street.

Money Refunded

The council voted to recommend to the board of assessors that taxes be abated on the land owned by Mary Hubert on Fourth avenue and taken by the city for school purposes, also sewer assessments.

It was also voted to pay to Mrs. Canlin, wife of Eugene Canlin, $50, which was half of the expense incurred by her in getting a clear title to the School street school property sold by the city. After purchasing she found the title defective and was obliged to take the matter to the land court.

Safeguarding Records

A communication was read from the state commissioner of public records, calling attention to things that still have to be done before the city records are safeguarded against fire.

The state commissioner called attention to wooden fittings in vaults of the city clerk's office, the assessors' office, the engineer's office, and suggested improvements in the office of the installator of wires, the water and fire department, the park commission, the trustees of the burial grounds, and the license commission. Mayor O'Donnell said that some of the records at city hall might be transferred to other vaults in the building, if necessary and that the records of the license commission might be kept in the vaults at the police station which are now and up to date.

School Power Plant

Mayor O'Donnell reported that Mr. Kimball had telephoned to him requesting that the municipal council state what they will do relative to the installation of a power plant in the new high school. The mayor explained that the power plant matter is not settled though many think so. He said that, in his opinion, the advisory board will be opposed to the idea, stating that such opposition was voiced after a discussion of the matter at the last meeting of the committee, by two men well qualified to speak on the subject. He said also that Dr. Lambert will probably want another meeting on this matter before a decision is taken and Mr. Putnam expressed himself in favor of a joint meeting.

Sidewalk Bid

On the recommendation of Commissioner Morse it was voted unanimously to grant the contract for granolithic sidewalk on the bid of Mathias S. Conner.

Drawn for Jury

Fred W. Noyes, 62 Lane street, clerk; John J. Dawson, 583 Middlesex street, manager; James A. Sheehan, 32 Butterfield street, clerk; William J. Sullivan, 17 Bowers street, plumber; Henri Daigle, 17 Endicott street, operative, and Patrick H. Crowley, 107 Blossom street, laborer.

The next meeting of the municipal council will be Wednesday, Nov. 8, at 10 a. m.

Dance tonight, Highland hall.

FREE! FREE!! FREE!!! MONDAY NOV. 6th A Scenic Reproduction of Niagara Falls

Exhibited for the first time in Lowell. Anyone who has ever visited Niagara Falls will be interested in this ingenious reproduction of one of the greatest scenic wonders of our country. Those who have not seen the Falls will obtain from this artistic presentation an excellent idea of the marvelous natural wonder which has attracted to its shores hundreds of thousands of visitors from all parts of the globe.

The scene represents the Falls viewed from Victoria Park on the Canadian side looking toward the Horseshoe, with the American Falls on the left. It is the Fall of the year, the brilliant autumnal foliage adding to the rich hues of the landscape. By a clever combination of art, mechanism and electricity, the water tumbles over the Falls, and clouds of mist seem to be rising skyward. The little steamer, "Maid of the Mist," and the passing and repassing of trolley cars add life and movement to the scene.

By clever lighting arrangement, the glorious crimson glow of the setting sun merges into sixlery moonlight, which in turn is superseded by the brilliance of the dawn.

To add to the interest of this reproduction a lecturer has been engaged, who will give a brief address every thirty minutes, between 11 a. m. and 4.30 p. m., from Nov. 6th to 11th, inclusive. Also Monday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

SAYS ALLIES COULD NOT CUT WESTERN FRONT IN 30 YEARS

BERLIN, Oct. 31, via wireless to Sayville, N. Y.—That the allies could not break through the western front in 30 years, even if they could provide enough men to keep up the attacks, was one of the statements made in a notable interview given by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, chief of the German staff, to a representative of the Vienna Neue Free Presse, whom he received at headquarters in the presence of General von Ludendorf, first quartermaster-general.

Calls Situation Good

He described the present situation as follows:

"The situation is as good as possible, and all will be well in the future."

As for the duration of the war, Field Marshal von Hindenburg said:

"That depends upon our enemies. Prophesying does not pay; during a war one had better leave it alone. It is possible that the year 1917 will bring battles which will decide the war. However, I do not know, and nobody knows. I only know that we will fight this war to a final decision."

Do Not Think of Peace

General von Ludendorf here added: "We do not think of peace. We are absolutely decided to continue the war, as is shown with sufficient clearness by the measures of the allies (Teutonic) army commands."

The correspondent in turn reported to Field Marshal von Hindenburg on the general feeling in Austrian-Hungary, declaring it was one of confidence and satisfaction, but that as everywhere, the end of the war was wished. The field marshal replied:

That we all wish: Understand this well. The Austro-Hungarian people have accomplished their full duty during this war and have made all the heavy sacrifices which were necessary. But still new sacrifices must be made, lest those already made have been made in vain."

General von Ludendorf interjected: "Tell your Austrian friends that there is only one efficient means for ending the war; a firm will to end the war by victory."

Asked whether there was any chance that the war would be culminated by a decisive blow, General von Ludendorf said:

"Perhaps. The trend of events must show this. I prefer to make no statement."

Russia Becoming Exhausted

As to whether the Russian masses will be exhausted, Field Marshal von Hindenburg replied:

"They are already becoming so; the Russian army commanders have charged themselves with that. There is no doubt also that new masses will grow up in Russia. But that makes no difference. We, too, have enough men. Germany has a profusion of reserves, and in Austria-Hungary the reserves are by no means exhausted. We never were afraid of the Russian numerical strength. We know no numerical superiority."

General von Ludendorf, taking up the subject, said:

"Numerical superiority and danger only exist for the weak. Who objects against fate ought better to object against himself. A firm will commands fate. There is no blind fate."

"The new Russian armies are as good and as bad as the former. The main quality of the Russian soldier is blind obedience. He makes no progress of a military kind; only the Russian artillery has become more efficient on account of instruction by French and Japanese officers, who partly command, but our artillery remains superior.

"During a certain period the Russians had more munitions than they formerly had. Their munition supplies have now become diminished because of the end of importation by way Archangel and Vladivostok."

The correspondent asked whether in the opinion of the chief of staff the termination of the war was possible only in the east, to which Field Marshal von Hindenburg replied:

No Special Program

"People don't know what nonsense they talk. One does a great injustice to an army commander by attributing to him a program. He certainly has in his head a plan of war, a general view of war. But there is no prepared program except that one—to gain victory. Where and how that shall be done can only be decided each moment anew on the basis of events. Therefore, a decision can be looked for as well in the east as in the west.

"It is nonsense if they tell you that I intend to shorten my front in the west. I never thought of it. Why should I do it? The front in the west stands as firm as a rock, and if our enemies by gigantic use of artillery here and there gain a little terrain they shall never break through. In order to do this they would still have to attack for 30 years, provided they had enough men.

The Fate of France

"The French show great tenacity, but they are exterminating lives by their method of fighting. All their tenacity will be of no avail, for in the end there will be none of them left. This fate of the French nation is owing above all else to the British. If the British ask next spring for one more offensive campaign they will rob France of the remainder of her army and her national strength.

"This war will make no great change in the estimate of British military accomplishments. Great strategists, in particular, are lacking among the British.

"The Transylvanian situation is excellent. The Rumanians are in retreat and the day of reckoning is coming. I welcomed their entrance into the war with joy. By means of it we got out of trench warfare."

NO QUININE IN THIS COLD CURE

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends colds and grippe in a few hours.

Take "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until you have taken three doses, then all grippe misery goes and your cold will be broken. It promptly opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling. Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

TO BOYCOTT BAY STATE LINES

NEWBURYPORT, Oct. 31.—Plans for a boycott of the Bay State street railway lines in this city and in Seabrook, N. H., and other surrounding communities were being completed yesterday by factory workers employed here. The proposed boycott will be effective Wednesday morning, when the 6-cent fares become operative on the local street railway lines.

Several hundred residents of Seabrook who come here daily to their work in factories, said yesterday that they believed the increase from a five to six cent fare was unwarranted on the local lines. They proposed, spokesmen at noon meetings announced, to use the steam railroad lines commencing on Wednesday.

Scores of residents in the North End of this city who have been riding to work in the morning and to and from dinner at noon and home again at night on the street cars have announced their intention of organizing a "dinner pail" brigade, bringing their lunches to work and walking to and from their homes.

CAN'T QUIT SERVICE IN MILITIA

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Members of the Massachusetts militia, recently returned from the border, are up in arms over the orders received yesterday from the war department preventing the men from securing discharges from their various organizations except in extraordinary cases.

The recruits who joined after the president's call are particularly indignant. These recruits claim that they were led to believe they held the same status as the volunteers of '61 and '98 and would be discharged immediately after the trouble was over.

Now, they say, they must remain with the companies to which they were assigned, attend weekly drill at the armory, under threat that a corporal's guard will rout them out of bed, and they will suffer dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and other indignities.

The new orders were the sole topic of discussion in the armories last evening. In Charleston armory, where A, B, C and H companies of the 15th regiment are quartered, the men present showed much feeling over the matter, several stating that the government had "tied them up tight."

At the Commonwealth armory, although Battery A and the field hospital have been mustered out, quite a number of the men put in an appearance and a warm discussion followed about the new orders.

Adjt.-Gen. Pearson, commenting on the situation said: "From my view of the matter, the government evidently intends to hold on to these men, now that it has them. Although no penalty has been provided for men who break the rules, they are open to dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and they can be seized and brought back."

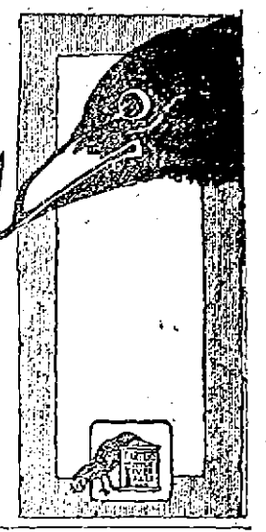

The new regulations were received yesterday by Adjt.-Gen. Pearson, and were signed by Col. C. W. McIver, who is in charge of the militia bureau at Washington, since the death of Gen. Mills. They state that no enlisted man can be discharged without the approval of the department commander or the war department, with the exceptions that the governor of a state can discharge men for disability, on account of sentence by a civil court, removal from the state, or enlisting in the regular service.

Before the militia became part of the National Guard, the men could secure discharge for business reasons, absence from drill or other trivial causes, without any trouble. Another provision that excited much comment among the militiamen was that if a soldier changes his residence to another part of the state, he must be transferred to a militia organization near his new residence.

The conference continued for nearly two hours during which the emperor conferred personally with each of those present.

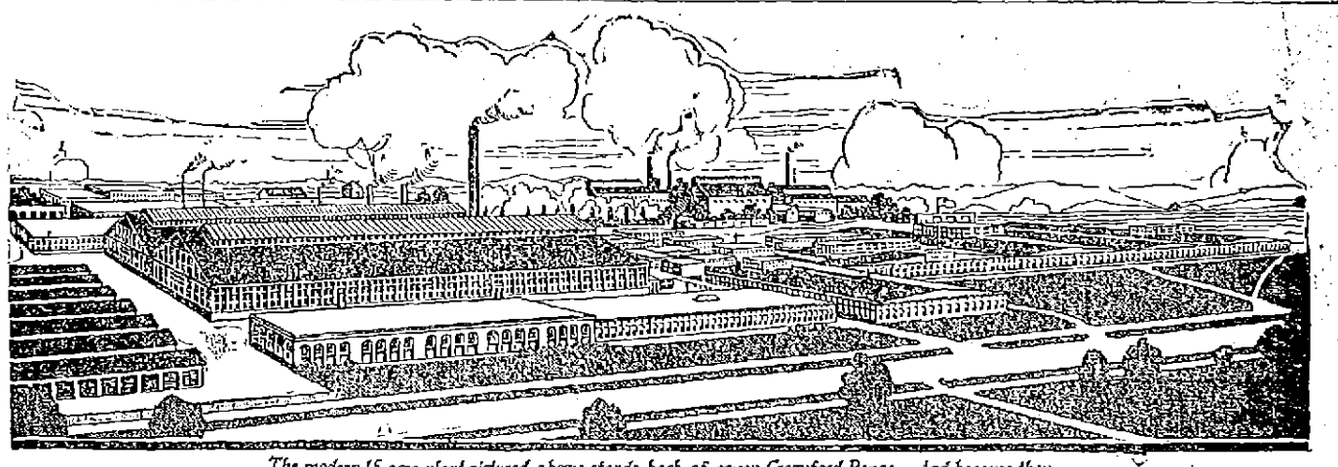

A list of the participants in the conference includes Adolph Batocki, president of the food regulation board; Dr. Alfred Lohmann, president of the board of directors of the German Ocean Navigation Co., who developed the merchant submarines Deutschland and Bremen; Dr. Karl Helfferich, secretary of the interior and his assistants, the imperial commissary for transition from war to peace and his staff, the Bavarian minister, the directorate of the German consumptions' association, the general secretary of the Christian labor unions, the directors of the imperial grain, feed, potato, meat and fat bureaus, the chief of the largest insurance companies in Germany and business men from every section of the empire.

STOLEN COFFEE FOUND

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Caches in which was concealed nearly a ton of coffee belonging to the Oriental Tea company of Boston were located in Limerick and Brownfield, Me., yesterday, according to the statements of the police of those towns, who have been working with the Boston police.

William H. North of Boston, president of the company, said last night that the discovery of the caches reveals a big plot through which the company was robbed of several thousand pounds of coffee during the past few months.

Six men, employes of the company, were arrested in Boston, Oct. 21, in connection with the larceny.

Crawford Ranges

The Woman who owns a Crawford cooks with the World's Best Range

Buying a Range is like buying a diamond. It depends on the stove—it depends on the stone.

No Range can be too good. Buying the best Range is a duty—a duty to your home—to yourself—to your family.

The Range burns the coal and cooks the food. Coal costs money. Perfectly cooked food provides health.

Imitating the Crawford Range

The greatest proof of Crawford Range leadership is the imitation of its unique features. There are certain Crawford distinctions that are embodied in nearly every other Range upon the market.

The Crawford has always led in improvements. Thanks to Crawford patents, the most important of these cannot be imitated.

That wonderful Crawford Single Damper which with one movement controls the fire and the oven cannot be found in any other Range on the market.

Twenty Crawford Advantages

On the inside of a Crawford Range as well as on the outside you will find reasons why Crawford Ranges excel.

The Crawford embodies more invention and a closer scientific construction than other Ranges. Your eyes and your common sense will appreciate its advantages at once.

You simply cannot be a poor cook with a Crawford. It does the thinking for you.

And its low coal consumption and its perfect system of heat-distribution also make the Crawford the most economical Range.

A Crawford saves and satisfies—always.

"Why I Sell Crawford Ranges!"

Any Crawford Dealer will tell you why he is proud to sell Crawford Ranges. And he has good reason to be proud. He is selling the World's best Range—and can prove it—easily—surely—without argument.

If you have inspected all the other Ranges in town you will quickly forget them when you see a Crawford.

You'll buy a Crawford. You can't help it. The Dealer will show it to you—and the Crawford will sell itself.

The patented Single Damper—the scientific flue system—the labor-saving double Ash Hods—and the many other Crawford conveniences will prove irresistible.

Our Pride in the Crawford Plant

The Crawford is made in the world's greatest stove plant. Not greatest in size—but greatest in invention, efficiency and system that make possible the best Range in the world.

It is a matter of record that the leading stove men come to Watertown, Mass., to see our plant—and go away convinced that ours is the finest equipped stove plant in existence.

The Crawford Range is made with the utmost care. And the half century of skill and experience behind it and in it give the Crawford a national reputation that even our competitors admit.

The Crawford Range as an Investment

The Crawford Range is a life-time investment. Thousands of women who pride themselves on their cooking think the Crawford simply cannot be improved.

However, we are our own severest critics. If the best can be bettered we will do it. For the Crawford ideal is never really satisfied.

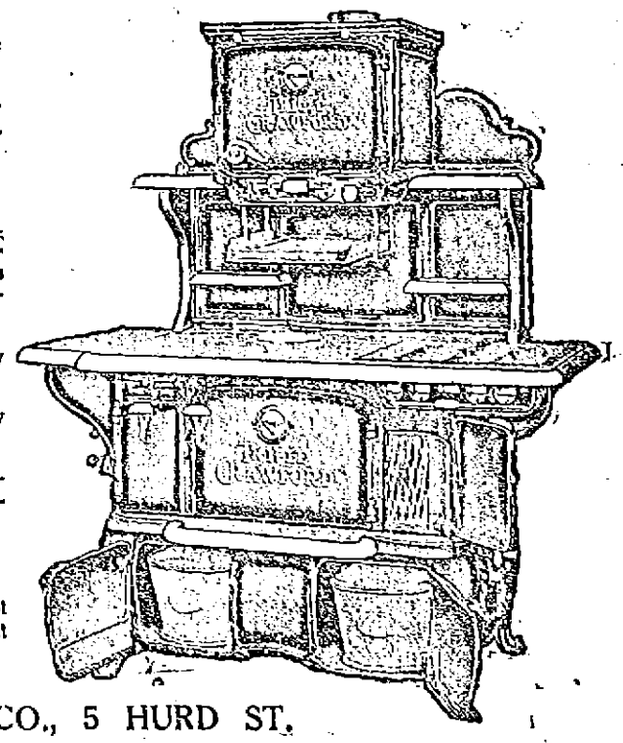

To improve—to build still better—to add more and more to its wonderful supremacy—is our constant aim.

Yet the fact remains: Today's Crawford Range seems as near perfect as is humanly possible.

And one thing is certain. When you buy your Crawford you are buying a range that has never yet been equalled—a Range that is a life-time investment—for you and for your children.

Gas ovens if desired; end (single) or elevated (double).

Visit your Crawford Dealer. He will give you the twenty reasons why he sells the Crawford. Every reason he gives you will be an added reason for you to own one.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

FREED 2,000,000 CHILD SLAVES

For many years past the cotton factories of this state have claimed that they had to compete at a disadvantage with the mills of the south, which were allowed to employ child labor. That charge was well founded, yet republican administrations failed to do anything to remedy the evil. Despite the fact that one of the charges brought against the Wilson administration is partiality for the south, yet it remained for President Wilson to put through a measure cutting off from interstate commerce all manufactured products in which child labor was employed.

It is not generally known to what an extent child labor was employed in the south. Bulletin 157 issued by the United States Bureau of Labor statistics shows that of all those employed in gainful occupations in this country in 1910, there were 1,990,225 of the ages ten to fifteen inclusive.

Thus it is seen that with the passage of this child labor law by congress last summer, in response to the urgent appeal of President Wilson, about two million children were emancipated from a sytsem of slavery that would not be tolerated in Massachusetts or any New England state. The law was enacted too, over the bitter opposition of the south. Thus did President Wilson show his humane spirit and his disregard for the consequences even if it did lose him political supporters in that section. This is one of the most uplifting acts passed by congress since the emancipation of the slaves, for these children were in reality doomed to a system of slavery in which their growth was stunted and their future blighted.

Nevertheless, republicans who failed to enact a law to set these child slaves free are out trying to minimize the effect of the law and to misrepresent its true worth, merely because it is the work of Woodrow Wilson.

SENATOR LODGE'S PERFIDY

It remained for Senator Lodge to bring out in this campaign one of the lowest attempts to place President Wilson in a false light before the nation and even before the world at large. His contention in regard to the Lusitania note, based upon hearsay gossip, places him among the enemies of this country, and he owes President Wilson and the citizens of this nation an humble apology for making such a dastardly charge without knowing whereof he spoke. This is but another proof that Mr. Lodge, able and scholarly though he be, is capable of sinking to the lowest depths in the mire of politics in order to injure an opponent and help a reactionary political party back to power.

Senator Lodge's roorback will prove a boomerang against himself. That any chief executive would be foolish enough to write a sharp letter to a foreign power on a very serious question and then append a postscript saying the letter was not to be taken too seriously, is beyond conception. President Wilson and all connected with the note send out indignant denials of the story; but the best contradiction is found in the fact that the note caused Germany to abandon her mode of submarine warfare, as her chancellor declared, to avoid war with the United States.

SECRETARY DANIELS ATTACKED

Secretary Daniels of the navy is being assailed by republican campaigners as a country editor who, they allege, has little to qualify him for the position. The fact that he was a country editor is in his favor rather than the reverse. The republicans have had some secretaries of that department who couldn't edit the Bingville Bugle. But in addition to his accomplishments as a country editor, Mr. Daniels has made one of the best secretaries in the history of the department. Indeed history will probably record that among the greatest secretaries we have ever had in that department were Gideon Welles, the secretary under Lincoln, and Josephus Daniels, both country editors.

Under Secretary Daniels more has been done for the navy than by any former administration excepting none. Moreover the program laid down for the future will make our navy second only to that of England. The naval resources of the nation have been reorganized, the building program has been made permanent and consistent with the growing needs of the United States. Four dreadnoughts and four battle cruisers are to be built during the first year. Twenty torpedo boat destroyers, thirty coast submarines with auxiliaries will be begun at once. Further, the program calls for the construction before the first of July, 1919, of ten battleships, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, fifty torpedo boat destroyers, nine fleet submarines, 58 coast submarines with auxiliaries. The naval flying corps has been put on a permanent basis, the enlisted strength having been increased to 68,500, expansible in emergency to 87,000.

Thus the record of Secretary Daniels as head of the navy marks the greatest step forward in the nation's history. Thus, too, the country editor has given a good account of himself.

GOMPERS EXPOSES ROOSEVELT

While the republican press of this country and the republican campaigners from Candidate Hughes down to Gus Gardner, are charging President Wilson with surrendering to the dictation of the railroad brotherhoods in the Adamson law, their hypocrisy is shown up by President Gompers, who goaded by the lying attacks on President Wilson comes out and tells the public that before Roosevelt made his principal speech in the campaign, he sent the copy to Gompers to be revised as that gentleman saw fit.

Yet Roosevelt is only following the same policy as Hughes and the other campaigners who are out in his support. They must certainly be in a desperate plight when they sacrifice principle and stoop to methods far below the worst with which they can charge the opposition.

In all the negotiation with the brotherhoods, President Wilson never allowed them to dictate his policy and in tentatively favoring the eight-hour law for railroads he acted in the interests of the public, to avert a national calamity and to take the first step towards a peaceful settlement of all labor disputes affecting public utilities. If they call that a surrender to labor, what can they term the act of Colonel Roosevelt, who in this case is the representative of Candidate Hughes, in asking President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to edit his speeches?

After such palpable pandering for votes, the speaker or the editor who would charge President Wilson with meekly yielding to the importunities of labor are simply trying to fool the voters. They are resorting to the lowest trickery to catch votes.

PARTY ENROLLMENT

Party enrollment was discarded by the voters of this state in 1914 and now the republicans want it restored. For that purpose they have succeeded in having it placed on the ballot in a very misleading form, to wit: "An act to prevent the voters of one political party from voting in the primaries of another party." Naturally this question would appeal to the sense of fairness of the voter; but it does not give any intimation as to the real nature of the subject. The adoption of that act would restore party enrollment under which the employer in a large factory can inform himself as to the political affiliation of every one of his employes. It is not so long ago since voters in factories were coerced into entering political parades with which they had no sympathy.

The abolition of party enrollment put an end to that. Do the working people wish to abolish a law passed in their interests and objected to by political bosses who are handicapped in getting a line upon the political leanings of the wage earners? Every citizen should vote "no" on this particular question. To do otherwise would make a farce of the referendum as it was but two years ago that this law was put upon the statute books in accordance with the vote of the people.

MANSFIELD PUSHES McCALL

Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield, the democratic candidate for governor, is certainly driving Governor McCall into a tight corner in challenging him to deny a series of charges ranging from violated pledges by the governor to sanction of the lobby and interference with necessary legislation before the general court.

As Mr. Mansfield has vainly endeavored to draw out the governor on these matters, he now makes the proposition of a joint debate or an exchange of speaking engagements. Some of the charges made by Mr. Mansfield are of such a serious nature that we do not see how the governor can allow them to go unanswered. If he fails to answer, of course the presumption will be that Mr. Mansfield has him on the hip and that he deems it the safer course to keep silent on matters on which he cannot give an answer advantageous to himself.

ANOTHER GERMAN CRISIS

If it be found that Germany has violated her agreement not to sink vessels without warning and if it appears that she thereby has caused the loss of American lives, the only course open to President Wilson will be to apply the "strict accountability" clause of one of his notes relative to such occurrences.

Germany, after the Lusitania disaster, agreed to modify her submarine operations so as to conform to international law. If she has violated her pledges in that respect there is only one course open to the United States and that is the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany.

Seen and Heard

There is never so much going on as the rumors would indicate.

Russian police have arrested food speculators in Odessa. Wish they could get busy in Chicago.

Growing Younger

A well known textile union official who is on a recruiting committee tells a story of a man, aged 41 years, who was anxious to join the army.

At the recruiting office he put his foot in it by telling his true age, and was rejected.

Going to the union man, he complained bitterly of the red tape ideas that kept him out of the army.

"Well," said his adviser, "go back and say you made a mistake and that your real age is 36."

Away went the would-be soldier, and putting on a bold front, told the recruiter he was only 36 years of age.

"And why on earth did you say you were 41?" asked the sergeant.

"Oh—you see," stammered the man, "I got a bit mixed. It's my mother is 44."—Toronto Globe.

Business Very Poor

A wonderful fund of good stories has Sir Thomas Lipton, and one concerns a certain American youth he met while paying one of his visits to the states in connection with the American's cup. The boy, who was employed by his uncle at a weekly wage more advantageous to his relative than to himself, had awakened to the fact that he was not getting enough of this world's "dough," and had announced his intention of selling out to better himself.

"You are making a great mistake," protested his uncle, "in leaving a steady job with me just for a little more money. A rolling stone gathers no moss, remember."

"Moss!" jeered the boy. "What's the good of that? Where's there a market for moss, I'd like to know?"

The Coal Question

Since the start of the alleged coal famine there has been again advanced that spacious argument, "You should have put in your coal in the summer time." What difference does it make? Why should not people put in their coal when they have money or secondly, when it is convenient? Approximately the same amount of coal is used here annually. It is an amount that can be ascertained by calculation nearly. The suggestion that everybody put in coal in summer is unfair and impossible. If everybody in one city did this what would other cities do? What possible difference can it make in the long run when you put your coal in if, as the producers claim, there is a shortage? Somebody is bound to get left. Many are bound to get left and this even after folks have generally followed the sage (?) advice, "Buy your coal in the summer."—The Salem News.

Halloween Parties

Now is the time to give a party if you want your guests to have a rollicking time. Of course it won't be a formal affair—a Halloween frolic couldn't be that—but for downright enjoyment there is no night like October 31. Besides the spirit which makes the night a gay one, the fact that so many things come ready prepared for Halloween entertainment, makes it the one to choose. Everything you can possibly need, except "the eats," you will find at the stationery or department store. Invitations in cute styles, decorations, favors and prizes. A "Bogie book," full of games and stunts, ghost stories and weird suggestions galore, is published each year just before Halloween. You can get this book from your stationer. The table can be trimmed quickly and inexpensively. A Halloween lunch set furnishes table cover, plates, doilies and napkins to use. A runner of black and orange crepe trimmed with black cat cutouts is added. The well of truth is a fitting centerpiece and anyone can make it. Rocks are created of cotton and grey crepe paper design and is mounted on cardboard. The real tree boasts autumn leaves which are really small gummed seals. Fortunes should be drawn from the well at the close of the supper.

Faith

There was crape on the door of the earthly home,
And the neighbors who entered in
Just whispered the grief that they knew had come,
And told what the life had been.

"My mamma, she went-ed away last night,"
The youngest of all explained,
And the big round eyes that were wondrous bright,
No trace of a tear contained.

"My papa, he called, and we runned right down,
But mamma had gone away;
She has gone to heaven to wear a c'own—
We are going to meet her some day."

She prattled on in her innocence,
And saw, with a sad surprise,
The tears of love and of impotence
Well forth from the stranger's eyes.

"Why," murmured the child, "you are c'ying, too!"
And her look was a half reproof;
"We'll meet her in heaven, an' so can you.
My mamma said so, an' it's troof!"

There was crape on the door of the earthly home,
But a glorious faith inside;
The teaching of lips that were cold and dumb
Was present to cheer and guide.

On that meeting day in the home above
Perhaps we shall all confess
That the tears we shed which are not of love,
Are nothing but selfishness.

James W. Gould of 147 Forest Ave., Says Since Taking Plant Juice He Is Feeling Fine.

The Dows Drug Store, in Merrimack Square, where the new preparation, Plant Juice, is being introduced, has presented a scene of unusual activity for the past few days. Many people are calling out of gratitude to thank The Plant Juice Man for what his remedy has done for them, and to congratulate him upon the great success he has had in Lowell.

The following signed statement was recently made by Mr. James W. Gould, who lives at No. 147 Forest Avenue, and is a trusted employe of the Hamilton mill. Mr. Gould has many friends in this city and is also well known in labor circles. He said:

"For 10 years I have been troubled with my stomach in the form of indigestion; I had bad attacks of acute indigestion and suffered agony, and I thought it would prove fatal. Meats and vegetables would cause me great distress, and in fact I could hardly keep any food in my stomach; I had headaches, dizzy spells, could not get any sleep at night and would feel as tired in the morning as when I went to bed at night; I was badly constipated and had taken over so many different medicines without the slightest benefit. After taking Plant Juice only a short time the effect on my system has been wonderful; I sleep well, can eat anything I want without the slightest distress, have no more dizzy spells and never felt better in my life. I am more than pleased with what Plant Juice has done for me, and will recommend it to all of my friends."

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact any one of the following may denote affections of the stomach: Indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, bad breath, sick, throbbing headaches, night sweats, poor circulation, that tired feeling, costiveness, a coated tongue or a poor complexion.

The Plant Juice Man is at The Dows Drug Store, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

THREE CARDINALS OUT TO NAIL FALSEHOOD

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—To the disavowals of Cardinals Gibbons and Farley heretofore published, the New York World adds an authorized statement from Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, regarding the reported propaganda among Catholics of the middle west against President Wilson. Cardinal O'Connell's statement follows:

"It has come to my attention that some of the daily papers allude to an organized propaganda among Catholics of the middle west against one of the candidates for the presidency, assuming that this propaganda is carried on with the knowledge and tacit approval of the American cardinals.

"For my part, I know absolutely nothing of such political movement among Catholics anywhere in the United States, and if by any chance such unwarranted political activity existed, I should most heartily disapprove it."

DU PONT POWDER CO. OUT FOR HUGHES

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—By inverse application of the slogan, "Wilson has kept us out of war," an old republican farmer near Ithaca expresses a qualat opinion of the Hughes-Roosevelt campaign, and declares his intention to vote for President Wilson. His statement, given to Aaron G. Mintz, chairman of the democratic committee of Ithaca, follows:

"I never voted the democratic ticket before, but I am going to vote for Mr. Wilson. You know, I always judge a man by his supporters. Now, there is Teddy, and he likes war, and he is a little hot-headed. And to cap the climax, the du Pont powder people order their 70,000 men to vote for Hughes. Now, you know they don't make baby carriages."

M'CORMICK SHOWS UP ROOSEVELT'S BLUFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—"I see that the 'vocal part' of the republican campaign continues to run true to form," said Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee. Roosevelt, who is Mr. Hughes' spokesman, compels me to draw the deadly parallel.

"He seems to have changed his mind about our duty toward Belgium now that he has a presidential aspirant to boost.

"At Louisville, he said:

"'The case of Belgium was the first of Mr. Wilson's international sins. If we had protested against the invasion of Belgium,' etc., etc."

In an article in the Outlook on Sept. 23, 1914, he said:

"'Very probably nothing we could have done would have helped Belgium. We have not the smallest responsibility for what has befallen her. Only the clearest and most urgent national duty would ever justify us in deviating from our rule of neutrality and non-interference.'"

WAR TROUBLE NOT YET OVER SAYS NIXON

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Lewis Nixon, a close student of international affairs and for many years a prominent figure in public and commercial life, in a statement discussing the issues of the campaign, says that President Wilson's handling of the many problems that have grown out of the European war has been masterly. Mr. Nixon has been travelling throughout the country for the past six months and has had an opportunity to observe the trend of public opinion in many states.

"The next five months," he says, "may require decisions of vital moment to our country, and the people of the United States are beginning to realize that a four month twilight zone of doubt and uncertainty as to position taken and policy to be upheld might make us the principal sufferers from the after effects of the war.

"Even republicans with the real interests of their country at heart know that this is no time for a man yet groping in the dark for policies to enunciate to take the helm."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION

There was a well attended meeting of the Lowell Christian Endeavor union at the Worthen Street Baptist church last night, 211 members being present. An excellent supper was served by the society of the Worthen Street church and while the different courses were being served a musical program was carried out.

The auditorium of the church was decorated in an artistic manner, the Christian Endeavor banners predominating.

The meeting was presided over by O. E. McGregor. Earl S. Bacon, county chairman of the campaign for millions, distributed literature and conducted a live wire congress during which the problems of the campaign were discussed. A number of committee reports were read and other routine business transacted.

THE GRAND ARMY IS INDEBTED TO WILSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—That every G.A.R. veteran owes a debt of gratitude to the administration of President Wilson is the declaration of Col. John McElroy of this city, a lifelong republican and for 32 years editor of the National Tribune, official national organ of the Grand Army of the Republic. Col. McElroy has refused to go on the stump for Hughes.

"For me to take the stump against Wilson would be to smite the hand that helped us," he says. "We old soldiers owe much to President Wilson. The new widow's pension law comes more nearly to doing justice to the wives and dependents of old soldiers than any pension law ever passed. Commissioner Saltzgaber, appointed head of the pension bureau by President Wilson, has been one of the most efficient pension commissioners we have ever had.

"Of course, many G.A.R. veterans are republicans. I am myself. But, however much we may disagree with the democrats over purely party matters, as veterans of the Civil war we must admit a debt to President Wilson and his administration."

LA FOLLETTE FOR WILSON DESPITE REPORTS

Special to The Sun

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 31.—United States Senator LaFollette has broken with the republicans of Wisconsin, although it had been announced that he would come out for Hughes within the past few days. He has failed to make good the republican forecast and further evidence of friction is furnished by a speech made by E. L. Phillips, republican candidate for governor. Senator LaFollette's strongest supporters are openly urging the election of Wilson and LaFollette.

CANADA'S WOOD PULP SUPPLY THREATENED

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—Disappearance within 25 years of Canada's wood pulp supply if conservation methods are not adopted was predicted today before the Dominion's royal commission investigating trade relations by Ellwood Wilson, an expert on the paper industry.

Three things are essential for the protection of the industry, Mr. Wilson declared—the adoption of a scientific scheme of re-forestration, a proper system of fire protection and elimination of the waste which prevails in the forests.

DENY REPORT OF LOSS OF THE DEUTSCHLAND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Deutschland, Germany's submarine merchantman, is believed in quarters here which should know, to be now on her second voyage to the United States. Knowledge of the fate the vessel is supposed to have started from Germany is disclaimed.

News despatches from Switzerland reporting that the Deutschland, as well as the Bremen had been lost and that the former started for the United States during September were discredited. It was emphatically declared that the Deutschland was in a German port all of last month.

It also was said today that in the future all German submarines coming to the United States whether naval or merchantmen, will make either New London or Newport their port of call. No more submarines will enter Hampton Roads because of the danger of nets being dropped to trap them off the Virginia capes.

American submarines are usually operating in the waters off New London and Newport at all times of the year. British nets dropped there might endanger American vessels and the lives of American sailors. German officials do not believe that the British would take the chance of netting an American vessel. Consequently German submarines will take advantage of the better opportunity for clear paths off the Connecticut and Rhode Island coasts.

SAYS HE KILLED MAN SIX YEARS AGO

WOOD F. BROWN, ARRESTED FOR STEALING AUTOMOBILE—CONFESSES MURDER

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 31.—A negro who says his name is Wood F. Brown, arrested here today charged with stealing an automobile, voluntarily told the police, they say, that he had shot and killed William L. Rice, a wealthy lawyer of Cleveland six years ago.

Brown, the police say, engaged an automobile in Atlantic City early today to take him to Philadelphia. The machine was driven by an Atlantic City man who took along a friend. At Hammonton, N. J., it is alleged the negro suddenly pointed a revolver at the men and ordered them out of the automobile. He then took possession of the car, and, after firing several random shots, proceeded toward Camden. The police here were notified and Brown was arrested on a ferryboat which was about to leave for Philadelphia.

SWISS COURIER SAYS MESSAGES BEARING GOVERNMENT SEAL TAKEN BY BRITISH

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Jules Metzger, who says he is a Swiss courier declared today on his arrival on the steamer Noordam that Swiss official documents bearing the seal of that government and which he was bringing to the Swiss legation at Washington and to the Swiss consul general in this city were seized by the British authorities when the Noordam stopped at Falmouth.

KILLED IN FALL OF 100 FEET FROM AEROPLANE

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Oct. 31.—Silas Christoffersen, consulting engineer of an aviation company here, was killed today when his machine overturned and fell 100 feet during a trial flight of a new military airplane.

Christoffersen's wife and two brothers were watching the flight and rushed to his aid. The injured aviator was hurried to a hospital but expired soon after reaching there.

IRREGULAR CHANGES AT THE OPENING

MOTORS AND SOME EQUIPMENT SHARES LOWER—U. S. STEEL MADE SMALL ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Irregular price changes at today's opening indicated a continuance of the caution that marked the previous day's operations on the stock exchange. Motors and some of the equipment issues were lower by fractions to over a point, together with Marine pfd. and the metal group recorded a moderate setback. These were offset by fractional advances in U. S. Steel common and preferred, Rock Island, Industrial Alcohol and Colorado Fuel. Union Pacific, Reading and a few other leaders were dull and without material changes. Later quotations were mainly in the direction of higher levels.

U. S. Steel in Demand

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Except for the motors, the market assumed a more confident air before the end of the first hour.

U. S. Steel was in steady demand at a gain of a point with Crucible and Lackawanna Steels, Republic Iron, American and Baldwin Locomotives, General Electric and Westinghouse. Alcohol extended its gain, with Central Leather, Sugars, American Smelting and American Zinc. Fertilizers and paper issues became active at noon at gains of 1 to 3 points, with a new record for American Writing Paper pfd. at 51¼. The reactionary trend of Rock Island and Canadian Pacific caused some restraint in other branches of the railway division. Bonds were steady.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Exchanges $730,817,795; balances $29,649,960.

Boston Market

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Coppers were irregular in the early trading. Copper Range sold up $1 but Calumet & Hecla lost 5 points.

Further Advances

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The paper, fertilizer and more obscure specialties continued the conspicuous features of the intermediate session, with an increased inquiry for U. S. Steel and allied issues to further moderate advances. Rails and other standard stocks lagged.

THE DEFENDER OF CASEMENT OUT FOR WILSON

Special to The Sun.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 31.—"I shall vote for President Wilson because it is my patriotic duty to do so, because I am first an American," declares Michael Francis Doyle, the brilliant young Philadelphia lawyer, who defended Sir Roger Casement in the recent trial for high treason in London. Mr. Doyle also announced that today he is going on the stump for Wilson until the end of the campaign.

Loved for his labor for the poor and the distressed, Mr. Doyle built for himself before he was 30 a national reputation. He ran for congress against Gen. Bingham, "father of the house" when he was only 22. Among the many public betterment movements which he has helped to initiate is the national conference of Catholic charities. He was a close friend and attorney of Archbishop Ryan.

"It was my privilege," said Mr. Doyle, in a statement he sent today to the democratic national committee, "to be twice in Europe since the beginning of the present great war and in that time have spent months travelling through England, France, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Austria and to the Russian frontier. I have seen the horrors of war on the battlefields, the destroyed cities and have witnessed the sorrows of thousands of fatherless homes, and known the sadness of hundreds of thousands of children, orphaned through no fault of theirs.

"This war was not created by those who suffer and who are actually engaged in it. It was due to the act of a few men in political power. If our country is at peace with the world we owe it entirely to the patience and perseverance of our president. One hasty or mistaken act of his would have plunged us into the awful abyss of blood which now envelopes mankind. No president has been more bitterly criticised than he, and for what? If not for keeping us from war, then it is for the means he took in keeping us out of war. And, yet, would anyone guarantee different means and yet guarantee our peace? This criticism against him is for not doing things which if done might have led to war.

"The noble patriotism of every American man and woman should appeal to them to lay aside their prejudices, no matter how keen, and their partisan feeling, no matter how loyal, and vote for the president because he has preserved us in peace.

"He has in addition given us the most progressive administration ever vouchsafed by any American leader. Our great prosperity affecting all classes, the reform of our financial system, the emancipation of children from the greed of the factory, the rural credits law which lightened the burdens of the farmer, the eight-hour law which marked his sympathy with the workingman, show that his impulses are generous and with the masses of the people. His defeat would be notice to the world that our policy of peace is to be abandoned. His victory will mean that, having kept us from war, the strength of our country will be the deciding power in ending this awful holocaust and for the first time mark the leadership of America among the nations of the world."

HUGHES REPLIES TO HECKLER AT COLUMBUS

FAVORS MAINTENANCE OF EVERY RIGHT, INCLUDING RIGHT OF TRAVEL AND SHIPMENT

COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 31—Charles E. Hughes today told a heckler that he was in favor of the maintenance of every American right, "including the right of travel and the right of shipment." Mr. Hughes had been asked if he favored an embargo on munitions or the passage of a resolution by congress warning Americans of merchant ships flying the flag of belligerent nations.

Mr. Hughes spoke in the open air before a crowd that had come for miles to hear him. He was speaking of competition American enterprise will have to meet from Europe after the war, when a man shouted.

MATRIMONIAL

A fashionable wedding took place this morning in St. Aidan's church, Brookline, when Dr. Francis P. Jantzen, a prominent physician of Boston and formerly of this city, and Miss Alice M. Doyle, only daughter of the late William E. Doyle, at one time one of Boston's oldest and most prominent florists, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 10 o'clock by Rev. Charles Lane, S.J. Present in the sanctuary during the mass were Rev. Philip O'Connell of St. Philip's church, Boston; Rev. Fr. Lee of Revere, Rev. Fr. Fitzgerald of Cambridge, Rev. James McDermott, O.M.I., Lowell, and Rev. Dr. John Sexton of St. John's seminary, Brighton. The bride wore duchess satin with train and a veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Anna I. Burke of Holyoke, who acted as matron of honor, and who wore pink chiffon and picture hat and carried roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary T. Reardon of Boston, who was attired in cloth of gold. She wore a picture hat and carried roses. Dr. Joseph W. Jantzen of this city, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. At the close of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride, 16 Kilsyth road, Brookline, where a wedding breakfast was served. Present at the festivities were guests from New York, Boston, Holyoke, Lowell, Brookline and Providence. The home and church were beautifully decorated for the occasion, with chrysanthemums. The ushers at the house and church were Dr. Harry Cahill, Dr. William O'Donnell and Dr. John J. O'Donnell, cousins of the bridegroom; Dr. Fred Coughlin of Providence, John J. Lyons and Thomas Johnson of Boston. After Jan. 1 the happy couple will be at the home to their friends at 16 Kilsyth road, Brookline.

SCORES LODGE FOR ATTACK ON PRES. WILSON

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—John F. Fitzgerald, democratic candidate for the United States senate in opposition to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in an address today criticised the state's senior senator for what he termed his "attack on the president of the United States at a time when he should have the backing of every one of his people." He said that his reference was to Senator Lodge's sponsorship of the charge that President Wilson had considered seriously the addition of a secret postscript to the Lusitania note to Germany.

"In the discussion with our relations with the old world there should be no politics," former Mayor Fitzgerald said. "Every one of us should stand behind the government, and the president is the spokesman for the government. Senator Lodge with his experience on the foreign relations committee and with his knowledge of the delicacy and tension of the situation that develops in Washington over night, should be the last man in the country to criticise the president.

"Senator Lodge's public position should place him above petty actions, even in the heat of a political contest, but it has remained for this scion of Massachusetts to lower the standard of political morals in a campaign."

PRES. WILSON ON LAST TRIP OF CAMPAIGN

WILL SPEAK IN BUFFALO AND NEW YORK CITY TOMORROW NIGHT

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 31—President Wilson will leave here tonight on his last trip of the campaign. He will speak in Buffalo and New York city and will shake hands with station crowds at many cities and towns in New York state. While arrangements for his speeches have been made by non-partisan organizations, his campaign managers expect his trip to have an important effect on the campaign in New York state.

Arriving at Buffalo at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Mr. Wilson will motor through the principal streets to the Ellicott club and will have lunch there, probably delivering a speech. Later he will rest and dine privately at a hotel. In the evening he will address a meeting under the auspices of the Executives' club. He will leave Buffalo for New York city at 10.35 o'clock tomorrow night.

The president will be accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Secretary Tumulty, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the White House physician, and several members of the White House staff.

LICENSED CLUBS

The decision of City Solicitor Harold Varnum of this city in reference to club licenses has been called to the attention of the license commission of Fitchburg, but according to the chairman of the commission the clubs of Fitchburg, which are dispensing liquor to members are doing a legal business.

Chairman Currier of the license commission while discussing the opinion of City Solicitor Varnum of Lowell said that the club license law has always caused many arguments as to its interpretation. He said he believes that the clubs of Fitchburg, licensed by law to "dispense liquors to their members," are doing a legal business and so far as he is concerned, he said, there would be no drive against the clubs unless a court decision or legislative act changes the situation.

HOTEL LICENSE TRANSFERRED

At a special meeting of the license commission held this afternoon the board acted favorably on a transfer of the license of the Hotel Cecil at 526-530-532 Middlesex street. The former licensees were Hugh and Ada Ferguson, of the firm of Hugh Ferguson & Co., and that license was surrendered and cancelled and a license was granted to George Watson and William Ferguson, of the firm of Watson & Ferguson.

Owing to the fact that the board met in special session last night and also a special session this afternoon, the regular meeting of the commissioners will not be held tonight.

MRS. PAGE MISSING

Is Mrs. Josephine Page, wife of Lewis Page of Dunbarton, N. H., in this city? That is what the Page family and the police of Dunbarton are endeavoring to find out. Mrs. Page, who is 65 years of age, has been ill since last summer and during her illness she always had a nurse at her bedside. Last Thursday in the absence of the nurse, the aged woman left her home and her whereabouts is now unknown.

Mrs. Page was seen at the Everett railroad station and later in the station at Manchester, N. H. She traveled from home to the Queen City by railroad and during the trip she inquired from the conductor at what time she could get a train for Lowell, but so far as is known nothing has been seen of the woman in this city. Mrs. Page left England 20 years ago and made her home at Dunbarton, N. H. She is about five feet and two inches in height, her hair and eyes are dark and when she left her home she wore a black dress.

MOTORCYCLE CLUB

The Spindle City Motorcycle club held a well attended and successful clambake at their camp in Billerica on the shores of the Concord river Sunday. The menu was an excellent one, it having been prepared by the ladies' auxiliary of the club under the direction of Harry Ohlson.

Following the dinner a business meeting was held and the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, Morton Loud; past president, Alfred Gustafson; vice presidents, Henry Bakewell, James Blackstock and Harry Ohlson; financial secretary and treasurer, Albert Lundgren; recording secretary, Alfred Gustafson; janitor, George Wendon.

WOULD PUNISH COMMANDER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The German embassy does not believe the evidence will show the pledges given to the United States have been violated. It is said at the embassy, however, that if a commander of a submarine has violated or exceeded his orders, his action would be promptly met with a severe punishment.

Officials of the embassy feel that Consul Frost's despatch yesterday saying the Marina had been shelled, indicated that the vessel was trying to escape.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

LONDON, Oct. 31, 11.57.—A private telegram received today from Crookhaven by Robert P. Skinner, American consul-general, says that among the survivors from the Marina who were landed at Crookhaven are 16 Americans. One of them is Frank Howard Smith, a veterinary surgeon.

According to the telegram received by Mr. Skinner, survivors report that two boats containing 63 men left the Marina at the same time and have not been accounted for. (This telegram evidently was sent before news had been received that 52 more survivors had landed at Castletown.) The weather was unusually severe at the time the Marina was sunk and has been since then.

The Marina was struck amidships. A terrific explosion occurred on the starboard side. The second torpedo struck the bow and the steamship went down almost immediately in two parts. It is reported seven men were killed while attempting to get into boats.

Sailors say the wake of a torpedo according to these advices and until the ship was struck thought it was a fish.

SANK WITHIN TEN MINUTES

LONDON, Oct. 31, 11.47 a. m.—The British steamship Marina sank within ten minutes after being torpedoed, Wesley Frost, American consul at Queenstown, reported to the American embassy today. He said survivors state the vessel was torpedoed without warning.

PRES. WILSON AWAITS FACTS

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 31.—President Wilson this morning was still without such definite information concerning the submarine attacks on vessels carrying Americans yesterday to enable him to reach a conclusion. It was said here that he had given directions that as soon as conclusive facts were gathered by the state department they should be forwarded to him.

LONDON PAPERS COMMENT

LONDON, Oct. 31—Basing their comments on the earlier news that a large number of Americans lost their lives when the British steamer Marina was sunk by a German submarine, the London evening newspapers are again asking what the United States government will do.

The Westminster Gazette, however, says:

"We are as yet without information as to the status of the Marina and the precise nature of the attack. In the absence of such information it would hardly be profitable to discuss questions which the sinking of the Marina, may or not raise."

ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES

Frank G. McGuinness and Charles Bond of Charlestown, who were arrested yesterday in Billerica, were taken to Somerville today, charged with the larceny of an automobile from George V. Mead several weeks ago. McGuinness and Bond were arrested by Officers O'Brien and Livingston of Billerica near Pinehurst park. The officers were searching for chicken thieves and came upon the two young men who acted in a suspicious manner. One of the men had a newspaper clipping in his pocket describing the theft of the Mead car. They were both locked up in the Billerica town hall and held for the Somerville police.

REPUDIATES STATEMENT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 31.—Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commission, formally repudiated before the Mexican-American joint commission today the statement issued at Washington by George Edmunds and credited to the chairman, in which American officials were criticised for laxity in the enforcement of the law against smuggling.

Mr. Cabrera's repudiation and his explanation of the circumstances leading to the publication of the statement was made voluntarily, the American commissioners not having referred to the publication of the statement.

MR. MANSFIELD ATTACKS M'CALL

Glad Opponent Has Recovered — May Now Answer Questions

Honorable Frederick W. Mansfield, the democratic candidate for governor, took part in one of the most enthusiastic political rallies that has ever been held around Greater Boston last night. The affair took place at the Star theatre, Dedham, at which place Mr. Mansfield was the first and principle speaker. Leaving Dedham, Mr. Mansfield and a corps of other speakers went to Revere, Chelsea, Everett, Melrose and Malden.

Mr. Mansfield aroused his audience at each of these places to a high pitch of enthusiasm by his frequent references to the republican administration and cited a dozen instances of inefficiency. He said in part:

"I propose to show through these exposures, that Governor McCall in his administration of the state's affairs, has been weak and inefficient; that he has brought the powerful influence of the governor's office to the constant help of the corporations and vested interests, notably the Boston Elevated Street Railway, and that he has been surrounded by office-pedlers who have forced him into such a state of abject submission, that his appointments have been the worst in the entire history of the state."

Mr. Mansfield explained that because of Governor McCall's illness he had refrained from attacking the "apparent weaknesses" of his administration but now that the governor is well enough to return to the stump, "I intend to point out that here in Massachusetts, just as he had done for twenty years in congress, Governor McCall has been absolutely responsive to the will of his corporation friends."

Mr. Mansfield tonight, in his first "exposure," devoted his talk to Governor McCall's attitude on the telephone situation, saying:

"I regret the illness of Governor McCall and I am glad he has recovered. Now that the governor is better, and is able to answer for himself, I propose to expose the weakness of his administration. I should be glad to discuss them from the same platform with him, in order that he may make his answer to the same audience that I address.

"Gov. McCall has been weak and vacillating. When he joined with certain progressives in a promise to secure real, human legislation from that lobby, controlled legislature on Beacon Hill, I determined to watch his record closely, for it seemed strange to me that a man who for twenty years had been the railroad representative at congress could shift his course so suddenly.

"I welcomed the change in Governor McCall, but the change came only in words. He promised well. He did not keep his promise.

"His return to his old, reactionary self dates from the day that Murray Crane persuaded him to renounce Charles Sumner Bird and the Young Guard candidates for the Chicago convention.

"Since that day, he has yielded to the corporations, the vested interests and the office-pedlers, who adorn his private staff in such imposing array.

"Let me tell you the history of the telephone situation on Beacon Hill, to prove that Governor McCall is not alive to his duties, when such duties conflict with the private interests of corporation.

"The telephone rates are higher in Massachusetts than in any other section of the United States. The service is deplorable, not through the fault of the employes, but through the admitted fault of the officials.

"An investigation in New York saved the people of that city $3,000,000 a year in their telephone rates.

"The situation was so much worse in Massachusetts that Governor Walsh, in an official message to the legislature, demanded an investigation of the telephone rates. He felt, as I do, that an investigation would result in reduced rates and improved service.

"Through the operations of Frank Dickerman and other telephone lobbyists, Governor Walsh's bill was killed.

"Did Governor McCall recommend an investigation of telephone rates in his inaugural message? He did not. But a bill was introduced and the chairman of the Massachusetts public service commission, at a hearing on the bill before the committee on mercantile affairs at the state house, declared that it was the imperative duty of the legislature to provide for that investigation.

"The bill was killed. Let me tell you something about how it was done.

"The telephone company said, in substance, to the legislature, 'Don't investigate us this year. Our business is too big now. Let's wait until the rush is over. Do it next year.'

"And while this was going on, Governor McCall was using the influence of his office to abolish the public service commission. He had actually recommended it in his inaugural message. And why?

"Because the telephone company did not want to be investigated while Joseph B. Eastman and men of his type were on the public service commission. They did not want Mr. Eastman and men of his ability investigating their rates, their service and their financial affairs.

"They expected that the public service commission was going to be abolished and that they would be investigated next year by the new public service commission appointed by Mr. McCall.

"Public indignation was so aroused that Gov. McCall, who doubtlessly had been lead into this matter by the persuasive influence by the men who surround him, was literally forced by the weight of public opinion to abandon his effort to oust the public service commission. But the incident serves to illustrate fully that his personal bent is toward the corporation and not toward the common people of this state.

"I have held public office, and as I appreciate the problems that confront a man in public life, I realize it would be neither just nor fair for me to criticize the present chief executive unless I tell what I would have done if I were in his place.

"If I were governor of Massachusetts I would have kept the legislature in session until they provided for an investigation of telephone rates and service.

"If I am elected governor, I shall send a message to the legislature recommending an investigation of rates and service.

"The public service commission should be elected by the people but if it remains as an appointive commission, I will appoint or re-appoint to the public service commission, the kind of men who will properly and honorably investigate telephone rates and service in the interest of telephone users."

Tomorrow Mr. Mansfield will hold a noon-day rally at 12.30 at the Dennison Manufacturing Co., Framingham, and at 1 o'clock will hold a rally at the Long shoe shop in Framingham.

ANDREW CARNEGIE BUYS ESTATE IN LENOX

LENOX, Oct. 31.—Andrew Carnegie of New York has purchased the Shadow Brook estate, noted as one of the most beautiful and costly private residences in the country, and will occupy it as a summer home. The deal is said to involve more than $100,000.

The estate, which was sold to the steel king Samuel P. Shotter of Savannah, Ga., was built 20 years ago by the late Anson Phelps Stokes of New York.

It is the second largest private residence in America, being surpassed only by George Vanderbilt's Biltmore. It is situated on a beautiful slope and commands a view of the surrounding country that is without equal in the Berkshires.

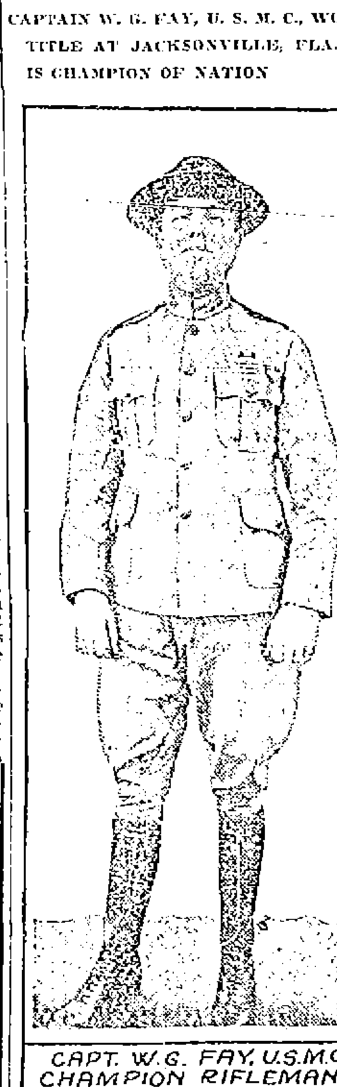

For size and elegance and massiveness of construction as well as beauty of natural surroundings, the residence has long been a potent attraction to students and lovers of perfect architecture. The house itself, which contains 100 rooms, is of old English architecture, the walls of the first floor and the towers being of marble, the second and third floors of stucco and timber.

It has a frontage of more than 400 feet, facing the waters of Stockbridge bowl. The entrance to the grounds is through a rough stone porter's lodge, covered with creeping vines. Within a short distance are the ruins of the old Nathaniel Hawthorne cottage.

A carriage road from the lodge leads through a stretch of shrubbery and floral decoration to the rear of the mansion, where there is a greenhouse, tennis courts and a reservoir fed by springs.

SCENE FROM KATHERINE DANA'S FISHER FOLKS APPEARING AT B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE ALL THIS WEEK

SLIP COVERS FOR FURNITURE

"Hasn't auntie pretty slip covers for her chairs?" exclaimed Marjorie as she interrupted Marie putting fresh covers over the furniture in the drawing room. "How I wish I could make some," she concluded.

"It is very easy, I am sure you could," returned Marie. "They are charming in flowers and sprigs and pin striped and summery freshness. And the most wonderful thing about them is that they are soft on the wrong side, so that they won't scratch the furniture.

"First of all they virtually are made on the furniture. A piece of the material is pinned on the part of the chair one has decided to start with, and after it is carefully fitted, it is cut the shape, leaving plenty of allowance for seams. In this way one should carefully do the whole chair, sewing the various pieces together as one gets them cut and trying on many times, in order to insure a perfect fit. Sometimes it is found easier to do all the basting before any part is removed; for others working with preliminary patterns may seem easier.

"The strip which runs from the extreme top of the chair back down to the seat, across the seat and on down to the required length, should be cut lengthwise of the goods without piecing. Before cutting, it should be tucked well into the crease between the seat and the back. The narrow fronts of the arms are cut out separately.

"The fasteners are balls and sockets, or buttons and buttonholes or in some instances, little bows.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

KEITH'S THEATRE

To pick the headliner at the B. F. Keith theatre this week is not easy. There is so much that is good, and so much that is novel and so much that is really and truly comic—but let us take Katherine Dana's Fisher Folks for a beginning. Their offering is "Summer Visitors" and it has been staged in a stageland corner of quaint old Provincetown. When the curtain goes up a group of fisher lads and lasses are seen resting on the shore. It is moonlight on the sea, and they are singing a soft crooning melody. Soon come visitors—a fashionable lady with a lovely voice and a newly wedded pair that furnish the comedy. The songs are of the old heart throb variety and there are some unique specialties. One of the fisher boys sings a song in which the imaginative can hear the booming of the distress guns, and there are some chorus offerings that recall the days of real music in vaudeville. Night falls and again the fisher folk sing while far away out at sea the red and white lights of a tiny lighthouse flash warningly. If you want to recall happy vacation memories at the shore, be sure to see those clever and fascinating fisher folks. It is an omission that their names are not on the program as they deserve individual mention.

John and Mae Burke are with us again. You know John, don't you? He has faltering legs in the act—an old rose nose and a squeaky little voice like a chicken a week old. Once the general said to him "You're a Union soldier; you belong to the Union; you've fought for the Union—take your union suit and go to bed." That's John. He is a burlesque on a soldier all the way up—but in a legitimate way. Before the close of the act he plays a piano or what is left of it, for he pulls it to pieces even going so far as to pull out a bunch of keys. Mae Burke is some von Hindenburg. Her chief contribution to the act is her figure—and she contributes largely.

A barrel full of wholesome fun, shot through with genuine wit—that's Walsh Lynch and Co. in "Along the Erie." It is a rural comedy in which the lead is taken by Billy Walsh who as Jimmie Hicke introduces the middle west to the slang of Broadway. Frank E. Lynch takes two parts and he is admirable in each. His singing of "Rural Free Delivery" has the flavor of Yankee folk humor, and the interest is sustained throughout. It would be interesting to know how many firms are on Billy Walsh's royalty list. He mentions about a score of well advertised articles in his talk-alogues, and incidentally he mentions our Sunday hotels, Spalding park and other things of local interest. Billy and Frank are well mated to chase the glooms.

Quaint humor with an undercurrent of sadness and an accompaniment of twangling strings is in the musical offering of The Leightons in "The Party of the Second Part." It is a pleasing act winding up to a finale in which both sit on a trunk and sing Hawaiian music. The story of one domestic tragedy is stopped in its gruesome stages, and 'tis really a pity. There would be a great moral in it for frivolous wives who might be tempted to entertain company while their husbands are out digging clams.

Eugenia Le Blanc is plump and athletic, a combination all the more delightful for its rarity. She is six girls in one, and all of them professional entertainers. Her dances are of the highest order, and she changes from the grotesque to the beautifully spectacular in a jiffy. Now she is a rollicking Dutch girl, just a wee bit bow-legged, and in half a minute she is a peacock princess from the Ballet Russe. And what is more important—she puts all of her act over with a capital O.

Can it be that the war has scared the DeBourg sisters over here? They are French in the conventional way, with tons of temperament to spare, and they are vera vera clever. Mesdames have their hair built up on a trellis and they had appointments with an American dentist in Paris before touring, but the act's the thing after all. The junior Mme. De Bourg can make the "hankercher" disassapere in chic fashion, and at the close of the act she makes a pincushion out of her fond sister—only she uses swords.

The Gausch sisters are athletic in the Roman athlete way but they are pretty and feminine while doing difficult stunts. They give a good ending to an excellent bill. The pictures are interesting and up to the minute. All in all it is a show well worth seeing.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Never Say Die," William H. Post's great comedy success, was presented yesterday afternoon and evening by the Emerson Players before large and appreciative audiences at the Opera House. This piece, made famous by such actors as William Collier, Nat Goodwin and others, had the phenomenal record run of seven months in New York city, three months in Chicago, 11 months in London, six months in Australia and for three seasons was a prime favorite on the tour of both continents.

This comedy is one of the funniest that has been staged for years, it being bright and breezy and it is a case of laugh from the time the curtain rises on the first act until the end of the performance. Inasmuch as "Never Say Die" is well known to the theatre-going public and the ability of the Emerson Players in portraying plays the attendances during the week bid fair to be along the record-breaking line.

The particular shining lights in the interpretion of the comedy are Mr. Ivan Miller and Miss Harriet Duke.

The story of the play concerns a young man who inherited a fortune, but he is told, after being examined by a number of physicians, that he is to die within a month.

He meets a former college friend of his and learns that the latter is to be married within a year if able to secure sufficient funds to carry out the plans of the bride-elect. "Dionysius Woodbury," the man who acquired the fortune and is scheduled to die at the end of the month suggests to his friend that he marry the girl and when he dies the wife will have enough of money to carry out her project.

The marriage takes place, but after four weeks have passed Woodbury is still alive and very active for a near-dead man. Prior to the announcement of his short time to live Woodbury had been dieting himself, but after living for sometime after the date set for his demise by the physicians he starts to indulge in all kinds of food, anything that appeals to him and as a result he becomes stronger.

Upon returning home after a year, the young woman finds that her lover has been untrue to her and having fallen deeply in love with her husband who she expects to die, everything turns out satisfactory to the couple.

Ivan Miller has a splendid opportunity to display his talent as a comedian in portraying the part of "Woodbury," the millionaire who is to live but a month. His way of doing things convulses the audience with laughter.

Miss Harriet Duke, who has taken the place of Miss Inez Ragan, as leading lady of the company, made a splendid "Violet Stevens," the young woman who marries "Woodbury" with the understanding that he is to live but a short time. Miss Rose Morison is good as "Violet's" mother and the other members of the cast carry their parts in a manner which reflects much credit on the company.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Many pleasant surprises were enjoyed by the patrons who crowded the Merrimack Square theatre yesterday afternoon and evening. "The Shine Girl" with Gladys Hulette in the leading role was a pleasant surprise to all as no one dreamed of ever seeing a play so interesting, so elaborate and so well acted as was this five act drama which was shown yesterday and which will also be shown today and tomorrow at all performances. The little shine girl is a slum philosopher who, by her work which is to gladden the hearts of others radiates joy and happiness to all who come in contact with her. Miss Hulette is a distinguished horsewoman and when she rides down an almost impossible cliff to save a little child she furnishes a thrill, the like and equal of which is never attained in motion pictures. In the story the little girl steals a loaf of bread for a hungry friend. She is caught. A kind young judge of the children's court makes her see that she should not take what does not belong to her. Later he is about to run away with another man's wife. She then asks him if he meant what he said about stealing. What can he answer. Yes, indeed, "The Shine Girl" is replete with heart interest.

The captivating Ann Pennington added another wreath of laurels to herself when she appeared at this theatre yesterday in "The Rainbow Princess," a five act picture of circus life. An entire circus was used in this play to bring out the realistic effect. The play is a strong drama, dealing with the fortunes of a little circus dancer who dances her way to success and into the hearts of old Judge Warren and his son.

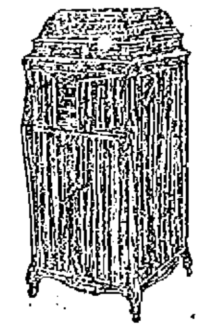

The motion pictures of the Columbus Day parade recently held in Lowell, proved to be a big hit. As they were shown, in different parts of the theatre could be heard remarks to the effect that somebody saw their picture or that of a friend of theirs. These pictures as well as those above mentioned will be shown today and tomorrow.

ROYAL THEATRE

The extra charge of five cents admission over the regular prices, did not deter the crowd at the Royal theatre yesterday, who witnessed the premiere of "How Britain Prepared," in Lowell. These films, which are quite a celebrity by the way, attracted considerable notice while at the Shubert, in Boston, and the audiences which filled the theatre to capacity yesterday, were well aware of the nature of these fine, authentic portraits of conditions in England during wartime. It is not strange that the Royal raised the prices, considering the charge of admission, which Boston audiences gladly paid for the very same show. The films were not disappointing, and another big rush is expected today—so come early in order to secure seating accommodations.

OWL THEATRE

Francis Bushman and Beverly Bayne, the recognized sovereigns of the screen, and the most popular co-stars now in motion pictures will again be seen at the Owl theatre this afternoon and evening in the new Metro release, "In the Diplomatic Service." This new photoplay is considered one of the most powerful ever released from the Metro studios, and it tells a vivid story of love and international politics, and the social life of the nation's capital. A big surrounding program of the latest photoplays will also be shown.

WALSH—LYNCH & CO., in "ALONG THE ERIE"

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

While standing at Tower's corner with a friend, an old timer, on Saturday, the latter looking across at the Old Farragut House exclaimed: "If the hotel keepers of today ran their places like "Joe" Purcell used to conduct the Farragut House years ago, there'd be no trouble or complaint about conditions in the hotels on Sunday."

And by a singular coincidence, as I learned later, my friend made the statement on the 25th anniversary of the death of the late "Joe" Purcell—October 28, 1891.

In the old days the Farragut House was daily crowded with traveling men and when the Opera House opened it was the headquarters of all theatrical stars that came to Lowell, while before the coming of the Opera House it accommodated many of the stars who came to old Music Hall. On the registers of the Farragut House might be found distinguished names by the hundred. Mr. Purcell's family resided at the hotel, one of their number being the present register of deeds, William C. Purcell, and hence the hostelry was conducted on the highest plane, and never were any complaints made concerning it. It was also the scene of many notable banquets in the past.

The Sun of quarter of a century ago had the following account of the death of "Joe" Purcell:

"On Wednesday evening the many friends of Joseph W. Purcell, proprietor of the Farragut House, were shocked to learn that he had departed from this life, though his death was not unexpected by his family as he had been ill for eight weeks.

"Mr. Purcell's death will be widely mourned for he was very popular on account of his genial manner and cheerfulness of disposition while he was ever ready to succor a friend in distress. Mr. Purcell was born in England and was but 51 years of age, although he appeared somewhat older. When but six years of age he came to this country with his parents and settled in Suncook, N. H., where he remained for a short time before coming to Lowell. He entered the employment of James Meadowcroft, bolt manufacturer in this city, but remained at that business only a short time when he accepted a more lucrative position with the J. C. Ayer Co., for whom he went to Canada to put the company's medicine in the British provinces, a custom then adopted to avoid the payment of duty on the exported product.

"At the outbreak of the Civil war, although holding a good position with the Ayer company, Mr. Purcell returned to the states and enlisted in the navy. He served on the gunboats 'Lockwood' and 'Stars and Stripes' and was six months on the "Potomac" participating in the first battles that were won by the Union forces in North Carolina. He prided himself on having been aboard the first boat that went ashore there under Admiral Farragut. After the two years for which he had enlisted had expired he returned home but soon enlisted for three years and on his next campaign he was on the flagship 'Colorado' and went to the Mediterranean. While there he participated in the international boat race in which the 'Colorado' was the winner although she competed under a great disadvantage. In naval parlance, while on his boat he was captain of the top and cockswain of the commodore's gig. After spending six years in the navy he received an honorable discharge and returned to Lowell and became engaged in business. He opened the Farragut House in 1856 and was soon obliged to enlarge that hostelry. He was a member of Post 12, G.A.R., the Elks and several charitable organizations."

Thus it will be noted how the Farragut house received its name. It might be added that as Mr. Purcell conducted his hotel business on a high and exemplary plane, so has his son conducted the affairs of the office of register of deeds.

Fred N. Wier

Frederick N. Wier, the well known attorney, of the firm of Trull & Wier, entered politics just quarter of a century ago and was elected to the legislature on the republican ticket from the old 22nd representative district, which included Centralville. Today Frederick N. Wier, "having matured," is a staunch supporter of Woodrow Wilson for president. In the contest of quarter of a century ago Mr. Wier, the republican candidate, received 906 votes, Edward Greenhalge, democrat, 641, and J. I. Brown, prohibitionist, 44. Speaking of prohibition candidates, a slimly attended prohibition rally was held in front of city hall a few days ago, and in the evening a number of men were discussing politics in front of The Sun building, when one of them asked: "I wonder if there was anyone up to hear the prohibition speakers this afternoon?"

"Yes, there were Bob Paradis, Willis Bean and Joe Cronin of the Courier-Citizen, Harry Howe and a few other Salvation Army men," replied another of the party.

French-American Democrats

It would appear from the columns of The Sun of quarter of a century ago that the French-American voters of the city were mostly democrats at that time, as would be indicated by the following editorial paragraph that appeared in The Sun immediately after the state election:

"In ward 5 the democrats polled over 100 plurality in the election which indicates that the French vote there is fast increasing. The new French democratic club is doing good work, and in a year or two will add many more voters to the list in that ward."

Ward 5 quarter of a century ago included practically all of the present ward 7 and Little Canada. For many years it was republican. Of the French Democratic club of quarter of a century ago The Sun had the following:

"The recently organized French Democratic club held a ratification meeting in its hall, on Wednesday evening, and great enthusiasm was manifest as the result of the election. The hall was tastefully decorated while the portrait of Gov. Russell was conspicuously displayed amid the folds of the American flag. The Papal Zouaves attended the meeting in a body. Benjamin Lenthier of Le National, who has done such excellent work in the campaign called to order and after congratulating all present upon the fact that the French vote of the state was cast solidly for Gov. Russell, the democratic candidate, proposed a toast to the governor. J. E. Guillet responded ably. Gov. Flower's health was next toasted, Mr. Lenthier responding in behalf of the governor of New York. L. Gallairdet spoke for the club and ridiculed the contentions of a local French paper that any large percentage of the French voters of Lowell were republicans.

"John C. King of the democratic headquarters congratulated the French-Americans for their efforts in behalf of the democratic party. Hon. John J. Donovan made an address in which he referred to the great triumph of labor in the election of Russell; the necessity of naturalization and the thoughtful consideration of everyone understanding the principles at issue before casting a vote for a party which might advocate measures diametrically opposed to the prosperity of the people. Mr. Donovan referred to the exploration and the settlement of America, and the discovery of the Merrimack river before the settlement of Jamestown or the waters of Plymouth bay were disturbed by the Mayflower, as well as the important part taken by the French in the Revolutionary war. He impressed upon his hearers the necessity of naturalization."

Lowell Opera Company

Do you remember the Lowell Opera company of merry and melodious memory. They opened up quarter of a century ago with a successful production of "Iolanthe," and their debut was reported by the old Sun as follows:

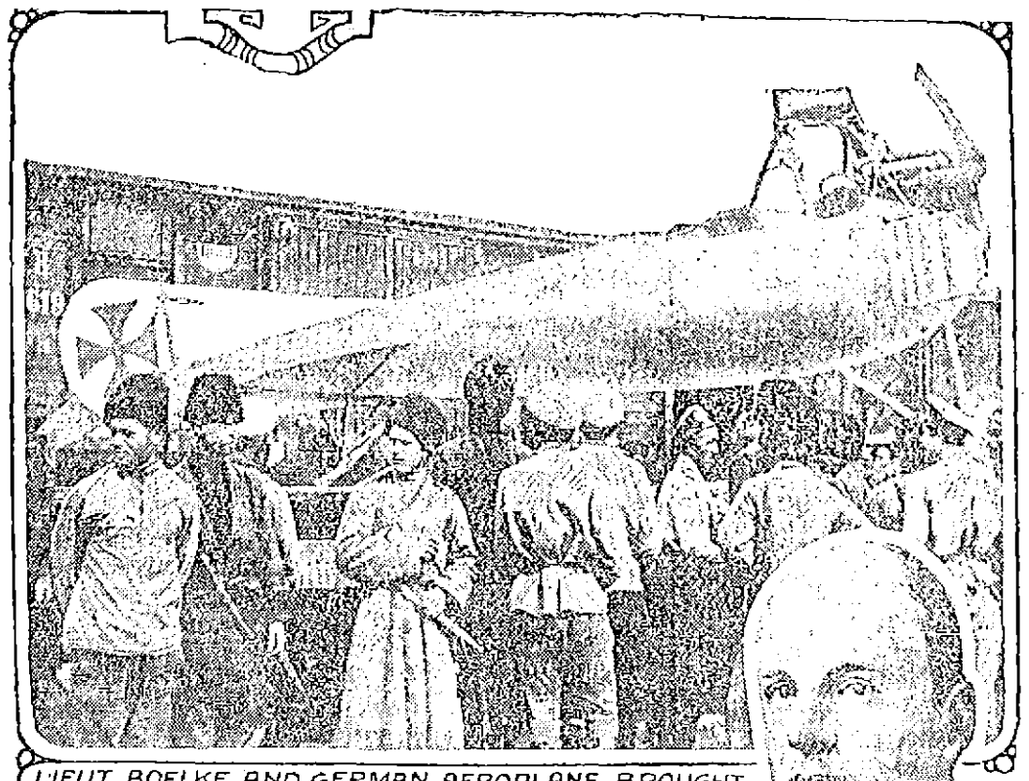

"The Lowell Opera company presented Gilbert & Sullivan's opera "Iolanthe" in the Opera House, Wednesday evening, to a large and appreciative audience. The performance was highly creditable to the company and highly pleasing to the audience; the costumes were rich and attractive while the acting and singing generally were as good as could be expected from an amateur company. The music of this opera is rather tame but the leading roles were finely interpreted.

"Mr. George Burns, as an Arcadian shepherd played the part of the lover very acceptably and sang well, as he always does, his fine rich baritone voice being heard to advantage in several solos and duets. Miss Lizzie McLaughlin made a charming Phyllis and sang with vim and expression. David P. Martin as the Lord Chancellor showed his ability as a comedian, and sang with a dash and abandon well befitting the moods of the character assumed. His topical verses introduced into the song: "Said I to Myself, Said I," were a surprise to the audience and made a decided hit. Mr. T. F. Molloy sang in good voice and as Earl Tolollal did some excellent vocal work. Mr. D. S. O'Brien played the role of the Earl of Montararat with skill and ability; Miss Mary E. Brady made a delightful queen of the fairies, delivering her lines with ease and grace, while Mary McLaughlin was equally successful as Iolanthe. Mr. A. L. Kerr impersonated Private Wells in admirable manner and Misses Bella Cook, Mabel Ware and Mamie Hill were the leading fairies. The chorus comprised many accomplished singers and did fine work, taking part with spirit and precision rarely equalled on such an occasion. In fine, the company throughout the whole performance showed the result of careful and well directed training. The names of the members of the chorus are as follows: James A. Murphy, John Boyd, David A. McHugh, George Sturtevant, Bert Stevenson, Peter Clune, Henry Reynolds, Andrew Haley, John McMahon, Walter Knapp, James Haley, P. A. Corcoran, George Wilkins, Frank Fagan, George Raynes, Mrs. George Wilkins and Mrs. Jessie Wilman, Misses Mabel Ware, Lilla Cook, Minnie Hill, Susie Cook, Barbara Carkill, Christina Kenny, Maggie McCaffery, Katie McCaffery, Mary Mullin, Katie Corcoran, Nano Gallagher, Louise McLaughlin, Katie Rafferty.

"Les Miserables showed their appreciation of Mr. Molloy's efforts by presenting him a beautiful floral harp inscribed with the name of the club and Misses Lizzie and Mary McLaughlin. Miss Brady and Miss Ware received a handsome bouquet each. The company won the hearty applause of the audience for uniformly good, rather than occasionally brilliant work."

THE OLD TIMER.

LIEUT. BOELKE AND GERMAN AEROPLANE BROUGHT DOWN IN RUSSIA

Captain Boelke, the famous German aviator and one of Germany's most popular war heroes, in the course of an air flight came into collision with another aeroplane and was killed, according to a Berlin dispatch received in London by way of Amsterdam. His machine landed within the German lines. The day before Captain Boelke had shot down his fortieth aeroplane.

A Paris newspaper on Oct. 18 reported that Boelke had been severely wounded by a shell from a French anti-aircraft gun. Since then, however, his name has been mentioned in the German official statements.

Captain Boelke was the most spectacular figure among all the thousands of aviators flying at the front in Europe. He seemed to bear a charmed life, and as recently as September it was reported that he had escaped almost certain death five different times when his aeroplanes were practically shot from under him.

In June it was reported that he had been killed in an air battle with Roger Ribiers, a French aviator, over the Verdun battlefield. This report was corrected a few days later by Victor Chapman, the New York aviator who recently lost his life while flying with the Franco-American Flying corps.

Boelke is shown in the pictures with a German aeroplane brought down in Russia. He started in the Imperial Flying corps as an observer, later becoming a pilot. His steady eye, sure nerves and courage soon sent him to the fighting detachment of his service, where his duties were to meet and fight off the French and English battleplanes and reconnaissance machines. In this he was more successful than any other aviator. He always flew alone, managing his machine and its gun by himself.

Boelke was a native of Dessau, and took up aviation in peace times as a sport. When he was called out by the war he entered the flying service. He had filled a very large place in Germany's war imagination, and his death has brought universal grief to all parts of the empire. The emperor and the military authorities had singled out Boelke many times for recognition and reward. He wore the iron cross.

WOMEN OF KAMERUN

Members of Middlesex Women's Club Hear Miss Jean Kenyon Mackenzie In Interesting Story

The Middlesex Women's club felt a little disappointed yesterday afternoon at the failure of Maud Howe Elliott to keep her lecture appointment. Mrs. Elliott was out campaigning somewhere in the west and instead the club heard a simple talk on "The Women of the Kamerun" by Miss Jean Kenyon Mackenzie, a noted author and missionary. The disappointment was only prefatory, however, for in the recital of the pitiful tragedies of the banks of the Congo, all selfish feelings and regrets must have been forgotten.

The lecturer described the scene of her labors in the "cellars of the forest." In the Kamerun, the trees are so dense and tall that one does not know of the gorgeous flowers on the roof unless some vivid blossom falls from on high. Up there on the top of the trees are the monkeys and the beautiful birds, but down in the dark live the people—the dominant men and the tragic women who are bought and sold from childhood to old age. The missionaries made a clearing and let the sunshine in—but what a life for a sensitive woman who sees in the women of the Kamerun her sisters, suffering all the pangs that women have suffered since time immemorial!

The women of the Kamerun are very simple, said the lecturer. All their life is bound up in their hut, the spring from which they draw water and their garden. They have their innate modesty and their conventions. They may say and do things which American women would regard as vulgar, but they avoid subjects which are commonly talked about in the best society. The women of the Congo have their own code and their own conventions. Yet, they are mostly unmoral—being bought and sold at the will of their dusky lords. The little settlements are threaded on the trails like beads on a string, and the women are bartered and traded between the tribes. Miss Mackenzie pictured an African village, with the leaves of the palms waving above and the smoke wreathing itself over all. The head man sits before his door and looks down his village. He knows everything about his women, for generally he has bought them all. You may come upon this dignitary cleaning the streets in front of his dwelling. He has many women to do it for him, but it is a badge of his independence.

The pathos of woman's life in the Kamerun was condensed in the story of the woman whom the lecturer met walking along silently with her hands on her head—ancient symbol of despair. She had had a son in the second marriage back and he was ill and in need of her but her present husband would not let her go. It takes a great deal of courage for one of these to be a Christian. First of all she confesses all her wrong-doing to her husband and he usually beats her soundly. One Christian woman came to the speaker and told how in a dream she had seen a baby she had in a distant village by a previous marriage. She asked if her religion would permit her to run away to him. "When I speak of the troubles of women to these," she said, "their faces get fixed in a tragic way. They understand too well. To many the story of Christ comes as a great solace. He is the 'Child of the Sister' and He Consoles them for the children who die, the children who never come, the taunts of rivals and the gossip of merciless primitive villages."

ORDERS REPRISAL UPON RUSSIAN PRISONERS

ACTION OF GERMANY PENDING RUSSIA'S ACCEPTANCE OF GERMAN DEMANDS

BERLIN, Oct. 31, by wireless to Sayville—Measures of reprisal upon Russian prisoners have been ordered by the German government pending the Russian government's acceptance of German demands for improving treatment of German prisoners of war in Russia, according to the semi-official North German Gazette.

This newspaper states that the German government asked of the Russian government that it put an end to conditions which were causing suffering to German prisoners of war and that the period given by the German government for compliance having elapsed without a satisfactory answer from Russia, the German government has ordered reprisals. To this end, it is stated, a number of commissioned officers belonging to crack Russian regiments have been transferred to a special camp where the discipline is especially severe and where they will remain until the Russian government complies with the German request.

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT WITHDRAWS DEMAND

HAD REQUESTED BANKS USING WIRELESS TO FILE COPIES OF SECRET CIPHERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The navy department, it was announced today, has withdrawn its demand that banks using the wireless to send messages to Europe shall file with the government consor copies of their secret ciphers to be used for testing messages addressed by the banks to their foreign correspondents.

Since the establishment of the wireless censorship the banks have willingly given the government copies of their codes but they had not been required to supply the "key" to the signature which is the sole test of the authenticity of the messages. If that cipher became known bankers said messages could be sent to any part of the world instructing the recipient to pay out money and there would be no way of preventing the fraud.

When this was explained to the navy department officials, they decided to accept the suggestion that the banks instead of filing the test words should merely give the wireless censors affidavits to the effect that the messages they sent contained no objectionable matter. The banks also agreed to preface the test word or figures with the notation "test."

SLEEPYTIME TALES

HOW GRACE NAMED THE FISH

Once upon a time the twins had found a little fish and had put it in a hollow in a rock with cool salt water, and they fed and called it their own. Anita thought it should have a name and Baby Grace said the "sish" should also. Uncle Frank said Sish was a good name for it and so the fish was named Sish.

The rock that it lived in was near enough for the tide to splash in fresh water but not near enough to carry it off. Each morning it was fed and soon it was quite tame and would eat the bugs Thurston brought it, out of his hand. The children had had their pet nearly a month and Uncle Frank was making a box for them so they could take it home with them to their city home.

One day, however, it began to rain and rain, and that night the waves came up on the beach higher than ever before and when the twins went down the next morning to see their pet they found that the tide had come up and washed their pet out of its home and into the sea. They all felt so sorry they didn't know what to do, and even Thurston wiped his eyes with the back of his hand and said, "It was a nice pet," and Anita said she would rather have Sish for a pet then some of her dolls.

It seemed lonesome without their pet and when their grandfather came home at night they told him all about it and he said it was too bad and went with them down to the beach to see the empty place in the rocks.

The next night when grandfather came home he had something in his hand which he was carrying very, very carefully. When he undid the paper there were three goldfish in a large glass bowl, two gold and black for the twins and one all gold for Baby Grace.

How the children danced around and clapped their hands with joy, but, said Thurston, "We'll keep them in the bowl and never let them out; then we can't lose them," and they never did.

Mother Praises Remedy That Relieved Her Baby

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Is a Dependable Family Laxative.

Nearly all the sickness incident to a baby's life is due to constipation, or inaction of the bowels. At the first indication of irregularity in this important function, relief should be afforded promptly. A mild laxative should be administered to gently carry off the congested waste and leave the stomach and bowels free to perform their allotted tasks.

Of the various remedies recommended to relieve constipation, the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, as prescribed by Dr. W. B. Caldwell and sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the most effective. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant to the taste, mild and gentle in action, and quickly brings the desired relief in an easy, natural manner.

Mrs. C. J. Douglas, Mason, Ill., writes that she cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a dependable family laxative. Little Mary Eva had been badly constipated until they tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which brought the first natural relief the child had had in two weeks.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere and costs only fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

DUFFY'S REPUTATION FOR RELIABILITY

cannot be usurped by "something just as good." If a dealer considers an imitation of Duffy's "just as good," why does he attempt to sell it to you? He knows imitations are not "just as good" as which has been a standard article of commerce for 60 years, for in copying the work of others there is no virtue.

When you say: "I want Duffy's;" don't let a dealer change your mind. He is trying to dispose of an inferior article at greater profit without regard for your health and well being. Because we know Duffy's Malt is made right and is the highest quality tonic stimulant it is possible to produce, we want the public to know that we are responsible for it. That's why "Duffy's Annual" is around each bottle, the "Old Chemist" trade mark is on the label and over the cork, and our name is also blown into the bottle. This is for your protection, so that you can always be sure to

"Get Duffy's and Keep Well."

Sold in Sealed Bottles Only. Beware of imitations.

NOTE Get Duffy's from your local druggist, grocer or dealer. $1.00 per bottle. If he cannot supply you, write us. Send for useful household booklet free.

BASEBALL PLAYERS IN NEW DEMANDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The official list of requests made by the Baseball Players' Fraternity to the baseball national commission and the national board for concessions to its members was outlined yesterday by President David L. Fultz of the Fraternity, as follows:

Want Full Pay

1—That clauses in baseball contracts empowering clubs to suspend without pay, after certain periods of disability, players who are injured in service, be eliminated, and that such players be entitled to full pay as long as they are held under contract.

2—That Rule 34 of the "Rules and Regulations" of the National board be amended in so far as it violates marked "First" of the fraternity agreement.

3—That minor league players receive their travelling expenses from their homes to the training camps when reporting for spring practice. (The words "travelling expenses" to include, in addition to railroad ticket, berth and meal money where either or both of the last two items are usual expenses of the trip involved.)

As to Hearings

4—That the procedure now employed by the National board in hearing players' claims presented by the fraternity be amended so that the fraternity shall receive copies of the defences interposed by the clubs and an opportunity be given it of answering such defences; that immediately upon decisions being rendered the fraternity shall be served with a copy thereof and the players' exhibits, if any, presented by the fraternity, returned to it, if requested. That the board shall enforce its award against the clubs.

In a brief supporting the fraternity's petition, President Fultz, acting for the board of directors, states in part, referring to the various requests:

"Request 1—There exists today in many of the minor league contracts, and in some of those of the American league, a clause allowing clubs to suspend without pay, a player who has been disabled on the field.

Rule Unjust

"We believe that this rule is unjust to the player, in that it deprives him of the opportunity of earning his livelihood, not because of any breach of discipline on his part, not because he has neglected in any way to do his full duty, but because he, engaged in a dangerous occupation, disregarding his own welfare in his excessive desire to win, has taken a risk in the furtherance of that desire which has brought injury upon him.

"We believe that the worst treatment a player in this situation should receive is his unconditional release, or, in other words, his discharge, if the club does not wish to pay his salary. By the clause under consideration, however, a club is allowed to retain title to the player, prevent his going to any other club and yet pay him no salary.

"Request 2—The National board, at its annual meeting in the fall of 1915, enacted a clause, designated Rule 34 of the rules and regulations of the National board, which is in direct violation of Section 1 of the fraternity agreement.

"This section permits a player who has received notice of his unconditional release to immediately negotiate for his services, so that by expiration of the release period he will have a position open for him. Rule 34 complained of takes this right away from the minor league player, thus materially lessening the value of the release notice."

FORMER HEAD OF NAT. LEAGUE IS DEAD

NICHOLAS L. YOUNG, OLD TIME PLAYER AND LEAGUE PRESIDENT, PASSED AWAY

Mr. Young had been an invalid for four years.

NAVY TEAM APPEARS STRONG; INGRAM PLAYING FINE GAME

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 31.—The Navy coaches are now a happy lot. The early showing of the team has more than come up to expectations of the handlers of the middy gridiron boys. In the recent game with Georgia university, which Annapolis won by a score of 27 to 3, the Navy team was smooth in attack and sturdy in defense. Ingram at halfback has shown up in great form in the last few games. He surely will be a factor in all the Navy games from now on and a man whom the West Pointers will have to watch in the big Army-Navy battle scheduled to be held at the Polo grounds, New York, Nov. 25.

MANY LEAGUE MATCHES ON LOCAL ALLEYS

Many interesting league matches were rolled on local alleys last evening. Three games were rolled in the Waterhead league on the Middlesex alleys and two Broadway league matches took place on the Highland alleys.

WILSON A WINNER IN WIDE STRAW VOTE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 31.—The Evening York Herald's straw vote to date shows Wilson leading Hughes in states which have 331 electoral votes. Only 266 electoral votes are necessary for election.

The states which the Herald gives to President Wilson are: Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New York, Ohio, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and all the south. Even without New York, which the president will carry by upward of 100,000, he would have 266 electoral votes.

"The drift during the week was unquestionably in the president's direction," the Herald says.

Columbus, Oct. 31.—The Evening Dispatch's poll to date: Ilson, 34,445; Hughes, 22,214.

BUFFALO, Oct. 31—The Courier's poll to date: Wilson, 10,570; Hughes, 7558.

DENNIS LEARY DEAD

Former Member of City Council and Hotel Proprietor Died Suddenly Last Evening

Dennis J. Leary, a well known resident of this city and former proprietor of the American hotel in Central street, died suddenly last night. Mr. Leary, who had been in the employ of the Bay State Street Railway Co., was on his way from the power house and in passing through Gorham street was suddenly seized with a weak spell. He fell to the sidewalk and was taken into a nearby store where restoratives were applied. Several doctors were also summoned, but he died within a few minutes of the time he was taken ill.

The deceased was for a number of years a member of the common council under the old form of government. He is survived by one son, John H.; one brother, Daniel H. Leary, and three sisters, Misses Ellen E. and Elizabeth T. Leary and Mrs. William H. Sheehan.

The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker James P. O'Donnell & Sons and today taken to his late home, 736 Broadway.

SAYS GERMANY WANTS PEACE

Berlin Paper Says, "We Want Europe to Live, Not Germany Only"

Never Hated France Want Peace of Whole Blood Stained World

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Berlin Vorwaerts, commenting on the interview with Field Marshal von Hindenburg yesterday in which he discussed many phases of the war says, according to a Berlin despatch forwarded by Amsterdam:

"He advises France to be reasonable and not to act as a further obstacle to peace. This advice will have a better chance of being heard abroad if we show ourselves reasonable, too. If we are going to drag this war on indefinitely then the whole of Europe will bleed to death and America and the colored races would be our heirs. But we want Europe to live, not Germany only, but all the nations. We want France to live. We see her now bleeding white, but we have never hated her. We want peace also for England and Russia, peace for the whole blood stained world."

STATE OF VIRGINIA "DRY" AFTER TODAY

NEW LAW GOES INTO EFFECT AT MIDNIGHT—800 SALOONS WILL CLOSE

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 31.—This was the last day on which intoxicating beverages may be sold legally in Virginia. At midnight tonight the new prohibition law goes into effect and about 800 saloons in the state will have closed their doors for the last time.

Reports from all parts of the state today told of large quantities of liquor being stored away in the homes of citizens in anticipation of a dry state. In this city thousands of gallons are said to have been delivered to private homes.

The law stipulates that a person may order from another state but one quart of whiskey per month, three gallons of beer or one gallon of wine. This right remains to be tested in the courts.

NOTED REPUBLICANS ARE OUT FOR WILSON

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—An instance of how the tide is turning to President Wilson in Pennsylvania is furnished by the announcement just made by two prominent republicans here of their endorsement of President Wilson's policies. The new supporters of the president are Adolph Marcus, a leading wholesale merchant, and John M. Harris, a well known member of the bar, who has frequently been a campaign speaker for the republicans.

"Wilson has been a wonderful president and I shall vote for him," says Mr. Marcus. "He has been the man needed in such a critical time. As a business man I know that this tariff talk is all nonsense. It is silly to talk about a high tariff when there will be no need of a tariff again for 40 years. Our country is growing so fast in population that we can now use everything we make here. Europe will need everything it can make, too, so why talk about a condition that cannot exist?"

"Woodrow Wilson towers above them all," says Mr. Harris. "He is the big American. There is no man who knows America as he knows it and there is no set of men living that can control him."

HALLOWEEN PARTY

A very pleasant Halloween party was held Friday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Hiltz, Berkeley avenue. During the evening a musical program was carried out as follows: Piano solos, Mr. Richard Carlin, Miss Lorine Tartar, Miss Sadie Carr and Miss Mary Egan; vocal solos by Miss Esther Shaw, Mr. Thomas Carlin, Miss Babe Lavine, Miss Etta Donohue and Mr. Arthur McCann; hula hula dance by Miss Esther Cooney and Mr. James McCann. General dancing followed. Refreshments were served. Friends were present from Lawrence, Haverhill and Boston. The success of the affair was due to the efforts of Misses Margaret Hiltz, Etta Donohue, Sadie Carr, Esther Shaw and Mrs. Martin Hiltz.

ANOTHER JUMP IN HIGH COST OF KEEPING WARM

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The high cost of keeping warm took another jump here today. Householders in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx learned that coal in the domestic sizes, egg and nut, now brings $12 a ton.

Dealers attributed the increase to the tremendous consumption of coal in factories throughout the country, which are running day and night to fill war and other orders; to the natural increase of coal orders at this time of the year; to the inability of railroads, because of a shortage of equipment, to haul all the coal that is ordered, and to the large increases in shipments of coal to foreign countries, chiefly Canada, munition factories.

There is no shortage, it is said, in the coal supply.

Anthracite coal operators declare that the shortage of labor is largely responsible for high prices. Thousands of mine workers have returned to their homes in Europe to fight and others have gone to earn better wages in war munition factories.

ELMER BUCKLAND DEAD

Well Known Printer Passed Away This Morning After an Illness of Several Months

Elmer E. Buckland, proprietor and manager of the Buckland Printing Co. in Middle street, died today, aged 45 years, 1 month and 16 days. He had been in poor health for several months. He tried change of climate, consulted specialists and did everything possible for the restoration of his former health, but he fell into a gradual decline that resulted in his death today. Elmer Buckland had many friends in Lowell and while they knew of his failing health, the news of his death will be more or less a shock to them. He was honest and upright in his dealings and those who knew him best loved him most. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Katherine Buckland; one daughter, Barbara; his father, Gardner E. Buckland, and two sisters, Miss Cora Buckland and Mrs. C. Marshall Forrest. Deceased was for several years a member of the Yorick, Vesper Country, Highland and Central clubs, and retained his membership in the Yorick club up to the time of his death.

PULMOTOR SAVED SANBORN'S LIFE

HAVERHILL, Oct. 31.—When he had been revived by use of the pulmotor after inhaling illuminating gas early yesterday morning, John Sanborn, aged 54, of 66 Emerson street, told the police that he had taken bichloride of mercury and would end his life the first chance he had. Sanborn was committed to the state insane hospital at Danvers yesterday afternoon.

Sanborn, it is said, has been suffering from mental derangement for several weeks. He had told his son-in-law that if he failed to report for work at the shoe factory where he is employed that he would be found dead in his room. Yesterday morning Sanborn failed to appear when the factory opened and when fellow workmen went to his room they found him lying on his bed, overcome by gas.

A call was sent to the police station and a pulmotor was rushed to the scene. City Physician H. M. Crittenden and Medical Examiner John F. Croston also hastened to the house. By use of the pulmotor Sanborn was revived. He told the physicians that he had turned the gas on at 4 o'clock and that previously he had taken bichloride of mercury and that he intended to end his life.

LOWELL FANS WILL WATCH RIVET WORK

CANADIAN CHAMPION WILL DEMAND MATCH FROM MIKE GLOVER IF HE LICKS RYAN

A large crowd of local fans will go to Lawrence next Thursday evening to watch George Rivet, the welterweight champion of Canada, perform against Billy Ryan of New Brunswick, N. J. This will be Rivet's first bout around these parts in three years as he has done all his fighting in Canada, where he has defeated all of the province's best boxers and many American pugilists who went up there to try and break the former Lowell boy's sensational run of victories.

Ryan comes to Lawrence with a good record, and his handlers claim that he will defeat any welterweight in New England. If Ryan wins from Rivet, he will be in a position to demand a match of Mike Glover, welterweight champion of New England, for a championship bout.

Rivet fought his first two battles in this city and then went north in search of ring work and that he has made good his ring record will show, Johnny Lustig, Johnny Lore, Patsy Drouillard and several other well known fighters having fallen victims to the champion's cleverness. There will be two eight-round bouts in addition to feature bout, which will be one of 12 rounds.

Joseph D. Ryan of North Chelmsford is confined to St. John's hospital in this city, suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident at Harvard Sunday. In order to avoid a collision with another automobile the driver of the car in which Mr. Ryan was riding drove his auto into a tree. Mr. Ryan was thrown out and received a compound fracture of the arm.

Abel R. Campbell, the well known real estate dealer, had a narrow escape from being seriously injured when his automobile skidded in Middlesex street early last night and struck a water hydrant at Garnet street, putting the hydrant out of commission and causing a flow of water through the street. HUB HOTEL MAN SUES

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Charging that he was evicted from the American house, Hanover street, last summer, Allen C. Jones, former proprietor of the hotel, has brought suit for $250,000 damages against J. Sumner Draper, a prominent Boston real estate man.

Included in the suit is a claim for $5000 to which Jones says he is entitled to receive from Draper under the provisions relating to a termination of the lease. Draper denies that he evicted Jones and says that after the latter had refused to leave the American house, when the lease was terminated, a writ of ejectment was asked in the court. The execution, Draper says, was never served because Jones voluntarily quit the premises.

WALSH SAYS IT'S WILSON

Ex-Governor, Back From a Three Weeks' Tour of Middle West, Reports Landslide in Prospect

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Ex-Gov. David I. Walsh, who paid a flying visit to this city yesterday after three weeks in the middle west, predicted the election o' President Wilson. The ex-governor spent the morning in Boston, leaving at 1 o'clock for Hartford, where he spoke last evening.

"It is easy to indulge in extravagant statements," he said yesterday, "but my observations in the past three weeks, during which I have traveled through the middle west, convince me that President Wilson will be re-elected. The middle west is far more excited over the campaign than is the east. The size of the meetings there was a big surprise to me.

"The sentiment for Wilson is very strong throughout the middle west. Independent republicans and progressives are more outspoken in declaring their intention to vote for Wilson. Ohio seems to be absolutely certain. In Indiana the fight is very sharp; both sides have perfect organizations and the state has been thoroughly canvassed. Indiana will go for Wilson.

"I am not so confident of Illinois. There is a general feeling there, however, that the women and the farmers, with the slogan, 'He kept us out of war,' will carry Illinois for the president.

"From my observations I am certain that the Adamson eight-hour bill will work in the president's favor among railroad men and in railroad centers.

"I believe that West Virginia will unquestionably go democratic. In Chicago I talked with leading democrats who have campaigned in Colorado, Nebraska, California, Oregon, Washington and other states of the far west and they report those states to be overwhelmingly for Wilson. There is strong evidence of a landslide, and I would not be in the least surprised if President Wilson swept the country.

LICENSE COMMISSION HEARS EVIDENCE IN HOTEL CASES

The license commission held a special meeting last evening for the purpose of hearing evidence in connection with complaints filed by Supt. of Police Redmond Welch against five innholders relative to the conduct of their Sunday business. None of the hotel men was represented by counsel, H. F. Mellen of the St. Charles and George H. Barrett of the New American waived the reading of the complaints against them and they were granted continuances until Wednesday evening, November 8, at 8 o'clock.

The charges against Garrity & Co., doing business as the Washington tavern, Thomas J. Hart of the New Merrimack and Martin W. Halloran of the Arlington were heard last evening but no action was taken by the commissioners.

Besides the members of the police department to testify William C. McNamara, Jr., field secretary of the Anti-Saloon league, was called by Supt. Welch in two cases. Mr. McNamara told of his observations in the Washington tavern and the New Merrimack hotel on the night of October 22.

No charge that liquor was served to a minor or to a person without food was made. Supt. Welch contended that the large number of people found in the hotels after "meal hours" was evidence that liquor was being sold to persons other than guests. He quoted a legal definition of the word "guest" as termed by the superior court. He said:

"A neighbor or friend, who is no traveler, is not a guest. A guest is first one who comes from a distance and second a particular guest, who is entertained." During the hearing of the three cases both Liquor Inspectors Holland and Cooney testified that they noted a "wonderful" improvement in the hotels on Sunday, October 22, over previous Sundays. The improvements had to do with the number of guests and the conditions found. Both officers said that they found nothing that would warrant the bringing of complaints against any of the hotels.

The case of Garrity & Co. was first heard. Liquor Inspector James H. Holland testified that he visited the Washington tavern on Sunday, October 22, at 4.30 o'clock and found 42 men sitting at tables in the dining room. They were served soup, beans, pie, eggs, vegetables and liquors. At 8.20 o'clock on the same evening he again visited the tavern and saw 18 men there. All were drinking and eating. By liquor he meant beer, ale, whiskey, gin, etc. Inspector Holland said that he never saw the dining room being used during the week.

"Did you see anything that made you think there ought to be a complaint made against this house, any intoxicated persons or any young men?" asked Chairman Hanson.

"If I did I would have made a complaint," answered the inspector.

In explaining the variety of food on the tables, the witness said that some of the men had an egg, others a salad and some a sandwich.

"Did you find any tea, coffee or milk served in that room?" asked Commissioner Boulger.

"I saw ginger ale. A few weeks ago I saw coffee served in that room."

"What would you consider the principal business, the sale of liquor or food?" Commissioner Boulger continued.

"I think the men go there for their beer."

In answer to a question by Supt. Welch, Inspector Holland said that he found every man eating and therefore did not think it necessary to make any complaint.

"In my opinion," said Commissioner Boulger, addressing Supt. Welch, "this is no childish play in bringing charges against these men unless you have evidence to verify them. We are here to investigate the complaints and want the facts."

"What did you mean by the statement that you did not see anything to induce you to make a complaint?" asked Supt. Welch.

"The men all had food and I thought that covered the law. I didn't see a man without food."

"I presume you wouldn't say that the men went there for liquor?" asked Chairman Hanson.

"I couldn't swear as to that."

Holland's Testimony Corroborated

Inspector Alfred J. Cooney corroborated Inspector Holland's testimony relative to the number of people in the tavern.

"What was the quantity of the food served to each man?" asked Supt. Welch.

"If a man had beer, he also had catsup and bread. With soup or an egg they served either crackers or bread. Some of the men had beer, others gin or whiskey but mostly beer."

"Each man had something?"

"Yes."

The inspector said that he didn't know whether the men belonged in Lowell or were travellers.

"Did you make any note of the number of people you saw leave their places with food untouched?" asked Commissioner Boulger.

"No. Everybody ate something."

"You didn't see any drunks or any minors?" questioned Mr. Hanson.

"No."

"On the whole what did you find?" he continued.

"An improvement of the Sundays previous," the inspector answered. Mr. Holland verified this, saying that it was a wonderful improvement.

"What was the nature of the improvement?" queried Commissioner Boulger.

"There were not so many men and the tables were not so numerous. The men present that Sunday were the cleanest of the previous diners."

"You say there was an improvement?" asked Supt. Welch.

"Yes, a better cut of men."

"Was there a better variety of food?"

"Mr. Garrity always had a good variety of food."

"Did you see any reason why a complaint should be made?" asked Chairman Hanson.

"No, sir."

"What is your best judgment as to the place of residence of the men?"

"I couldn't say."

Supt. Welch Testifies

Supt. Welch then testified in part as follows:

"I called at the Washington tavern at 8.40. Found Mr. Garrity there and 47 men in the dining room. They were generally served beer. Some had sandwiches, some eggs, soup or pie. The waiters carried a bill of fare and submitted it to the men at the tables. Half a dozen or more of the men greeted me as 'Mr. Welch.' That was the extent of my observations. I saw nobody drunk or no minors there."

"You saw it the same as the other officers?" said Mr. Hanson.

"Only I saw 47 men."

Supt. Welch said that a Mr. McNamara was present, who would like to testify. He was sworn.

William C. McNamara

He said: "My name is William C. McNamara, 33 Burtt street, Lowell. I went to the Washington tavern on Sunday, Oct. 22, at 9.25 in the evening. I entered through the hall to the room on the left and found 65 men there. We were in there 25 minutes, and saw sandwiches, soup, doughnuts and other small articles. At one table I noticed a dish of soup and sandwich that had not been eaten. At 7.15 o'clock there was a man at the door saying 'Nothing doing, gents.' One man was held up by a clerk and Mr. Garrity appeared at the door and said there was room inside."

"You were allowed in, weren't you?" asked Mr. Garrity.

"Yes."

Mr. Garrity then said that he saw Mr. McNamara drive to the hotel in a machine, that he knew who he was and did not try to prevent him from entering. He said that he had tried to conduct his business properly and was not to blame for the large number of men in the hotel.

"How do you account for the large number?" one of the commissioners asked.

"They order food and the law allows me to sell. My prices are cheap and they attract the working class." He said that the large number of visitors to a city on Sundays and holidays made business heavier on those days.

New Merrimack Hotel

The evidence in the case of M. J. Hart & Co., New Merrimack hotel, was practically the same. The liquor officers testified that at 5.50 o'clock on Sunday, Oct. 22, they found 64 men being served in the dining room. At 9.50 there were 38 men. Some of the men came from New Hampshire on motorcycles.

Supt. Welch said that he visited the Merrimack hotel as a result of a visit from Mr. McNamara. He saw 68 men in the two dining rooms, eating and drinking.

"Are those places conducted as well as in the last eight or ten years?" asked Commissioner Putnam.

"For sometime past there has been an increase in the number of men."

"Might it not be true that some of these men have no homes, and board where they only get two meals on Sundays?" continued Mr. Putnam.

"Yes."

"In your opinion what was the principal business?"

"Sale of liquor."

Mr. Putnam then said: "If these men are violating the law I want to punish them. If they are not, it is another thing. Why bring the matter to the license commissioners, who are not lawyers, without a court decision? Couldn't you take one of the best cases you have in Lowell to the courts and get a decision?"

Supt. Welch said that three or four years ago cases were brought to the courts at a great expense with a jury disagreement the result. He thought that the same thing would happen again.

"You seem to be putting up something to the license commission that the courts don't want to handle," continued Mr. Putnam. "I would like to see a case taken to Judge Enright to see what action he would take."

Mr. McNamara also visited the New Merrimack. A minister accompanied him to the door. He asked Mr. Hart: "Do you think you are giving the license commissioners and the mayor a square deal?" and Mr. Hart answered, "What do you want me to do?" Mr. McNamara accused a man of being drunk and had some talk with him.

Mr. Hart accounted for the large patronage at his hotel by saying that he had visitors from Nashua and Manchester. Railroad men also stop there for lunch, he said, because it is so handy.

The Arlington Hotel

In the case of Martin W. Halloran of the Arlington, the inspectors testified that at 4.15 o'clock there were 32 men in the dining rooms and at 8.25 there were 42. All were eating and drinking the same as in the other places and no intoxicants or minors were seen. Supt. Welch at 7.40 o'clock saw 61 men there. He recognized eight or nine as Lowell men.

Mr. Halloran said that he did a big lunch business. Men come to my place to get small lunches at all hours, he said.

"The burden of proof is on you, and I'd like to know how you account for so many men being there," said Commissioner Boulger.

"They are there every night," answered Mr. Halloran.

Supt. Welch then read the legal definition of a "guest," and said that was the reason he brought the complaints.

"Did you see any improvements in the hotels over three or four weeks ago?" asked Mr. Hanson.

"I hadn't stepped into the hotels for sometime until that Sunday. I wouldn't have then if my attention had not been called to the Merrimack. I thought that it would be fair to go to all of them."

"Where would you draw the line? Would you let in 20 and turn the next 20 away?"

"I think the proprietor should use his own judgment."

"You brought the complaints from what you saw personally, didn't you?" asked Mr. Hanson.

"The complaints were based on the reports and my observations."

"Do you think the officers' reports warrant the bringing of complaints?" was asked.

"I don't care to discuss that now."

The meeting was then adjourned without any decisions.

SMALL LOAN BANK FOR LOWELL

As a result of a meeting of business and professional men at the Yorick club last night it was practically settled that Lowell will have an industrial bank on what is known as the Morris plan, to issue small loans at a reasonable rate of interest and payable in regular instalments.

Mr. Herrick Brown of the Industrial Finance corporation of New York explained to those present the Morris system, which is simply a bank for making small loans at a moderate rate of interest to those who would not be likely to have sufficient credit to secure loans through the other banks doing business in our city. Such a bank would put the loan sharks out of business.

Mr. Brown, after explaining the operation of the system, said that banks of this sort were operated in many New England cities and proved very successful and very beneficial to the people in such cities as New Bedford, Fall River, Holyoke, Manchester, N. H. He said there are at present 51 such banks in operation in different cities of the country and that they have 200,000 borrowers.

Mr. Brown answered many questions from gentlemen present and after some discussion, on motion of one of the bank men present, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, that we, the undersigned, recognizing the need in this community of an institution where wage earners and people of moderate means may secure loans upon fair conditions and at a reasonable rate of interest, and having considered the methods of operation and the statements of success heretofore secured in other cities by the operation of the Morris Plan of Industrial Loans and Investments, recommend the establishment of such an institution in Lowell. We are of the opinion that the plan proposed is practical and safe in operation, reasonably profitable, and that such an organization would be of great benefit to this community."

It was voted that those present constitute the organization committee. Hon. John Jacob Rogers was nominated for president, but he declined on the ground that he would not have the necessary time to attend to the duties of the office. Mr. Robert F. Marden was then named as president, and he agreed to serve. The organization stands as follows:

Robert F. Marden, president of the board of trade, chairman; Hon. John Jacob Rogers, Franklin Nourse, George Stevens, Philip S. Marden, Larkin T. Trull, J. Harry Boardman, George E. King, Royal P. White, Dudley L. Page, John H. Harrington, Edward B. Carney, John F. Sawyer, Amasa Pratt, Henry W. Barnes, Frederick A. Flather, Frederick P. Marble, Frank E. Dunbar, Hon. Frederic A. Fisher, John H. Murphy, Harry Dunlap, Frank P. McGilly, Arthur T. Safford, Percy Gulline and C. I. Hood.

The Finance corporation of New York will underwrite the stock and subscribe one-quarter of the $100,000 capital of the bank. The Lowell bank is to be incorporated and a down town location is to be secured as soon as possible.

The bank will be under the control of the loan commission of the state.

This plan of bank is quite common in European countries. It is said to have originated in Germany. The system of loans will be available to any worthy person for legitimate purposes. The applicant is to fill a blank giving particulars as to occupation and other details and for what the money is needed. The applicant must have two endorsers, who will between them meet the instalments in case the person contracting the loan fails to pay them.

The terms are made very easy. For example, a loan of $50 or $100 might be made payable in weekly instalments and at a rate of interest that would not exceed 6 per cent. The rate charged by some of the loan agencies amounts to 100 or even 200 per cent in a year, so that those who get involved in such obligations can never get out of debt.

It is expected that this bank when once started will be of great benefit to the wage earners of the community, who in the past have had no opportunity of securing small loans at a fair rate of interest.

EXPLAINS RECENT VOTE IN AUSTRALIA

TRADE COMMISSIONER TELLS HOW CONSCRIPTION WAS DEFEATED

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The heavy vote against conscription recently cast in Australia, says T. E. Quinn, trade commissioner for the government of New South Wales cannot be taken as conclusive and may be reversed by the votes of Australian soldiers on foreign battlefields, which are now being taken by a government commission.

"The vote," said Mr. Quinn, "was mainly due to three causes, first, to the ingrained opposition, in the most advanced democracy in the world to anything resembling coercion; second, to a struggle within the labor party for control of the movement, and third, to the popular feeling in Australia that the war is nearly fought to victory and that, consequently conscription in Australia is unnecessary."

RAPS ENTENTE FOR ACTS TOWARD GREECE

LONDON PAPER SAYS ENTENTE HAS GIVEN GREEK KING POWER TO PUNISH VENIZELOS

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Although no comment had yet been published here regarding the displacement of D. Calamanos, the Greek minister to Washington owing to his pro-Venizelos views much indignation is expressed on the ground that the entente allies allowed the Greek government to displace numerous other public officials for similar reasons.

The Morning Post publishes reports from Paris and Athens that the entente allies definitely have decided not to recognize the Venizelos movement and demands that the British parliament insist that this action be reconsidered. The Post says:

"If the allies refuse to recognize the Venizelos government they thereby admit that the soldiers and officers who adhere to that government are rebels and that officials and magistrates who support Venizelos are traitors, that Venizelos himself and his friends have no status; that they are all liable to be cashiered, imprisoned, dismissed or shot by the Athens government and that is apparently just what is being done—Venizelos supporters in the army, magistracy and other public officers are being arrested, cashiered, punished at wholesale without even the formalities required by law.

"The allies, indeed, are placing in the hands of King Constantine the indisputable title to punish patriots who are the allies' best friends. Parliament, if it is not altogether lost to the honor of the country, should insist that the Venizelist party shall not be betrayed into the hands of their enemies."

IMPORTATION OF COTTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Regulations governing importation of cotton, designed to prevent introduction of the pink boll worm were amended today by the department of agriculture to include burlap or other fabric used for wrapping cotton and to which cotton is adhering. Considerable quantities of such fabrics are being imported for use in making certain grades of paper and for other purposes. Such material freed from adhering cotton and disinfected abroad, as well as second hand or used burlap or other fabric ordinarily employed in wrapping cotton but which has not been used, may be admitted. American cotton bagging, commonly known as coarse gunn used only to cover cotton grown in the United States may be admitted under proper certification without disinfection. All forms of manufactured and semi-manufactured cotton now admitted without disinfection or restriction as to distribution, shipment or storage, must be covered with wrappings, which would not require disinfection under the new amendment which becomes effective Jan. 1, next.

LODGE CHARGE UNTRUE, SAYS PRES. WILSON AND EX-SEC. BRYAN

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 31.—President Wilson last night characterized as "untrue" the statement made by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts to the effect that the president had seriously considered adding a weakening postscript to his "strict accountability" Lusitania note.

The president telegraphed to Walter Lippmann of New York, editor of the New Republic, replying to a message from Mr. Lippmann regarding Senator Lodge's statement:

The president's telegram follows:

NO POSTSCRIPT WRITTEN

"In reply to your telegram let me say that the statement made by Senator Lodge is untrue.

"No postscript or amendment of the Lusitania note was ever written or contemplated by me except such changes that I myself inserted which strengthened and emphasized the protest.

"It was suggested after the note was ready for transmission that an intimation be conveyed to the German government that a proposal for arbitration would be acceptable and one member of the cabinet spoke to me about it, but it was never discussed in cabinet meeting and no threat of any resignation was ever made, for the very good reason that I rejected the suggestion after giving it such consideration as I thought every proposal deserved which touched so grave a matter.

"It was inconsistent with the purpose of the note. The public is in possession of everything that was said to the German government.

(Signed) "Woodrow Wilson."

UNTRUE, SAYS BRYAN

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 31.—William J. Bryan, former secretary of state, denied here last night that there was any truth in the story that a postscript had been written to the Lusitania note advising the German government the strong language of the note should not be taken seriously and that later the postscript was withdrawn.

"I take it for granted," Mr. Bryan said, "that the president will deal with the case as he deems wise, if indeed any attention need be paid it, after Mr. Breckinridge's denial."

Mr. Bryan would make no further comment except to call attention to the fact that his resignation was not tendered at the time the first Lusitania note, to which the alleged postscript was attached, was written but at the time the second note was written, which was nearly a month later.

LODGE REPEATS CHARGE

FITCHBURG, Oct. 31.—Standing before an audience last night in city hall that had just cheered him to the echo Senator Henry Cabot Lodge read a letter from a Boston friend, who said that the senior senator's statement in regard to the now famous "postscript" on the second Lusitania note was a fact.

John Temple Lloyd Jeffries, 105 Marlboro street, was the author of the letter that Senator Lodge read, and who later said "made out his case." was to an audience of upwards of 15[illegible] people that Senator Lodge read the letter, following which he attacked the administration and its policies in a speech that was frequently applauded.

Mr. Jeffries in his letter to Senator Lodge said that he regretted being drawn into the affair, but he added that he could not sit "idly by and see [illegible] called a liar when I know your statements are true."
